THE CONFLICT IN PARIS.

Desperation of the Communists—Implacability of the Versaillists—No Quarter.

VERSAILLES, May 25—Thursday Evening.—New fires are bursting out in Paris. The insurgents put boxes of petroleum everywhere. It is reported that the Tuileries were fired by BERGERET'S own hands. The building, they say, was steeped in petroleum.

The Church of Saint Germain l'Auxerrois and the Hotel de Ville have been burnt down, and Palais of Justice destroyed. RAVAL PIGAULT, Chief of the Communist Police, and CORBET, superintendent of the destruction of the Vendome column, have been captured and shot. A number of prisoners, among them a hundred women of the demi-monde, taken fighting for the Commune, have arrived here. The insurgents possess only one fort—Issy—commanded by Bicetre. Blood runs in the gutters of the streets. The walls of the Tuileries have fallen. The Louvre and all the great edifices near the Tuileries are in flames. The Rue Rivoli is burning. The only means of stopping the fire is by pails of water passed from hand to hand. Dead bodies of Nationals are seen everywhere. Any hidden Nationals when found are brought out and shot immediately, and no pity is shown. A few of the Communists are still holding out, and shelling the city, doing the utmost mischief possible. The slaughter of the Nationals is frightful, and the Versaillists, since Tuesday, are killing all prisoners. The houses in the Rue Royale were wet with petroleum, and the Nationals fired them. The people are furious in consequence. I saw numbers of the Communist sympathizers killed, and among them was a young man, handsomely dressed, with hands tied and brains blown out, and lying on the street. It is clear that the insurgents intended to destroy the whole city. Even women were discovered throwing petroleum upon the houses, and six members of the National Guard, who were dressed as paupers, and who threw petroleum on the fires instead of water, were shot in the Place Royale. There is no limit to the readiness that exists to kill the members of the Commune, and the leaders of the Guards taken were shot right off. The gas-works at Aubervilliers exploded. There are also many other explosions. The firing continues.

The Insurgents Driven from Point to Point and Slaughtered Without Mercy—Thousands of Prisoners Taken—Leaders Who Have Been Shot—Furious Fighting at Pantin.

LONDON, May 26.—Paris dispatches announce that the Rue Royale has been destroyed by mines. The insurgents have been driven into the cemetery of Pere la Chaise, where they are surrounded, and must be captured. The Daily News' special dispatch mentions a rumor that the hostages in the Mazas Prison have been shot. The Liberté says the Foreign Powers have promised the extradition of the members of the Commune in the event of their escape from France. M. COURBET, a prominent Communist, has been shot by the Versaillists.

OUTSIDE OF PARIS, Friday Morning, May 26.—The cannonade against the insurgent position at Belleville has been vigorously resumed. Terrible fires are still raging inside of Paris. The Northern Railway has been repaired, but entrance to the city is still refused. The German positions at Aubervilliers and elsewhere have been strengthened, to prevent the escape of the insurgents. The Germans permit only the women and children inhabiting the burning quarters of Paris to leave the city.

VERSAILLES, May 26.—The insurrection has been crushed out in the quartier Mouffilard of Paris, where 6,000 prisoners have been captured. The insurgents are still confined to Belleville and les Buttes Chaumont, whence petroleum shells are fired all over Paris. The following leading insurgents have been shot: VALLES, AMOREUX, BRUNEL, RIGAULT, DOMBSOWSKI and BOUSQUET. The reported arrest of PYAT, DELESCLUZE and CLUSERET is yet unconfirmed. It is rumored that all the hostages held by the insurgents are safe, but nothing positive is yet known in relation to them. The following-named public buildings have been destroyed: The Palace of the Tuileries, the Ministry of Finance, the Prefecture of Police, the Court of Accounts, Palace of the Legion of Honor, the barracks in the Quay d'Orsay, the Hotel de Ville, and the Mont de Piete. The following have been saved: The Ministries of Marine, Interior, Foreign Affairs and Agriculture, the Pantheon, the Ecole Militaire, the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, the Bank of France, the Credit Foncier, and the churches generally. Marshal MCMAHON has sent to the insurgents a last summons to surrender, in which he says that all who may hereafter be captured with arms in their hands will be shot. The collections in the Louvre have all been saved except the library, in which a great many valuable books were destroyed. The National Library and the grand levree are safe. The insurgents still hold Bercy, the Place de la Bastille, Menilmontant, Charonne and Belleville. The Government troops have captured the Mazas Prison and the Lyons and Orleans Railroad stations. The hostages held by the insurgents in the Mazas had been transferred to the prison of Pequette. The insurgents have evacuated and blown up Fort d'Ivry. The Government forces are now attacking the Place de la Bastille. At noon today, a furious battle was in progress near Pantin.

OUTSIDE OF PARIS, May 26—3 P. M.—The battle of Pantin continues. The insurgents are being attacked on three sides by the Government troops. Conflagration of Paris continues.

Dispatch from Mr. Washburne—American Property Safe.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The following telegram was received by Secretary FISH this evening from Minister WASHBURNE, dated today:

"There is fighting in remote parts of the city. Some new fires. Americans and their property all safe."

The British Parliament—The Returning German Army—A Compromise on Alsace.

LONDON, May 26.—In the House of Commons, last night, an amendment offered by the Opposition to the Army Registration bill, and intended to kill the bill, was rejected by sixteen majority. Mr. GLADSTONE announced that Parliament would adjourn for the Whitsuntide recess today, (Friday.)

BERLIN, May 26.—The Speuer Gazette announces that the triumphal entry of the German Army into Berlin will take place on the 16th of June, and that the 18th of the same month will be observed as a day of thanksgiving throughout the Empire. Prince BISMARCK has agreed to a compromise upon the Alsace question, making the government of the conquered territory a dictatorship until 1873. The sanction of the Reichstag is, however, to be required for the raising of loans in Alsace.

M. Jules Favre on the Treaty of Peace—The Payment of the Indemnity.

In the sitting of the French National Assembly, on May 13, M. JULES FAVRE presented the treaty of peace with Germany, which he moved should be referred to the Bureaux for examination. After dwelling upon the fatal effects of the insurrection which broke out on the 18th of March, and which had again placed everything in a state of uncertainty, he proceeded as follows: "Doubts were expressed as to our power to conduct our own affairs, and to restore the authority of the law. Even the final conclusion of peace had become doubtful; but we have succeeded in removing Prince BISMARCK'S distrust, and in convincing him that France, having signed the treaty, was resolved to carry out all its provisions. The plenipotentiaries felt that in the interest of both countries it was necessary the treaty should be concluded. Unfortunately, we were not able to shake off the heavy chains with which the Parisian insurrection bound us down. The insurgents are responsible for having rendered the position of their country worse than is was before. They have compelled the Germans to continue their occupation of the forts; but we will speedily restore order by force, and will hesitate before no measures which may be rendered necessary by the conduct of the insurgents. With regard to the other clauses of the treaty, they are the same as in the preliminaries. The second part of the war indemnity will be paid in three years; we have hastened the time for paying the first part, in order to free the country sooner from occupation by the Germans. The purchase of the railways for 325,000,000f. will be taken into account in the first two milliards which we have to pay. The clauses concerning the treaty of commerce will, I trust, meet with careful consideration on your part. The Ministers will prove to you that we have obtained all that was possible. We have acquired a circle of eight kilometres round Belfort. Germany proposes to cede us the whole Arrondissement of Belfort in return for some territory which constitutes our frontier line in the direction of Luxembourg. You will have to consider this proposal." M. JULES FAVRE then read the text of the treaty, and added: "The payment of the first half milliard will be made after Germany has recognized the fact of order being restored in Paris. The payment of the second milliard will be effected on the 1st of May, 1872, and the last two milliards in May, 1874. The delivery of the war indemnity must be made in money, gold or silver, in notes of the banks of England, Prussia, Holland or Belgium, or in first-class bills. The Departments of the Somme, Seine Inférieure, and Eure will be evacuated at once, and the Departments of the Oise, Seine-et-Oise, Seine-et-Marne, and Seine when the German Government considers order sufficiently restored, but only after the payment of the third half milliard. The German troops in France will not make any requisitions unless delays arise in the payment of the contribution for their maintenance. A reduction of the sum allowed them will be made when the strength of their forces is reduced below 500,000 men. With regard to commercial relations, Germany will be treated on the same footing as the most favored nations—namely, England, Belgium, &c. The Germans who have been expelled from France will be restored to the possession of their property and to the rights of domicile on French territory. The French prisoners in Germany will return to France; those who are no longer liable to military service will return to their homes, and the others will re-enter the army, but not to exceed 80,000 men before Paris. The garrison towns in the Departments may be occupied; 20,000 men will be sent to Lyons in order to proceed to Algeria. The remainder of the army will remain behind the Loire."

After-Incidents of the Commune's Fall—The Government of the Future.

From the London Times, May 16.

With the fall of the Commune the reconstruction of the Constitution becomes an urgent necessity. Unfortunately the faults in the political character of the nation which have made the existence of the Commune possible will not disappear because the Commune itself has passed away. It is the misfortune of France that the idea of constitutional progress has never sunk into the minds of the people, and it is repudiated by political theorists whose devotion to the necessities of logic, as understood by themselves, will not allow them to consent to institutions which fail in practice to realize perfectly their own principles. Few are content to take a lower form of political organization with a resolute intention to make it approximate more closely to their ideal Constitution. An impatience of slow progress, and a consequent resentment of compromise, constitute the standing difficulty in the progress of France. The yearnings after order and peace of a nation wearied by dissension and disaster appear just now to support a movement in favor of HENRY V., and it is even said that the Assembly of Versailles is prepared to accept him as King. We cannot but regret the growth of a movement which could not, under any circumstances, give promise of stability, and which would, too probably, provoke instant outbursts of violence if an attempt were made to consummate it in the manner indicated by report. The Comte DE CHAMBORD has never shown any disposition to abate one tittle of his hereditary pretensions. In the manifestoes he puts forth from time to time he declares that he is waiting for the moment when France shall return to him, and he consistently treats his own authority as something derived from a higher sanction, against which the people have sinfully, if ignorantly, rebelled. The hope that such a representative of the Legitimist idea could become the head of a constitutional Government seems exceedingly precarious. The circumstances of his birth and education have revived in HENRI V. the spirit of his grandfather, and those who think he might be content to play the part of LOUIS XVIII. as a precursor to the succession of the younger line would too probably find that he faithfully reproduced the obstinate errors of CHARLES X. The character of the Comte is the great obstacle to a scheme for reuniting the two branches of the family of BOURBON, which might otherwise be feasible in itself, while offering France the means of achieving a Republic under the forms of constitutional monarchy. But, while we hold a Legitimist revival to be difficult and dangerous under any circumstances, we believe it would be fatal if attempted by the present Assembly. It is undeniable that the Assembly was not elected with any intention that it should undertake constituent functions. Its members were, indeed, chosen under such conditions, while a large part of France was still in the occupation of the enemy, and the whole country was paralyzed by the reaction from the passionate strain of the defense, that it is most desirable it should be dissolved at the earliest possible moment. A new election would not only instal an Assembly invested with full authority; it would be a powerful agent in healing the divisions of France. Many of those who would resist the Monarchical tendencies of the present body would acquiesce in a similar course on the part of its successor if specially chosen for the purpose of determining the future constitution of the country. Even if the new Assembly were to call upon the Comte DE CHAMBORD to ascend the throne, it might be permitted to make the experiment. We shall not, however, believe that the political wisdom of France, imperfect as it is, can suggest nothing better than a Legitimist restoration until a Legitimist restoration is effected. If this is to be the mode of escape from existing disorders, it can only prove the first stage in a recurrence of the old cycle, ending again in disorder. After more than half a century, the dreary round will be again begun, for the reconciliation of authority and freedom will still be unsolved.

Movements in the Catholic Church—Doellinger's Friends and Foes.

The following, says the German Correspondent, are the most important events which have lately occurred in connection with the movement in the Catholic Church. The new dogma was proclaimed at Beyreuth on the 31st ult., together with the excommunication of all who had signed the Munich address to the Government of the 10th of April. On the following day a letter of thanks to Dr. DOELLINGER for his opposition to the dogma, and a declaration approving of the Munich address, both of which were signed by numerous Catholics, were sent from that town. In Würzburg and Passau similar declarations are being signed. The Augsburg address has received 900, and that of Kronach 152 signatures. The first series of addresses to the King of Bavaria in favor of Dr. DOELINGER are said to have received more than 10,000 signatures. On the other hand, a very large number of protests against the declaration of Dr. DOELLINGER have appeared, and are still in the course of preparation. Those which are already published have for the most part proceeded from the clergy, who protest against the assertion that "thousands of priests" are opposed to the decision of the Council. The supporters of the doctrine of infallibility assert that more time is required to collect lay signatures, but some lay addresses have already been made public. The Vaterland gives a German translation of a Latin address presented to the Pope by the Catholic students of Würzburg, in which, after referring to the occupation of Rome by the Italians, they assure his Holiness of their unwavering devotion. The number of students who signed the document is not stated.

Sweden's Intentions and Prussia's Interests.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

Some sensation has been produced at Stockholm by the intelligence that Prince BISMARCK has called upon the Hamburg Senate to report whether the acquisition of the islands of Spitzbergen by Sweden would be advantageous or otherwise for the commercial and shipping interests of Germany. This news was a great surprise to the Swedes, as the intention of the Swedish Government to obtain possession of the islands in question had been hitherto kept secret. It now appears that the Government proposes to establish a colony in these islands "for scientific purposes," and that it has notified its intention to England, Germany, Russia, France, Denmark and the United States. A meteorological and magnetic observatory is to be erected there, and in order to obtain the necessary security and control the whole territory is to be placed under the Swedish rule. This project is connected with the Arctic expedition, which is to start this Summer from the northern coast of Spitzbergen, under the direction of Prof. NORDENSKIOLD, with the object of penetrating as far as possible in the direction of the North Pole.

A Hot Day in the City.

The hot weather has fairly set in. Early yesterday morning the change was evident even to those asleep; bed-coverings were restlessly kicked aside, and in many cases, even with this relief, sleep was impossible. As the day advanced the heat became more intense; and as if to add to the misery, it did not seem to have a corresponding effect upon the thermometers, which were obstinate enough to stay at a comparatively temperate point. Indeed, a strange irregularity seemed to manifest itself in everything connected with the weather. Instead of being cool in the shade, it seemed as if the clammy atmosphere attracted all the heat, and it was necessary to go out into the sunlight to dry the "dem'd unpleasant moist body." Those who suffered most, perhaps, were the active business men in the narrow streets; and it was pleasing to notice the delighted expression that would come over the faces of these unfortunates when they felt a cool breeze draw up from some basement they were passing.

Up-town the effect of the heat seemed to be to keep most persons in their houses; and the streets and retail stores were but scantily filled. Through the afternoon the sky was overcast, and many were the anxious and prayerful glances cast toward the west, in the hope that the wished-for shower would soon come; but it was a false hope, for as fast as the clouds gathered the sun dispelled them, and at midnight the stars were shining through the still hot air. It would be difficult to estimate the amount of soda-water, ice-cream, and other chilling remedies that were consumed during the day; but the jaded condition of the clerks at the popular apothecary-shops last evening indicated that their labor had been constant and severe. The brute creation did not appear to suffer as much as the human race; doubtless on account of the extreme humidity of the atmosphere. From present indications, it would seem that we are to have another disagreeably hot day, though in this it is difficult to prognosticate, as an hour may bring about an entire change.

OVERCOME BY THE HEAT.

PATRICK ROAKE, aged twenty-six years, was found at 6 o'clock, last evening, in Church-street, prostrated by the heat, and was taken to Park Hospital.

DENNIS FITZGERALD, aged thirty-eight years, who had no residence, was suddenly taken ill, last evening, in the store No. 347 Spring-street, and was taken in charge of Officer BRODERICK, of the Twenty-eighth Precinct, to be taken to the Station-house, but died before reaching there. The Coroner was notified.

Decoration Day Preparations.

The following circular has been issued to the Posts of the Grand Army of the Republic in the Department of New-York:

Attention is hereby called to the action of the National Encampment held in Washington, D. C., May 11 and 12, 1870, designating the 30th day of May as a day of annual memorial services at the graves of our dead comrades. Posts of the Grand Army of the Republic will conduct the services in their several localities, and all loyal men, women and children are cordially invited to participate in the hallowed ceremonies; and it is hoped that no soldier's grave in this Department, however isolated or remote, will be neglected on this day of patriotic and Christian observance. Different posts, conveniently contiguous, are recommended to join in conducting these services. Detailed reports of proceedings will be made by post commanders to these head-quarters before the 10th day of June, for the purpose of publication in book form. Printed newspaper reports will also be forwarded at the same time when such are made. Posts are recommended to use the approved form of service accompanying this circular.

Comrades and Citizens: Five hundred thousand graves of patriot soldiers sanctify the soil of the country they died to save. Your rural cemeteries gently embrace a few and some thousands mutely bespeak the Government's kindly care in the national repositories, while other thousands billow the historic fields whereon was freely given life for country. Let your observance of this day be such as to carry solace to all war-bereaved relatives, and to the world give clarion-voiced assurance that patriotic deeds and sacrifices will ever be kept green in the memory of a people thereby saved and regenerated.

By command of H. A. BARNUM,
Department Commander.

Mr. B. W. THROCKMORTON will deliver the oration on Decoration Day in Jersey City. The graves at New-York Bay Cemetery and other places are to be decorated during the morning and afternoon. The oration will be delivered at 4 P. M. at the Reformed Church, Bergen-avenue.

Personal.

Sir Charles Clifford, of England; Gen. E. V. Sumner, of the United States Army; Ex-Gov. Buckingham and Congressman Barnum, of Connecticut; Senator Kellogg, of Louisiana, and Hon. E. A. Rollins, of Philadelphia, are at the Fifth-avenue Hotel. Hon. Isaac Buchana, Ex-Member of Parliament of Canada, is at the Everett House. Senator Pomeroy, of Kansas, and Ex-Mayor George Innis, of Poughkeepsie, are at the Astor House. Hon. B. F. Rice, of Arkansas, and Hon. L. Trumbull, of Illinois, are at the St. Nicholas Hotel. Gen. Moore, of the United States Army, is at the Grand Hotel. Hon. G. E. Finoty and Dr. Waddle, of New-Brunswick, are at the Grand Central Hotel. Gen. William B. Tibbetts, of Troy, and Capt. W. D. B. Jones, of Montreal, are at the Gilsey House.

GENERAL NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

VENEZUELA.

Arbitrary Arrest and Threatened Execution of an Englishman—Wreck of a Schooner.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 26.—The British Consul at Maracaibo has just arrived here, bringing the intelligence that a wealthy Englishman, a brother of the American Consul at that place, has been arrested, placed in irons, and thrown into prison; and that is believed he will be shot, the Government refusing the applications of both the British and American Consuls for an interview with the prisoner. The British Consul declares that the arrest is unwarranted by any act committed by the prisoner....The schooner Ines, from Maracaibo, for New-York, has been lost. The crew were rescued and brought to Kingston.

The Ottawa Forests Afire—Nova Scotian Dissatisfaction With the Treaty.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 26.—The country around Ottawa is threatened with a repetition of the terrible fires of last year. The whole country around Pembroke, Chelsea, Buckingham and Gatineau Point is filled with dense clouds of smoke. The fires are spreading rapidly. Prof. BERNARD, of the High Commission, is in town, the guest of Sir JOHN A. MCDONALD.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 26.—The flag-ship Royal Alfred, from Bermuda, with Admiral FANSHAW on board, arrived this morning. The rest of the fleet are expected soon; also the British flying squadron. The opposition journals are urging the Government to convene the Legislature, in order that the Treaty of Washington, as bearing upon the fisheries, may be discussed. The Chronicle of this morning has a very strong article denouncing the treaty.

RELIGIOUS CONVENTIONS.

Proceedings of the Young Men's Christian Association at Washington—Third Day.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26.—In the Christian Association Convention, today, the Committee on Resolutions reported that it was inexpedient to adopt the following resolutions: First, relating to woman's work, as the same is covered in a resolution of the Portland Convention; second, relating to the use of tobacco; third, relating to Paris, as in the judgment of the Committee it is not within the jurisdiction of the Convention; fourth, relating to the erection of a common temple, as the plan proposed does not seem to the Committee to be sufficiently matured to admit of action upon it. The fifth resolution, in relation to the Sabbath-schools, is recommended for adoption. The resolution reads:

Resolved, That this Convention is deeply interested in all proper efforts made to promote the better observance of the Christian Sabbath; and it therefore hails with pleasure the formation of all Sabbath associations, whose object is by moral influence, through personal effort, the pulpit and the press, to create a sound public sentiment upon this vitally important subject.

The sixth is recommended for adoption. It reads:

Resolved, That this Convention recognizes as a useful field of labor for the Master the large number of young men confined in the jails, penitentiaries and reformatory institutions of the land.

Mr. MCLEAN, from the Committee on the Executive Committee's report, submitted resolutions as follows:

That the Associations of the United States and British Provinces be and they are hereby recommended to observe the second Lord's Day in November next as a day of prayer to Almighty God for blessing upon the work of these societies throughout the world, and upon all efforts for the salvation of young men; that the Executive Committee be and they hereby are instructed to request kindred societies in other lands to unite with the Associations of America in the observance of this day, and the Executive Committee be empowered to designate and accredit delegates to represent the Associations of the United States and British Provinces at the World's Convention of Associations in London, England, to be held next Autumn; that the Convention hereby reaffirm the resolutions of the last Convention in regard to the Monthly, and directs that its publication be continued.

The report of the Committee was adopted. Subscriptions for the support of the Association, amounting to $6,280, were received.

Upon the discussion of the money topic, President WANNAMAKER stated that he had no doubt that of the 109 associations which had disbanded during the year, at least nine-tenths had failed because of mistakes in management. Of the 776 associations on the roll, twenty-one own halls, and the one in which they were now holding this Convention was a monument of what an association could do. There was not a merchant present who would not be bankrupt in six months if he allowed his business to be managed as that of some associations have been managed. He spoke of the value of the Press—even if it misrepresented them. They should go to the papers and get them to publish articles in relation to their work. He urged that the fees should be low, so low that the poor might be able to become members. He would not condemn Fairs as a means of obtaining money, but his experience was that, when time and trouble were counted, they were expensive, and, with two exceptions, lectures failed in Philadelphia. The plan in that city was the subscription plan. He would have a good man, not one unable to retain a place in the counting-room, but a bright, active man who would thoroughly canvass the community and not rest until he succeeded. He cited a case in Philadelphia, where they started out to obtain $16,000, and at the last meeting the managers reported over $100 in excess of the amount. He would rely mainly on the subscription plan and urge them to stick to whatever plan they undertook, and not spend the money until it was raised.

Mr. FARMER, of Prince Edward Island, spoke on the money topic, saying they had been quite successful there, for by laying off the territory and working systematically in interesting the people they enlisted the whole community.

Mr. HOLMES, of Auburn, N. Y., said his association had had experience in wanting and getting money. He urged they should not go outside of the association for money. They had tried for ten years to get along and failed, but for two years they had been taking subscriptions to be paid in installments, and by this means they raised three times more than before, and today were able to contribute $80 for general purposes, and not $10 as at previous conventions.

Mr. NELSON, of New-Orleans, indorsed the remarks of the President, saying he had adopted the subscription plan in that city with success.

Mr. MOORE, of Elizabeth, N. J., related the experience of his association, which, for a time, seemed to be a religious club. They had, however, formed themselves into a finance committee, and, by waiting on the citizens, they had enlarged their list and they expected within two years, to have a $50,000 building. A resolution was adopted inviting the Grand Lodge of Good Templars to seats on the platform, and, while they were taking seats the Convention sang "Sound Forth the Battle-cry."

The Presbyterian Assembly at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 26.—In the Presbyterian Assembly today the following resolution was adopted:

That a telegraphic communication, signed by our officers in the name of the Assembly, be sent to the International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, now in session at Washington City, expressing to them our brotherly satisfaction, with the assurance of our petition for Divine guidance and success in their efforts to promote Evangelical religion, and to advance the kingdom of the Great Captain, under whose banner we are all enlisted.

Permission was granted J. M. WILSON. Esq., to address the body on the subject of manses for churches, but his remarks were interrupted by the anxiety to hurry forward to the order of the day, and the following resolution was adopted:

That the thanks of this Assembly be presented to Mr. J. M. WILSON for his protracted and self-denying labors in the securing of manses for the comfort of the ministers of the Presbyterian Church.

The recommendations contained in the report of the Committee on Manses was taken up and adopted as follows:

First—That the Committee on Manses be continued.

Second—That the Presbyteries be requested to appoint a Committee on Manses, to co-operate with the Assembly's Committee, and to take charge of the matter within the bounds of their Presbytery, and the churches are instructed to aid in carrying out the wishes of the Assembly.

Third—That the Committee be authorized to prepare and publish, when completed, a detailed report of the result of their labors, with such suggestions as may be deemed useful; draw up specifications and plans for manses ranging in cost from $1,500 to $6,000; that a copy of the said report be sent to the Moderator and Clerks of the General Assembly of Synods, and to each member of the Committee on Manses of the Presbyteries, and 500 additional for the use of the Assembly's Committee in carrying out the object of their appointment.

Fourth—That the Treasurer of the General Assembly be instructed to pay for the necessary expenses incurred in the preparation, publication and distribution of the report of the Committee on Manses from the contingent fund of the General Assembly, not to exceed $1,000.

The report of the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions, the order of the day, was taken up and read. The mission year of the Board ended April 30, 1870, with a debt of $4,460,199. By the noble efforts of a few friends this debt was, in a great measure, provided for before the last General Assembly adjourned, so that the Board entered on the duties of the year now completed virtually free from debt, besides having at their disposal the sum required according to the estimates for the whole support of missions in India, Siam and Japan to the 1st of October, or five months in advance. The receipts from all sources for the year ending April 30, 1871, have been $330,550 39; the expenditures, $373,801 16, leaving a balance against the Board of $43,252 77. This unexpected result may be owing in part to the transition state of some of the churches; in part to the depressed state of business in some parts of the country, and in part to the number of objects which have presented urgent appeals to the benevolence of our Christian people. Five thousand copies of pamphlets and 68,500 copies of our newspaper are now published. In expection of enlarged sympathy and liberality of the Church, the Board has prepared its estimate and its plans for the coming year, approximating $385,000 for its different missions, which with the debt, calls for $428,000. This makes no allowance for any extraordinary call that may arise, or any special work that may be undertaken during the year, and as the missions are constituted new developments are constantly taking place that necessitate outlays that cannot be provided for in the estimates. The sum of $450,000 will be needed to maintain the work, on its present basis, in a healthy state. If the Board responds to the increasing demands of the different missions for speedy enlargement, and meets these and the new necessities that belong to such advance, in the way of buildings, &c., $50,000 more should be appropriated by the church.

Rev. Dr. HERRICK JOHNSON moved the following resolution:

That it be recommended that the first Wednesday of the sessions of each Assembly be devoted exclusively to the great work of foreign missions, and that the entire Church be urged to make the foreign missions on that day the subject of special prayers.

Pending the discussion of the resolution and the Committee report, the meeting adjourned till 2.30 P. M.

Non-Episcopal Methodist Conference.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 26.—The non-Episcopal Methodist Conference, by a decided vote, refused to authorize the ordination of females for the ministry. The Conference has decided to remove the Book Concern from Springfield, Ohio, to Pittsburg next September. ALEX. CLARK, has been re-elected editor; A. H. BASSETT, publisher, and an entire new Board of Publication has been elected.

JEFF. DAVIS STILL ABROAD.

The Champion of the Lost Cause in Augusta, Ga.—He Councils Patience Under Wrong, but Forbears to Speak All that he Feels.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 26.—JEFFERSON DAVIS arrived last night, when he was serenaded at the Planters' Hotel, and today he held a reception. Mayor ESTES tendered him the hospitalities of the city. In response to repeated calls and cheers Mr. DAVIS made his appearance on the balcony of the hotel, when he was introduced by Hon HENRY W. HILLIARD. Mr. DAVIS said that he recognized the peculiar claims Georgia had upon him, and of himself upon Georgia, for in the ancient City of Augusta his father had identified himself with the Revolutionary struggle for liberty. If the late struggle for the principles of Constitutional liberty had been crime, it was his misfortune, for which he had fully suffered. Aware of the eagerness with which every word he might utter was watched for and misrepresented, he would be silent, not from apprehensions as to the result to him individually, but as his utterances were made to affect the interests of the Southern people. He did not conceive that the principles of the "lost cause" were dead, or that truth should remain crushed. He counseled fortitude and patience, believing that the South could afford to be patient under her wrong until a returning sense of justice achieved the rights of every freeman—a period to which he confidently looked. With his feelings he was fearful to trust himself to speak, because he could not think one thing and speak another. He looked forward, however, to a time when he might with propriety speak to his fellow-citizens as his heart moved him, and bade them farewell, expressing the hope that God would be with them.

Mr. DAVIS leaves for Atlanta to-night.

THE VIRGINIA ELECTIONS.

A Light Vote—The Latest Returns.

RICHMOND, Va., May 26.—The returns from the State show that neither party polled its full strength, and that politics were strictly regarded in the township elections. The Republicans carried Charlottesville and Staunton. The city election returns were canvassed this morning, and show that the Conservatives have carried the city by 170 majority, and elected twenty-six out of thirty Councilmen. Two of the Conservative Councilmen were voted for also by the Republicans. In Lynchburg the Conservatives carried the city. In Petersburg the returns have not been completed. In Norfolk the Conservatives carried the Council. Twenty townships heard from show material political changes.

The Republicans have carried Petersburg, Va., electing seventeen out of twenty-four councilmen.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 26.—The Conservatives carry three of the four wards of this city by forty-six majority.

NORFOLK, Va., May 26.—The latest returns from yesterday's municipal election show the election, by small majorities, of twenty-one Conservative and seven Republican Councilmen, and four Conservative and two Republican Constables. Among other officers, the Conservatives elected the Treasurer, Attorney and Surveyor, and the Republicans elected the Collector and Street Inspector. R. B. GUINN, Republican, was elected Collector by a majority of 200, this being the highest majority of any name on either ticket. The vote of one or two wards will be recounted, but it is not more than barely possible that the result as here given will be materially affected.

HOSTILE INDIANS.

Desperate Fight With Wood-Choppers in Iowa—One White Man and Eleven Indians Killed.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, May 26.—A letter dated on board the steamer Ida Rees, May 13, gives the following particulars of the fight which recently occurred near Muscle-shell Mount between a party of wood-choppers and a band of Yankton Indians. The war party of the Yanktons came to the river a few miles above here a few days ago, and attacked three men belonging to a party of wood-choppers. The men ran to the bend in the river and concealed themselves in thick bushes, but their hiding-place was discovered, when a desperate fight took place, resulting in the death of one white man and eleven Indians. The reds numbered forty, and left six of their dead on the field of battle, not having horses enough to carry them off. The fight commenced at 2 P. M. and continued until dark. The men were intrenched in heavy under-growth and behind a large log, from which position the Indians found it impossible to dislodge them. The two survivors reached their camp in safety the next morning.

Progress of Resumption in the Mining Regions.

PITTSTON, Penn., May 26.—The men in the employ of the Pittston and Elmira Company, DAMON & BAWKLEY, and the Butler Coal Companies, have resolved to resume work, at the same terms given by the Pennsylvania Company to their men, as soon as the operators will permit them to enter the mines. The only shaft remaining idle in this place is that of ALVA TOMPKINS, and resumption will probably take place on or before Monday next.

STEAM-BOAT EXPLOSION.

Six Persons Killed and Three Fatally Injured.

PORT HURON, Mich., May 26.—At the time of the explosion of the tug-boat B. B. Jones, yesterday, the crew were at dinner. The first engineer and six others were killed, and two badly bruised and scalded. There is little reason to hope for their recovery. The Captain was thrown from his chair at the dinner-table and high into the air, falling into the river. His injuries are severe. The second engineer is the only person that escaped unhurt. The hull and machinery and furniture were shattered to small pieces. Part of the wreck was found a quarter of a mile distant from the scene of the catastrophe. The Jones was a first-class tug, refitted last Winter. She was owned by TROWBRIDGE & WILSON, of Detroit. The cause of the explosion is unknown, but was probably a defect in the force pump which supplied the boiler. The body of JOHN MCGUIRE, one of the victims, has been recovered.

THE TURF.

Baron Rothschild Wins the Oaks at Epsom.

LONDON, May 26.—The race for the Oaks, 50 sovereigns each, half forfeit, for fillies, one mile and a half, the owner of the second horse to receive 300 sovereigns and the third 150 sovereigns out of the stakes, (176 subscribers,) came off at Epsom today, with the following result:

| | |
|---|---|
| Baron Rothschild's b. f. Hannah, by King Tom, out of Mentmore Lass | 1 |
| Mr. R. C. Naylor's b. f. Noblesse, by Stockwell, out of Brown Duchess | 2 |
| Mr. A. Briggs' ch. f. Hopbine, by Dundee, out of Rose of Kent | 3 |

Nine ran. The betting before the race was 5 to 2 against the winner.

Fifth Day of the Lexington Races.

LEXINGTON, Ky, May 26.—The fifth day's rrces were well attended, though not as much interest was manifested as the previous days. The weather was hot and dusty.

FIRST RACE.—Produce Stake, two-mile heats, for three-year-olds. There were six entries, and three started.

The Point Breeze Races—Third Day.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—Today was the third and last day of the Point Breeze races. Notwithstanding the appearance of an approaching storm, there was a large attendance, the attraction being three races, the interest centering in the last, for which Mountain Boy, American Girl and Lucy were entered. For the first race, Fleetwood and Susie sold even, and 5 to 1 against the field. For the second race, Fanny Fern was the favorite against the field. For the third race, American Girl sold 100 to 30 against the field.

During the second race an accident occurred to JAMES MCGINLEY, the driver of Ruby. After a false start, making a short turn, the buggy upset, and the horse started on a run, the driver hanging on gallantly; but it being impossible to stop the mare, he let go his hold, and was left lying on the track, while the horse kept on to the stable, making a wreck of the vehicle. Fortunately both driver and horse escaped without injury, and after the second heat of the first race again appeared on the track. Another incident occurred on the last heat of the race. While the horses were coming home on the homestretch, a man giving the name of JAMES SMITH ran on the track, throwing a linen coat before the Girl, but he failed in his object, as the mare kept steadily on. SMITH was arrested.

FIRST RACE.

For horses that have not beat 2:50; $600 to the first, $300 to the second, and $100 to the third. Eighteen entered, and seven started.

FIRST HEAT.—After several ineffectual starts the horses got off with Fleetwood on the lead, who gained fast, and past the half-mile post fully seven lengths ahead in 1:13, and won easily.

SECOND HEAT.—The horses got off well together; Fleetwood, slightly on the lead, was lapped by Susie at the quarter pole, and at the half-mile pole Fleetwood was a bare length ahead in 1:14, Susie second, but Fleetwood broke, and was passed by Susie, when Fleetwood recovered quickly, and on the homestretch again took the lead and won the heat.

THIRD HEAT.—A good start, Bridget on the lead. She was soon passed by Fleetwood, who passed the half-mile pole ahead in 1:14. On the home stretch there was a beautiful sight. Billy came up handsomely, passing Fleetwood and winning the heat by a shoulder.

FOURTH HEAT.—Fleetwood led, but was passed by Billy, and at the half-mile pole they lapped in 1:18, after which Fleetwood took the lead, but on the home-stretch Billy took first place and won the heat by three lengths, Fleetwood breaking just before reaching the score.

FIFTH HEAT.—A good start, with Fleetwood ahead; Billy soon took the lead and passed the half-mile pole in 1:17, and won the heat.

Time—2:32¼, 2:32, 2:31½, 2:34¼, 2:35½.

SECOND RACE.

For horses that have not trotted faster than 2:35; purse $1,000; $600 to the first, $300 to the second and $100 to the third. Five horses were entered, but only four started.

FIRST HEAT.—After five false starts a good get-off was effected, with Fanny Fern in the lead, which she maintained to the half-mile pole, (time—1:17,) but was passed by Comet, and he in turn kept the lead. Fanny, however, crept up and nearly lapped Comet, when he broke, and crossing the score on a run, the heat was given to Fanny.

SECOND HEAT.—Fanny took the lead and passed the half-mile pole in 1:18. She also won the heat.

THIRD HEAT.—Fanny again obtained the lead and passed the half-mile pole in 1:17, Andalusia second, Comet third, Ruby fourth. The horses in this order crossed the score, and Fanny won heat and race. Ruby distanced.

THIRD RACE.

Open to all except Lady Thorn and Goldsmith Maid. First, $1,500; second, $750; third, $250; three entered and started. In the first heat, after two false starts, the horses got off. Lucy in the lead; Mountain Boy, after passing the score, broke badly and fell far behind; at the half-mile pole, American Girl led by a length and a half, and won the heat by half a length. In the second heat Mountain Boy was first on the start, but was soon passed by American Girl, who passed the half-mile pole in 1:10, about a neck ahead of Lucy, with Mountain Boy considerably in the rear, and won the heat by three lengths. It was claimed in this heat that American Girl ran into Lucy on the three-quarters stretch, injuring her hoof, although it was not allowed, as the heat was given to American Girl. In the third heat there was a good start with American Girl in the lead, Lucy second, and Mountain Boy third. At the half-mile pole, American Girl led by a head in 1:13, with Lucy and Mountain Boy lapping, after which American Girl gained slightly, winning the heat by a short length. Time—2:22¼, 2:22½, 2:25½.

Obsequies of the Late Bishop Clark.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 26.—The funeral of the late Bishop CLARK, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, took place from St. Paul's Church, this morning. Every seat in the capacious edifice was occupied. Dr. MERRICK, of Delaware, Ohio, read the burial service at the church. The remains were borne by Doctors HITCHCOCK, MERRIL, RUSH, Revs. VANCLEVE, CHAULFANT, and five prominent laymen. The funeral discourse was delivered by Bishop JANES, who dwelt specially on the life and character of the deceased, his early devotion to the cause of education, and to his editorial labors, and his good judgment and wise counsel, and faithful labors as a Bishop. Bishop JANES was assisted by Bishop MORRIS, Dr. BRIGGS, Dr. HATFIELD, and others. The remains were taken to Spring Grove Cemetery for interment.

Barometer corrected for elevation and temperature.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26—7½ P. M.—The barometer continues to fall slowly on the Pacific coast and at the Rocky Mountain stations. The pressure has diminished from the Mississippi to the Atlantic coast, and is highest in South and North Carolina. The low pressure which Thursday night existed from Lake Superior to Maine is now confined to the Eastern States. Light rains have fallen at most points from Iowa to Lake Huron, and eastward to Virginia and Vermont. At present partially cloudy and clearing weather is reported from this region. Clear weather has been generally reported from North Carolina and southward.

PROBABILITIES.

It is probable that the barometer will continue low with warm weather on Saturday in the Mississippi Valley and south of the Ohio. Cooler and partially cloudy weather is probable from Wisconsin eastward to the Atlantic.

City Meteorological Report.

The following observations show the temperature, yesterday, at the Central Park Mineral Springs:

| Temperature. | 6 A. M. | 9 A. M. | 12 M. | 3 P. M. | 6 P. M. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Deg. Fahrenheit | 68 | 73 | 85 | 86 | 81 |

A Fatal Political "Difficulty."

MEMPHIS, May 26.—J. B. COGGESHALL, Republican Representative to the Mississippi Legislature from Tallahatchie County, was mortally wounded, yesterday, at Harrison's Landing, in the same county, in a difficulty with FRED. CRAIG. The affair originated in a political discussion. CRAIG has been arrested.

Chinese in the California Courts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 26.—The Chinese doctor LIPSTAI today received permission to testify in Justice SAWYER'S Court. He had made arrangements to take out a warrant in the Federal Court under the Kuklux bill, whereupon the decision against him was reversed and he was permitted to testify.

Another Execution.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 26.—BEN. SAWYER, colored, was hung today for murdering his wife. He manifested no emotion, and died in ten minutes.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

CHRISTIAN SCHAEFFER died, yesterday, in Philadelphia, from a wound inflicted the evening before by JOHN CONRAD. SCHAEFFER, who was CONRAD'S landlord, had advertised the sale of the stock and fixtures of CONRAD'S lager-beer saloon, in order to dispossess him. CONRAD'S wife brought out the gun.

The German bark Courier, and the English bark Merrington, arrived at Halifax, N. S., on Thursday, forty-six days from Liverpool. They left together, parted company soon, met again eight days ago and kept in sight until they reached port.

CHARLES D. CARTER, of San Francisco, a California pioneer, was stricken with apoplexy and died in a few minutes on returning home from an exciting school meeting.

KNAUP, who was swindled, then decoyed into the hills, in California, and shot by DIVINE, alias "Chicken," the pugilist, died on Thursday night.

A passenger-train on the Housatonic Railroad was thrown from the track near Lenox, Mass., on Thursday night, by a broken axle, injuring Mr. HAYES, of Pittsfield.

The first train, bound East, crossed the Mississippi River at Winona, Minn., yesterday morning, on the new bridge.

ANN CONIAN committed suicide by swallowing a quantity of arsenic at St. Peter, Minn., on Thursday.

CHAUNCY COOK'S paper-mill at Ballston, N. Y., was burned on Thursday. Loss $30,000; insurance $15,000.

TIMOTHY F. FANMER, an old resident of Bellerica, Mass., committed suicide, yesterday, by taking poison.

The members of the Blossom Club, returning from California, reached Albany last night, and will reach here this morning.

MICHAEL LYNCH attempted to murder his wife, at Holyoke, Mass., on Thursday night, by cutting her throat.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION. By THOMAS CARLYLE. Vol. I.

This is a continuation of the beautiful little edition of CARLYLE'S works, now being published by SCRIBNER & Co. The work is printed in clear type, neatly bound, and may be had for ninety cents a volume—a triumph of cheapness. People who have not read CARLYLE'S French Revolution have a great treat in store for them—it is the book on the subject, and is probably the greatest historical work the century has produced. A great writer boasts that he has read it through sixteen times—and it will bear that test as well as any book in the language. We recommend this series to all classes as the best and cheapest now issuing from the press.

ALFRED THE GREAT. By THOMAS HUGHES, M. P. Boston: JAMES R. OSGOOD & CO.

This volume presents a two-fold attraction. It gives an account of the life and achievements of the greatest of England's early monarchs, and therefore fills an important place in historical literature; and it is written by a man whose works are at all times looked for with eagerness in America, on account of the esteem in which he is universally held, not only as an author, but as a faithful and honest friend of the country. It is a fortunate thing when a subject about which people ought to read falls into the hands of a writer whose productions are always sought for. Mr. HUGHES could have no fitter theme by which to connect his own name with the history of his country than the life of the great and good Saxon King, and the record of an important era when the history of the English people was the history of the common ancestors of all who now speak the Anglo-Saxon tongue. Of the manner in which he has done his work it is needless to speak. Suffice it to say that the events of those early times are set before us in a vivid light, and the achievements of ALFRED in all their bearings and consequences are sketched in a clear, vigorous and interesting style. The volume, which is of convenient size and elegantly printed, contains a map and several fine illustrations.

THE LIFE OF MAJOR JOHN ANDRE. By WINTHROP SARGENT. New-York: D. APPLETON & CO.

This biography of ANDRE, which first appeared some years ago, is republished now, that it may serve in some measure as a memorial of the gifted author, who died a few months since in the very prime of life. It is one of the most complete and careful bits of personal history in existence, and has a decided value for every reader of our revolutionary annals. Its style is lively and entertaining, and the notes give a slight hint of the really rich store of historical information gathered by the author in his youth. In type and mechanical execution the volume presents a handsome appearance, and contains an elegant steel portrait of the author, which will add greatly to its value for those who knew him.

HIT. By MARY E. WALKER, M. D. New-York: American News Company.

Dr. MARY E. WALKER treats in this volume, from her own peculiar stand-point, several questions of real importance in social reform, and it is no more than fair that what she has to say should be respectfully listened to. She deals with "Love and Marriage," "Dress Reform," "Tobacco," "Temperance," "Woman's Franchise," and other topics of a similar nature, in a manner not altogether wise and philosophical, perhaps, but one that shows an honest desire to effect what she conceives to be reform and improvement in the condition of society.

THREE SUCCESSFUL GIRLS. By JULIA CROUCH. New-York: HURD & HOUGHTON.

In this volume is told the story of three country-bred girls who set out into the world with an earnest determination to accomplish something. After going through the inevitable experience of hope and disappointment, they finally win success, one in literature, one in art, and one in domestic life. The lesson of the book is salutary and one that girls of this day have need of—that a steady purpose and persevering effort are no more unbecoming to them than to the hardier sex, and that in the end they may gain a success worth striving for. The style of the book is quiet, but interesting and attractive.

TEN GREAT RELIGIONS: An Essay on Comparative Theology. By JAMES FREEMAN CLARKE. Boston: JAS. R. OSGOOD & CO.

This book of Dr. CLARKE'S will be found very useful and interesting to that large class of readers who desire to know something of the history and characteristics of the great systems of religion which have flourished in the world, and have not the time or inclination to go through the vast amount of study and research necessary to gain information concerning them from the old original sources. The work of research is here done for them, and the results set forth in moderate compass and in a clear and forcible manner. The ground which the work is intended to cover is well expressed by the author. "It is," he says, "an attempt to compare the great religions of the world with each other. When completed, this comparison ought to show what each is, what it contains, wherein it resembles the others, wherein it differs from the others, its origin and development, its place in universal history; its positive and negative qualities, its truths and errors, and its influence, past, present, or future, on the welfare of mankind." A book that attempts to show all this is certainly worthy of attention, especially when written by a scholar so competent for the work as Dr. CLARKE. All the information which most readers will want on the subject will be found in this volume. The closing chapter contains an interesting comparison of Christianity with the other religions which have prevailed to a greater or less extent in the world.

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF HENRY, LORD BROUGHAM. Written by Himself. Vol. I. New-York: HARPER & BROTHERS.

This autobiography of the famous English orator and statesman has been so liberally announced, that on its appearance it scarcely needs an introduction to the public. Of course no living man is to be criticised for the way in which it is prepared, as the noble author left strict injunctions that it should be printed as he wrote it. His career, as every one knows, was a very interesting one, and surely no one could tell the story in a more entertaining manner than himself. The entire work is in three volumes, and that which has already appeared brings the narrative down to 1811, when the author was thirty-four years of age. It therefore covers the period of his youth and early success in literature and politics. The literary and historical reminiscences with which the volume is replete, give it a permanent value, and make it attractive to almost all classes of readers.

CONDENSED NOVELS. By BRET HARTE. Boston: JAMES R. OSGOOD.

Attempts have been made heretofore to parody the style and caricature the peculiarities of eminent writers in short sketches and imitations, and a notable instance will be remembered in THACKERAY'S Novels by Eminent Hand; but no attempt of the kind since then has been more cleverly executed than this of BRET HARTE'S. His imitation of the language and style of well-known novelists is exceedingly well done, while the caricature of the situations and incidents of their works, especially when they verge closely on the improbable, not to say the impossible, is ludicrous in the extreme. The reputation which the author has attained as a humorist will by no means suffer from the publication of this new work.

NEW MAGAZINES.

Through the medium of a graceful little story with which Lippincott's Magazine for June opens, "Ouida" has succeeded in awakening a kind of interest which has seldom hitherto attached to her writings. No sensationalism mars the delicate thought and tender sentiment expressed in the sketch of a "A Provence Rose." The plan of the brief narrative is quaint and original, and the descriptions are tinged by the play of sweet and subtle fancy. Mr. GEORGE H. BOKER contributes some poetic reflections for which well-known lines by DANTE furnish a text. The next paper contains a brief summary of the ills to which unprotected "shopping" females are subjected abroad. The article is, perhaps, rather one-sided, and fails to consider how troublesome people are who "go a shopping" for mere idle amusement, and how unused European shopmen are to such customers. Passing from this subject Miss HOOPER gives some amusing details of Parisian life, and shows how the world may change in the space of a few years. Although the matter is purely ephemeral, it is rather entertaining. Mr. STEVEN POWERS offers a pleasant and rather odd illustration of the German system of lectures, and Mr. EDWARD RENAUD contributes some verses descriptive of "The Monarch of the Gila," which will not add to his reputation as a poet. A short story, well told by FLORENCE MARRYAT, entitled "Still Waters," next claims attention. It treats of incidents in domestic life, and shows in the writer a talent for investing very ordinary characters with vitality and interest. Additional chapters of "Wild Ireland" display the Professor of Botany, together with Father Michael and the unsophisticated Peggy, in a very humorous light. Discussions of subjects of intrinsic and national interest are revived with advantage by Mr. HOOPER in a paper called "The Freedman's Bureau." Sir CHARLES YOUNG concludes his brief romance of "The Murder Stone," and introduces some powerful scenes of miseries and crimes which too often find their counterpart in real life. Under the title of "Servantgalism in Virginia," Mr. ELDER draws a rather uninviting picture of the present domestic life of the Southern people. The meditations and opinions evolved by Miss ELIZA ARCHARD, in her chapter called "At the Beginning of Summer," are felicitous and suggestive in a high degree. To those who have perused the writings of Mr. LOWELL with that admiration which they usually command, the article devoted to him will appear not only strange, but in some particulars unjust. It is a difficult task to criticise a critic, and one in the fulfillment of which the present writer does not appear to advantage. The Monthly Gossip contains graphic and readable sketches of life in Rome, Bonapartism, and entertainments in the time-honored palace of Holyrood; and the serial supplement, affords additional chapters of "Rookstone."

Other Books Received.

—English, Past and Present. By RICHARD CHENEVIX TRENCH, D. D. New-York: CHARLES SCRIBNER & CO. A revised edition of a well known book, first published in 1855. It is in a neat and convenient volume.

—A Medico-Legal Treatise on Malpractice and Medical Evidence. By JOHN J. ELWELL, M. D. New-York: BAKER, VOORHIS & CO. This work, which has long been regarded as the standard in its important department of legal study, has been enlarged and carefully revised by the author, and has a greater value than ever, both to lawyers and to general students of social and political economy.

—The Alabama Claims and Their Settlement. By CHAS. C. BEAMAN, Jr. This volume is a timely contribution to history, since it gives a résumé of all the events which gave rise to the Alabama claims and has attended the endeavor to bring about an adjustment, as well as the principles on which they are founded. The facts and information which every one needs to understand the great controversy are clearly set forth.

—Who is Responsible for the War? By Scrutator. London: RIVINGTONS. New-York: SCRIBNER, WELFORD & CO. The book consists of four letters, originally published in the London Times over the signature of Scrutator. They have attracted considerable attention in England.

—The Commentaries of C. Julius Cæsar. Edited by CHARLES E. MOBERLY. Oxford: Clarendon Press. An exceedingly neat edition of Cæsar in the original, with such notes and maps as are necessary for the elucidation of the text.

Most of the subjects are drawn from German sources, and are treated in the well-known scholarly style of the author.

—The American Cardinal. A Novel. New-York: DODD & MEAD.

CUBAN AFFAIRS.

The Foreign Claims Against Spain—Progress of the Revolution—Increasing Influence of the Negro—Muengo's Doings—Lersundi's Foresight—Scandals of the Judiciary—Miscellaneous Gossip.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Wednesday, May 17, 1871.

The question of the mixed Commission to decide claims of Americans against Spain, caused by the present war in Cuba, continues to occupy the Press, and is the general topic of conversation. The Spaniards speak of it as a kind of defeat, and discuss the subject in a sullen manner. The Cubans, on the contrary, look on the appointment of this Commission as a great moral victory, and as the first step taken by the United States toward recognizing the insurgents as belligerents; meanwhile the more suspicious view it as the inaugural measure toward annexation, or as it undoubtedly would be, absorption. The Anglo-Saxon stomach, the healthiest in the world, can easily swallow a few Cubas, St. Domingos or Mexicos, and not feel as if it had eaten anything, because the peoples of these countries are exceedingly light dishes for a growing giant like the United States. Some fish bones may become annoying, but never of sufficient importance to cause any serious disturbance, and are not of sufficient size to stick in the throat. The correspondence from New-York of the Diario and Voz de Cuba relates mainly to the commission business, and the letters of the correspondents contain the Washington correspondents of the TIMES of the 7th and published on the 8th in full. The rapidity with which the Commissioners were appointed astonishes the Diario correspondent, and he askes the readers of the Diario to read the TIMES correspondence with great care and slowly, so as to understand this grave and transcendental question. The Voz de Cuba correspondent after speaking of the English High Commission says, first "after this the following (the TIMES correspondence which he translates in full) will not sound well to Spanish ears," and then continues thus:

"We see that this Commission is composed of four Americans, because the one with which the TIMES refers to Mr. PODESTAD cannot have any other meaning. The claims which Spanish citizens may have—and they ought to be heard as well as American citizens'—remain completely unrecognized, while Mexico and England oppose theirs to those of their creditors. Besides, the claims for damages, which altogether do not amount to one million of dollars, are set down at a hundred millions."

The correspondent judges very hastily in asserting that the claims, or rather the damages, do not really amount to a million of dollars. If the correspondent could only see the devastated camps of the Cinco Villas, Central and Eastern Departments, he would soon convince himself that the damages done to the property of Americans, either native born or naturalized, represented much more than a million of dollars. But the Commission to investigate this matter is undoubtedly as able to judge of the real amount of damages as the correspondent in question, because they are in the same condition, being compelled to decide according to the testimony produced.

PROGRESS OF THE REVOLUTION.

While this business is being discussed in Washington, the revolution continues, with a painful slowness and a steadiness in destroying everything which can be destroyed, which admits of no argument. The country from Trinidad toward Cape Maisi is converting itself, by slow but sure degrees, into a wilderness, and the inhabitants into savages or semi-barbarians. The latter title can be applied to the better classes of whites, and the former to the lower classes of the whites and to the negroes. People often wonder at the tenacity and valor displayed by some of the Cuban bands, but it becomes plain when it is known that these bands are mainly composed of negroes and deserters from the Spanish Army. The latter number about fifteen hundred serviceable men, and many of these, previous to becoming defenders of the fatherland, had already done signal service to their country as public benefactors, by keeping Judges busy first, and afterward repairing the common highways as inmates of the Penitentiary and members of the chain-gang. Their lives are already forfeited, and a sure death awaits them if they fall into the hands of their countrymen; having nothing to loose, they will fight desperately. The negro, however, is the real arbiter of the destiny of Cuba. He has tasted the sweets of liberty, free Cuba is his God and his all, and hatred to the Spaniard the only thing which he understands, and which to him is more than an idea, and actually a fanatic faith. To fall into the hands of the Spaniards is synonymous to becoming once more a slave, to be overworked, ill fed and cruelly punished, if he fails to obey or ill pleases the slightest behest of his task master. If the negro element could be removed from the Cuban ranks, the revolution would soon be at an end, because the remaining whites could not oppose a sufficient resistance to the Spaniards. Every day almost we hear of some Cuban officer, either civil or military, having surrendered to the Spaniards. We have yet to hear of a negro officer surrendering. And in proportion as the white leaders of influence resign, are killed, or leave the country, their places are in many instances occupied by negroes.

MUENGO, a negro chief, commands the principal insurgent body in the jurisdiction of Sancti Spiritus, and all inducements held out by the Spanish officials have been fruitless in gaining his surrender. His late companion, however, MONTEAGUDO, of Villa Clara, who was one of the principal inaugurators of the revolution in the Cinco Villas, and latterly a member of the so-called Republican Military Court, was in his heart blacker to the engagements he had taken toward his companions and countrymen, although he had a white face, and surrendered to VALMASEDA with eight men, they being all he could gather. MUENGO is the head of the Sancti Spiritus insurrection today, and he moves with marvelous rapidity from point to point, skirmishing, hiding and fighting. On the 6th he was near Sancti Spiritus; on the 9th he made a raid into the jurisdiction of Villa Clara, and on the 13th he was in the rear of the Spanish detachments guarding the military line. He loses men every day, because he hardly ever avoids an engagement; and yet his band remains about the same in numbers, because all the daring negroes and whites belonging to other bands join him. VALMASEDA would have announced that the territory of Sancti Spiritus was pacified and tranquil, and only the presence of this black prevents him from doing so. Quietness today may be converted into a hell by MUENGO to-morrow. ROLOFF, the Pole, VILLAMIL, and others, went to the Central Department. LIC PENA and LORDA are near Trinidad with a few men each, but MUENGO has men and refuses to leave his camping-ground, and the army of thirteen thousand Spaniards has not been able to catch or destroy this small party. The officers who went with VALMASEDA all say that the insurrection in Sancti Spiritus is dead, but that troops are necessary to prevent the small bands from making raids and inroads, and to keep the insurgents who went to the Central Department from returning. They are unanimous in stating that the negroes are the real parties who give trouble.

IMPORTANCE OF THE NEGRO ELEMENT.

This proves beyond a doubt that the negro element is now beginning to assume real importance in this war, as every thinking man knew it would be when the revolution began. LERSUNDI was in favor of employing negro troops to quell the insurrection, and LERSUNDI, in many respects, was a far-seeing man. In a conversation on this subject with your correspondent, he remarked: "This cry of the Cubans, 'The country is ours by right,' is sheer nonsense. Let us examine the claims which each party has to possess the island, and we must give the preference to the negro before we give it to the Cuban." Your correspondent would have said, "And over the Spaniard also," for the same reason which LERSUNDI gave. "If you, Mr. ——, by hard work, improved a non-producing property and made it valuable, who ought to enjoy it? You, of course, and this is the negro's case precisely. Slave labor made this island what it is, and the wealth of this country has been produced by the sweat of the negro, while we (the Spaniards) have given our blood and supplied the people." But if the negroes have supplied the wealth to the slave-holding and non-slave-holding Cuban, they have also furnished the wealth to the Spaniard with or without slaves, and not only to the Spaniards here, but to many Spaniards in Spain. LERSUNDI'S intention was to quell the revolution by arming the free negroes, and giving liberty to such slaves as desired to enroll themselves in the Spanish Army; but the entire slave-holding autocracy opposed this idea bitterly, and LERSUNDI was compelled to abandon the plan. Several thousand negroes, however, are fighting on the Spanish side, and the gun in their hands, as well as in those of the hands of the negroes on the Cuban side, have proven to be exceedingly intelligent school-masters. When the negroes on both sides unite, (a not very improbable thing,) then let Cubans and Spaniards beware, as their joint forces, with the influence of some foreign nation thrown in, will not be sufficient to prevent the blacks from forming a Government of their own, and at least holding the Central and Eastern Departments, and laying the foundation for a second Hayti. Of late the negroes have been singing a couplet, when among themselves, which has not been heard since Spain warred on her colonies in the year 1820, when so many whites were killed and the negroes were asked to rise and fight:

> "El arroz se quema, dejalo quemar;
> Que los frijolitos, han de quedar."

"The rice (white men) is burning; let it burn; the beans (the negroes—black Cuba bean) will remain." The significance of these lines from the lips of negroes is important, and the rice is burning very badly just now.

RUMORS OF FILIBUSTERING EXPEDITIONS.

There are a number of rumors regarding the sailing of some filibustering expedition under the leadership of QUESADA and JOSE DE ARMAS, lately editor of the Patria, in New-Orleans. It appears that the Florida, or some other steamer, is to bring the expedition, and if it can land it will be of immense service to the Cubans, who are sadly in want of ammunition. There is no denying this latter fact, as several Cuban bands are actually prevented from taking advantage of the carelessness of their adversaries by this scarcity of cartridges. The navy, as usual, is moving about and doing all that can be expected from a fleet of ships useless for the purpose and hampered by official red tape. The Chusuca, left to cruise off Gibara, and the Delamater gun-boats are buzzing up and down the coast like flies. Something is undoubtedly in the wind, but it is not certain whether the Florida or some other steamer is the daring craft that is to bring the expedition. The word daring is rather out of place, as any old-fashioned Dutch galliot could land a cargo without much risk, much less a fast steamer.

SCANDALS OF THE JUDICIARY.

The Havana Judges are in bad luck, and if their present fortune continue it will be almost the same to call a man a Judge as in the United States to call a man a chief of the Tammany Ring. About ten or twelve days ago a young volunteer named ANTONIO GONZALES, a very genteel-looking person, was robbed of his watch and chain. He knew the thieves, and gave information to the Police, who in turn informed Judge MATA, of the Pilar District. The Judge either willfully or carelessly neglected the matter, and the young man seeing the thieves walk about the streets with the utmost indifference, wrote a note to the Voz de Cuba, which was printed in the paper. Judge MATA, offended in his dignity, and imagining himself to be an Alcalde de Casa y Corte of the sixteenth century, sent his constable to arrest GONZALES, who at that moment was in the ranks of the volunteers, awaiting VALMASEDA'S arrival. The constable was laughed at, and being a sensible man, walked off, without offering to fight the volunteers; the volunteers talked the matter over, and, on Monday evening, serenaded the Judge in a very becoming manner, cow-bells, old kettles, tin-horns and baby-whistles being the principal instruments. This would all be very funny, but every occurrence of this sort lessens the respect of the law, (not very high at any time,) and Judges are beginning to be mentioned in the same breath with coachmen and other common characters.

VALMASEDA'S MOVEMENTS.

VALMASEDA will hardly remain here long, and will probably return toward Sancti Spiritus, and thence southward to the Central Department. The streets were decorated on the day of his arrival, and a grand banquet given him by Gen. CEBOLLINO; the Segundo Cabo, Commissions of Volunteers from Matanzas, Guanabacoa and other towns felicitated him, and the Havana Volunteers serenaded him yesterday evening.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

Small-pox is decreasing slightly, but the vomito is on the increase.... Public instruction is in a bad state in Spain, to judge from the following statistics just published. Spain has a population of about sixteen millions. Of this number are 2,414,015 males, and 715,806 females who know how to read and write; 316,557 males, and 316,557 females can read only; while the immense number of 5,034,545 males and 6,489,846 females can neither read nor write.

QUASIMODO.

The Demoralized Police—Intoxication and Black-Mailing.

Commissioner BOSWORTH yesterday investigated complaints against policemen, some of which were indicative of the present demoralization of the Police. Officer COSGROVE, of the Eighth Precinct, was charged with intoxication while on post. Sergt. GASTLIN testified that some citizens came into the Station-house, saying that there was a "drunken watchman" outside. Going to the door GASTLIN saw COSGROVE staggering through Prince-street, and sent out an officer, who brought him into the Station-house, where he was detained as unfit for duty. He had no better excuse than that he had been to a party the previous night, and his case was sent to the Board for his dismissal from the Department.

Detective LOFTUS, of the Eighth Precinct, was charged with black-mailing CHARLES L. GUMBER, of No. 132 Wooster-street. The complainant keeps a furnished-room house, which he denied, but which Capt. MCDONNELL proved to be a resort for improper characters. Two girls were arrested out of this house for disorderly conduct, and the complainant alleges that subsequently LOFTUS came to the house, and after threatening to cause trouble, demanded money, which being given the house would not be molested. GUMBER, as he alleges, offered to give Capt. MCDONNELL a chair worth $75, but he says LOFTUS declined this offer, saying they got such things every day, and what they wanted was money. GUMBER claims that he offered LOFTUS $50, and that the latter, after going to consult Capt. MCDONNELL, said that would be enough. Capt. MCDONNELL, in behalf of himself and Detective LOFTUS, declared that he had no other dealings with GUMBER or his house than to demand from him the clothes of a young girl named JOSEPHINE GILMORE, detained by Mrs. GUMBER for the payment of $1. This JOSEPHINE, who is now fifteen years of age, appeared from the evidence to have been kept for the past two years in the house of GUMBER, and, although she had twice attempted to escape, had been inveigled back into the house by GUMBER or his wife. LOFTUS testified that he had made no demand upon GUMBER for money, but when the latter offered first the chair, and next money, that he refused to listen to him. The case was referred to the Board.

They have an eighteen-year-old boy-preacher out in Indiana, whose sermons "exceed for wonderful scope of thought, eloquence of diction and perfect command of language" anything ever before heard in those parts.

The Indianapolis Journal expresses its amazement at the facility with which leading Democrats throw aside and disregard the "eternal principles" of their party in these latter days.

Judge HALL, of Minnesota, has decided that taxes cannot be levied to pay the principal and interest on railroad bonds issued as a bonus to the Lake Superior and Mississippi River Railroad.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON could not be induced to remain in San Francisco another day to deliver an address before the Women's Suffrage Convention, but he gave the Society a number of his photographs to be sold for the good of the cause.

A party of white ruffians beat an unprotected black man in a car on the Shore line, near Mystic., Conn., so cruelly that he has died from the effects. They dragged their victim out upon the platform, and were evidently intending to throw him off while the train was in rapid motion, but this the conductor prevented.

The Trenton Gazette says it has been assured by the highest authority that the rates of freight and passenger traffic across and in the State of New-Jersey, will be materially reduced soon after the consummation of the lease of the railroads to the Pennsylvania Central.

An old lady named YOUNG, in Old Lyme, Conn., dreamed thrice in succession that treasure was buried in a certain locality. She and her daughter went to the spot, dug for it and found it—not enough to make them independently rich, but enough to make them wonder what stuff dreams are made of.

An effort is being made in the West to establish at Lumberton, Wis., a National Home for deserving women of unexceptionable character and conduct who have no means of support. A hundred acres of land have been given for the purpose, ten of which are to be reserved for the buildings and grounds and the remaining ninety sold to raise funds to help carry it on.

THEODORE PARKER'S spirit, or some impostor claiming to be it, has told some Boston spiritualists that it will not be very long before LOUIS NAPOLEON is back again on the throne of France, "because it has been found that no other person can occupy it so advantageously for a people who are yet not fit for self-government."

The Democrats of West Virginia are wailing. They refused to strike out the word white from their State Constitution, as applied to voters, but now, when they find that the word is also exclusively applied to those who have the glorious privilege of paying taxes, the word has become in their eyes very odious indeed, and they want a Constitutional convention held right away to remove such an objectionable discrimination on account of color.

The Richmond Whig is peering around for a very moderate man to be elected President. It says: "We of the South know and feel that the election even of JEFF. DAVIS to the Presidency in the present state of this country would not tend to promote its happiness and prosperity; it would put too many wounds to bleeding afresh. And for the same sort of reason an extreme champion of opposite views would be equally objectionable."

There is a novel law-suit in Chenango County just at present, brought by Miss EVANS against CURTIS COOPER, of Guilford, on a contract made fifteen years ago. The Fulton Times gives the particulars in these words: "Mr. COOPER agreed to give Miss EVANS one ewe lamb and its increase until she was twenty-one years of age, in consideration of a gold watch key. The suit was brought before Justice NEWELL to recover the sheep or its equivalent. The evidence showed that the increase was to be in ewe lambs, and that the natural increase of a flock of sheep would double every year. According to this estimate Miss SUSIE would have at the end of fifteen years 16,064 ewe lambs, which, at $4 per head, would amount to $64,256. Justice NEWELL heard the evidence, and like a wise man reserved his judgment."

Some of the Canadian papers are still denouncing the treaty, which they contemptuously term the Washington capitulation. Prose and poetry are both brought to bear to express their indignation and sense of injustice, and their determination to die in the last ditch rather than yield "the grandest river in the world" and their fisheries. We quote some sample verses from the Toronto Globe:

Let Britain great capitulate
To Sumner, Grant, or Fish, for ease,
A quid pro quo we'll have, or know
Why we must yield our fisheries.
Our own Canadian fisheries,
Exhaustless, priceless fisheries—
Oh! they are slaves or braggart knaves
Who would give up our fisheries.

Take coast for coast along the line,
Give bonded rights or which you please;
A bargain fair likes share for share,
Not fishless seas for fisheries.
Our rich Canadian fisheries,
Exhaustless, priceless fisheries,
Shall not be sold for Yankee gold,
We won't give up the fisheries!

The Fenian claims are far more just
Than Alabama's ravages;
Unarmed the ship escaped; you armed
And cheered the cut-throat savages.
We won't condone the Fenian raids,
Nor neutralize our river,
Nor confiscate our fisheries,
No, never, never, NEVER!

Extensive Smuggling—An Influential Firm Implicated.

On Thursday afternoon, WM. H. BEARE, of the firm of SMITH & BEARE, importers of dry goods, doing business at No. 81 Leonard-street, was arrested by United States Deputy Marshal PURVIS, on a charge of smuggling into this City from Europe $60,000 worth of laces and silks. Yesterday, Commissioner DAVENPORT committed him for examination in $15,000 bail. A civil suit was also commenced against him in the United States Circuit and a bailable capias issued. The suit was instituted to recover the value of the laces alleged to have been smuggled, and in this case Judge BLATCHFORD held him in $50,000 bail. WM. J. DAVISON, his bookkeeper, has also been arrested on the complaint of J. R. SISSON, to whom the goods were assigned, and who will become a Government witness.

"POLICY" CRUSHED.

Simultaneous Descent on all the Policy-Shops in the City—The Police Courts Choked with the Prisoners—The Offenders Held for Trial at the Special Sessions.

A carefully prepared raid was made at noon yesterday by order of Superintendent KELSO upon all the "policy-shops" in the City, and the cells of the Station-houses were never so generally filled as between the hours of noon and 2 P. M. yesterday. The proprietors had, with very rare exceptions, no warning of the impending movement, and were captured by the officers, who entered while they were immersed in their nefarious business. Agreeably to instructions, all the prisoners were taken before the several Police Magistrates at the Tombs, Jefferson Market, Essex Market, Yorkville and Harlem, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The arrests made in the several precincts were as follows:

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1st | 7 | 10th | 39 | 20th | 13 |
| 2d | 17 | 11th | 16 | 21st | 7 |

| 9th | 10 | 18th | 10 | Total | 350 |

The following were those arraigned before Justice DOWLING, at the Tombs Police Court, the street number attached to the name being in each case the place where the business was carried on. Capt. KENNEDY arrested the following in the Sixth Precinct: Charles Fredericks, No. 124 Centre-street; William Tomblin, No. 98 Centre-street; Arthur Newbold, No. 132 Leonard-street; Henry E. Frost, No. 57 Park-street, James Lawrence, No. 77 Bayard-street; Frederick Curtis, No. 218 Canal-street; John Smith and Emil Butts, No. 164 Canal-street; William Robinson, No. 92 Chatham-street; Michael Goodman, No. 163 Leonard-street; Joseph Warren and Henry O. Hartt, No. 154 Centre-street; Lewis St. John, No. 138 Chatham-street; Michael Drummy, No. 132 Chatham-street; James Shipsey, No. 52 Bowery; Benjamin Horth, No. 82 Bowery.

In the Fifth Precinct, Capt. FISK'S COTTON SPECULATIONS.

James Fisk, Jr., vs. Gorham Gray.—This action, which was to recover $16,000, alleged by plaintiff to have been deposited with defendant as a margin for purchases of cotton, the facts of which have already appeared in the TIMES, has been concluded by a verdict in favor of plaintiff. The defendant, whose theory was that the money was received by him as copartnership capital, to be used as a margin in the purchase of cotton, testified on his behalf that the amount received by him from Fisk, and more had been used as margins for the purchase of cotton; that such cotton was purchased by him on joint account of himself and Fisk, which purchases were reported to Fisk and accepted by him without objection. Judge JONES said he must confine the testimony to specific purchases of cotton in which this money deposited by Fisk was used as a margin. A large amount of documentary testimony was then introduced relating to purchases of cotton, defendant testifying that they were made on joint account, and with Fisk's subsequent approval. The testimony being closed, Judge JONES submitted to the jury for their consideration the following propositions: First—Did Mr. Fisk authorize the purchase of the "spots," subsequent to the one of June 25, on joint account of himself and Gray? To this the jury answered "no." Second—Was the connection of Fisk and Gray, under which the future deliveries and the "spot" of June 25 were purchased, a partnership? To this the jury answered "No." Third—Was the arrangement such that the purchases in the last question mentioned should be by Gray for Fisk on Fisk's sole account, the one-third of the profits to be received by Gray as compensation for his services in purchasing and selling

To this the jury answered "Yes." Verdict for plaintiff for $17,960.

Dudley Field, Jr., with David Dudley Field as advisory counsel for plaintiff; Stickney and Whipple for defendant.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II.—MAY 26.

Before Judge Monell and a Jury.

CONVERSION OF PROPERTY—RIGHT OF LIEN BY THE UNITED STATES.

Charles D. Lord vs. James Dunseith.—This was an action to recover $2,000 as the value of certain property, consisting of distillery fixtures, &c., alleged to have been wrongfully taken by defendant. It appeared on the trial that one Mellinger, in the year 1869, carried on the business of a distiller, at No. 321 West Thirty-sixth-street. In November of that year he gave a mortgage for $1,800, which was assigned to plaintiff on Feb. 2, 1870. At this time the United States Government had a claim against the distillery for an unpaid assessment of some $1,600. On the 3d of February, 1870, the plaintiff and Mellinger agreed to sell the property to the defendant for $1,550, $100 being then paid on account, and the remaining $1,400 to be paid on the delivery of all the property to defendant. The defendant obtained a portion of the property, but failed to get the balance, in consequence of the United States Marshal seizing it. It was in evidence that the property received by defendant was worth $2,000; that he (plaintiff) had demanded the property, and offered to refund the $100, but defendant refused. On this state of facts, defendant's counsel moved for a non-suit, on the grounds: First, the plaintiff being assignee of the mortgage, was not the owner. Second—defendant having received the property under a contract of sale, there could not be any conversion. Third—the United States Government having a lien upon the property, the plaintiff had no right to it, until the claim of the Government was liquidated. Fourth—the defendant, under the contract, was not liable until all the property was delivered to him. After argument, Judge Monell granted the motion dismissing the complaint, and granting defendant an allowance of $100.

Addison Sandford and Mr. Levy, for plaintiff; Alexander H. Reavey for defendant.

FRIDAY, May 26—P. M.

The Custom-house returns of Foreign Trade at New-York for the month of April have just been completed, and we present below our usual summary, together with the figures for the first ten months of the current Fiscal Year, from July 1, 1870, to April 30, 1871.

The Import entries at New-York for April were as follows, compared with the corresponding month of last year:

| | April, 1871. | April, 1870. |
|---|---|---|
| Dutiable Goods, direct | $18,516,940 | $14,423,458 |
| Dutiable, Bonded | 12,023,501 | 13,137,232 |
| Free Goods | 2,094,332 | 1,006,584 |
| Total April entries | $32,634,773 | $28,567,274 |

The amount of Goods of the previous Importations withdrawn from Bond during the month is $10,029,482, or $1,994,019 less than went into Bond; so that the value of Goods actually marketed for the month, including articles free of duty, is $30,640,754, upon which the Customs paid amount to $12,535,690, or at the average Tariff, (including Free Goods,) is 40.96 ₱ cent. The amount marketed in April, 1870, was $28,252,676, upon which the Customs were $12,799,598.

There was also entered during the month Foreign Specie of the value of $332,888, against $805,205 in April, 1870.

The comparative values of Foreign Goods entered at the port of New-York, and of Foreign Goods actually marketed here in the ten months of the Fiscal Years 1871 and 1870, compare as follows:

| | 1871. July 1 to April 30. | 1870. July 1 to April 30. |
|---|---|---|
| Total entries | $284,337,065 | $231,785,165 |
| Total marketed | *$277,031,167 | *$233,606,134 |
| Customs thereon | 119,838,242 | 107,920,157 |
| Average tariff | 43.30 ₱ cent. | 46.20 ₱ cent. |

*Of which, Free Goods in 1871, $18,253,230, and Free Goods in 1870, $10,768,445.

The amount of Foreign Specie not included in the above, entered during the ten months is $7,919,254, as against $12,084,204 for the corresponding period last year.

The actual monthly consumption (or values marketed) of Foreign Goods at the port of New-York, for the ten months of the Fiscal Years 1871 and 1870, compare as follows:

| | 1870-71. July 1 to April 30. | 1869-70. July 1 to April 30. |
|---|---|---|
| July | $28,032,020 | $21,926,238 |
| August | 31,169,092 | 28,924,954 |
| September | 29,886,563 | 25,260,573 |
| October | 24,082,992 | 21,872,622 |
| November | 21,821,729 | 19,985,904 |
| December | 19,362,805 | 15,734,338 |
| January | 30,531,822 | 21,753,280 |
| February | 29,631,491 | 24,478,504 |
| March | 30,872,193 | 25,413,044 |
| April | 30,640,754 | 28,252,676 |
| Total ten months | $277,031,167 | $233,606,134 |

The Monthly Customs at this port received on Foreign (dutiable) Merchandise marketed were as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| July | $10,592,841 | December | $7,696,030 |
| August | 15,078,513 | January | 12,010,020 |
| September | 14,352,516 | February | 12,258,148 |
| October | 11,161,365 | March | 15,305,799 |
| November | 9,017,823 | April | 12,535,690 |
| Total New-York duties collected | | | $119,838,242 |
| Miscellaneous out-port Customs | | | 4,744,340 |
| Total deposited at New-York | | | $124,582,582 |

The Export clearances from New-York in April, 1871, and in the same month, 1870, compare as follows:

| | April, 1871. | April, 1870. |
|---|---|---|
| Domestic Produce | $17,923,694 | $13,741,056 |
| Foreign | 1,006,380 | 956,125 |
| Gold and Silver | 9,893,029 | 1,698,616 |
| Total Clearances | $28,823,103 | $16,396,441 |

The Exports of all descriptions for ten months of the Fiscal Year compare as follows with the corresponding period last year:

| | —1870-71.— July 1 to April 30. | —1869-70.— July 1 to April 30. |
|---|---|---|
| Domestic Produce | $178,806,326 | $157,741,316 |
| Foreign re-exports | 7,495,617 | 7,687,489 |
| Gold and Silver | 64,685,061 | 27,754,420 |
| Total | $250,987,004 | $193,183,225 |

The day in Wall-street has been rather quiet in most of the markets. Gold is steady at 111⅜ ₱ cent. Exchange is a fraction stiffer for the steamers of Saturday than by the previous mail, and we quote on London 110⅝ less a brokerage to 110¾ less a brokerage, in place of 110½@110⅝ ₱ cent. The export of Gold and Silver of all descriptions by the steamers sailing to-morrow, will amount to about a million of dollars. The rates for Money are 4@5 ₱ cent. on Call Loan, and 3@4 ₱ cent. on balances voluntarily left with the Brokers. At the same time there is no lack of employment for Money, where lenders are disposed to place it permanently at 7 ₱ cent. on Bond and Mortgage on Real Estate, and 7@8 ₱ cent. on new Railway Mortgages, and the number and variety of both classes of security are constantly and rapidly on the increase. The Public Funds are steady on the 5-20s of all descriptions, at rates closely corresponding with the price of Gold.

At the Gold Exchange the Tennessee and some of the other Southern State Bonds are well supported. The new Tennessees are up to 72¾, and the new Virginias, which carry a large amount of arrearages of Interest, have advanced to 74½ ₱ cent. The Central Pacific 6 ₱ cent. Gold Bonds advanced today to 103⅛@103¼ ₱ cent., and the Union issues are rather firmer than yesterday. The Railway Stocks were firm and on the advance in Rock Island and Reading, and steady on most other descriptions, the exceptions being Erie, Pittsburg and Hannibal and St. Joseph. The last-named (common) had quite a tumble, 103 to 98, with some recovery at the close. The moving cause of the decline was not accounted for on the Street. We have an impression, however, that Mr. JAMES ROBB, one of the new Directors, to whom the Presidency was recently tendered, went over the Road, as well as over other Roads in the same quarter, not long since, and on returning has respectfully declined to take charge of the property, under existing circumstances and prospects. In regard to the Erie "revival," it seems probable that GOULD and FISK have bought their peace for the present in the English suits in the Federal Court by restoring the Certificates, or a legal equivalent therefor, which they had misappropriated; leaving the question still pending of their removal by the Court on the general charge of malfeasance and corruption in their trust. They may be able to buy their peace on this question also, at some round price for the whole interest of the English Plaintiffs in the Stock. To raise the means to these ends, a successful "revival" in the Common Stock must be assured, which thus far it has not been, notwithstanding the free and unauthorized use of the name of VANDERBILT and other Railroad notabilities as probable successors to the control of the Road. The advance in Rock Island stock was to 119¾ ₱ cent. The movement has been rapid and apparently, thus far, very confidently conducted, supposed by parties in the administration of the Road, or their immediate friends. New-York Central and the North-wests were steady in price, without much activity today. Reading continues to be bought at advancing prices on Philadelphia orders. The Miscellaneous stocks were comparatively quiet.

At the close of the day the following general quotations were made as compared with Thursday night. The Railway Stocks strong on Lake Shore and Rock Island; otherwise dull.

The attention of buyers of new Railway Mortgages is directed to the advertisement, in another place, of Mr. W. B. SHATTUCK, of the Loans of the New-Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad Company. The first Mortgage on the Road is at the rate of $12,500 ₱ mile, and the Bonds bear 8 ₱ cent. interest. The second Mortgage creates an additional lien of $12,500 ₱ mile, and is indorsed by the State of Louisiana. The bonds bear the same interest as the first.

The receipts of the New-Jersey Southern Railroad compare as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Jan. 1 to April 30, 1871 | $128,774 |
| Jan. 1 to April 30, 1870 | 68,875 |

The following editorial leader in the San Francisco Bulletin on the Railroad project, announced some days since by telegram, of turning the traffic from the East over the Union Pacific over a new route from Salt Lake or Ogden, affords further particulars as to the purpose and prospect of the scheme:

"For some days past rumor has been busy on the streets with a reported project for the immediate construction of another transcontinental railroad. From careful inquiry we have arrived at the conclusion that for once rumor is not far from right, and that such an enterprise has actually been determined upon by parties possessing abundant capital, and the requisite energy and talent to carry it through. The parties who would necessarily be best posted on the subject decline to give any particulars for the present concerning it, but do not deny the general truth of the report.

The probable facts, as we gather them from various sources, are these: The combination which already includes the Pennsylvania Central Railroad and its connecting lines with New-York, the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, the Chicago and North-western Railroad, and the Union Pacific Railroad, forming one continuous line, with uniform gauge, from New-York to Ogden, have determined to complete a through line from Ogden to the Pacific, independent of their present connection with the Central Pacific. With this object in view, an association of Eastern and European capitalists have subscribed the requisite capital, and will immediately incorporate a company under the laws of California, to construct a road from Davisville, on the California Pacific Railroad, twelve miles west of Sacramento, northward to the California and Oregon line, passing west of Beckwourth Pass, thence by an easy grade around the south-eastern side of Goose Lake, thence to the Christmas Lakes, thence eastward, through Southern Idaho, on the southern side of the valley of Snake River, to a point north-west of Salt Lake, whence it will bend south-eastwardly, and run to Ogden, or some point on the north-east of that place, and unite with the Union Pacific. The new road is to be designated 'California Pacific, Eastern Extension,' and will be organized and run as a separate Company from, though identified with, the California Pacific, and really originating from it.

This line will be about 1,000 miles in length, or in the vicinity of 100 miles longer than the Central Pacific and Western Pacific line from San Francisco to Ogden; but it will avoid the heavy grade by which the latter crosses the Sierra Nevada, and will pass through a country capable of affording a large local business. All Northern California would be reached by it; a connection would be made at or near its northern bend, with one or more roads from the mouth of the Columbia, and, possibly, Puget Sound, and probably, eventually with branch roads for Northern and Central Idaho. We understand that the money required will be furnished by German capitalists, and that the London and San Francisco Bank will be the financial agent of the enterprise. Subscriptions to the stock have been already obtained, and bonds will be issued to secure the required loan.

Every new competing route for freight and travel between the Atlantic and Pacific must ultimately redound to the benefit of the people of the Eastern and Western slopes of the continent, develop new Territories, stimulate trade, give employment to thousands, and enrich the entire country. In this light the project for the new line across the continent will be regarded by the general public, and its progress will be watched with interest by all classes."

The week's imports of foreign dry-goods have been to the specie value of $2,121,610; amount marketed, $1,987,750.

The Mark Lane Express of May 15 says:

"After a frost at night, followed by a very sultry day, the Monday of the past week ended with a heavy thunder-storm in the neighborhood of London, the fall of rain being very beneficial to all vegetation, but an immediate return to cold has prevented so rapid a progress as could be desired. All Spring Corn is, however, well reported; but it is otherwise with the Wheat crop, of which more complaints of patchiness and misplant continually reach us, insomuch that it would be against probability to expect large gatherings. In Denmark, and parts of Germany also, the prospects are not very encouraging, and France has been in too unsettled a state to warrant good expectations there. In spite, therefore, of the late reaction prices have again been moving upward, and our average advance this week was about 1s. ₱ quarter. Forcing weather would check this tendency, but remaining as we are with short markets, firmness at least seems certain. The indication of reduced stocks in the country has shown itself in the last weekly sales. These, after being much larger than last year's have suddenly been reduced by 19,008 quarters as compared with 1870, which fact coupled with the great reduction of foreign in garnary seems to cut off the chance of low prices for a season. The wariness of millers for some time past observable must have left their stocks also in a low state, and should we have frosts or violent winds in the blooming time a bad yield would be imminent. In Persia it is reported the crops have suffered by drought, and great disasters have already befallen the people, and though our price is now above the average of years, there is yet room for a 20s. advance should any disaster happen. We did, indeed, anticipate on the opening of the canals in America that Maize would materially decline and large shipments commence; such, however, is not yet the case, though breadstuffs were slightly reduced in value. In France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Russia and Europe generally prices still keep high, and instead of looking for a fall at the principal places of export they are anticipating orders and a revival of trade, concluding apparently that the wants of France and Western Europe would certainly insure a large business. All these we take to be evident signs that consumers are more likely to pay higher prices for their bread than otherwise. The arrivals off the coast since the 5th of May were 7 cargoes, of which 3 cargoes were Wheat, 3 Maize, and 1 cargo Barley. Business was reported as follows: Wheat, 6 cargoes in all, viz., Ghirka, 48s.@53s.; Red Winter, 55s. 7½d.; Berdianski, 51s. 10½d. Maize, 7 cargoes, at 30s.@36s. Oats, 1 cargo, Riga, at 21s. 6d. cost, freight, and insurance. The sales of English Wheat noted last week were 56,742 quarters at 58s. 11d., against 75,780 quarters at 43s. 3d. in 1870. The London averages were 60s. 5d. on 1,167 quarters. The imports into the Kingdom for the week ending May 6 were 627,730 cwts. Wheat, and 38,180 cwts. Flour."

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ THE BURLINGTON, CEDAR RAPIDS AND MINNESOTA RAILROAD OF IOWA.—This road is now, in the dullest season of the year, earning more than 12 ₱ cent. net on the amount of its mortgage obligations.

Its 7 ₱ cent. gold bonds are equal for security to Government or any Railroad issue. They command a ready market, and we are prepared to buy and sell them at all times. No investment in the market possessing equal guarantees of safety, returns an equal percentage of interest. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy has given a traffic guarantee, and obligates itself to invest in these bonds 50 ₱ cent. of the gross earnings derived from all business from this road. This is sufficient indication of the estimate of the enterprise by the largest and most far-sighted Corporation in the West.

Price 90 and accrued interest in currency. Pamphlets and full particulars furnished on application.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ THE NEW-ORLEANS, MOBILE AND TEXAS RAILROAD COMPANY are building a trunk line, connecting New-Orleans with Mobile on the east, and giving the only railroad connection between the former city and the great and most productive State of Texas on the west, the total distance from Mobile to Houston being 475 miles.

The Company is composed of strong Northern capitalists, who have already expended nearly $10,000,000 of their own funds in the construction of the line. They have built about 225 miles from Mobile westward, and secured by purchase of securities and made provision for the thorough repair and equipment of the 108 miles constituting the Texas division; leaving but 140 miles to be built to complete the entire road.

It is believed that no other railroad corporation in the country has ever made so large an expenditure from its own means before offering any of its securities to the public.

The Company now offer for sale the eight per cent. mortgage bonds upon the Louisiana Division of 226⅝ miles from New Orleans to the Sabine River. This will probably be the most valuable portion of the whole line, as it will be the only rail communication by which the enormous productions of Texas can reach the Southern metropolis.

So important is this road considered to Louisiana, that the State has made very liberal grants in aid of the enterprise, by direct donations, by indorsement of its bonds, and by subscriptions to the stock of the Company, amounting in all to over $8,000,000.

The bonds now offered are of two classes—first mortgage bonds, to the amount of $12,500 per mile, and second mortgage bonds, to an equal amount, both principal and interest guaranteed by the State of Louisiana. The price of the two classes is the same, and subscribers can take their choice.

The bonds are only in the denomination of $1,000, or £200 each, interest payable January and July, at the rate of eight per cent. currency in New-York, or seven per cent. gold in London, at the option of the holder, at the time each coupon is due. Bonds can be registered, if desired. No better security has been offered to investors. The line is a good and important one, and the stockholders have proved their determination and ability to carry the work to an early and successful completion by the very large amount they have themselves put into it.

The bonds are largely profitable, as well as entirely safe. One thousand dollars invested in these eight per cent. bonds will give the purchaser more than seventy-seven per cent. greater annual interest than the same amount invested in new Government Five Per Cents, into which the Government Sixes are being funded by the Secretary of the Treasury.

At the same price an eight per cent. currency long bond is far cheaper than a seven per cent. gold one. Calculating a return to specie payments in three years, and taking the time that the bonds of the New-Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad have to run—forty-five years—we find that by compounding the interest of each, every six months, at 7 per cent., an eight per cent. currency bond at ninety will give a return of $2,614 18 more than a seven per cent. gold bond at the same price, or nearly three times the amount of the original investment.

While the purchaser of the eight per cent. bonds of this Company can realize this special profit, he also holds the option of taking advantage of any temporary advance in gold, as he has choice, at every separate coupon day, of gold interest at seven per cent., or currency interest at eight per cent.

The bonds are dated May 1, 1871. The first coupon will, therefore, be a fractional one, running from May 1 to July 1. The price is ninety, and accrued interest at eight per cent. currency from May 1 to date or remittance. Bonds will be sent free of cost, and Government and all marketable securities will be taken in exchange at their best market rates without charge for selling.

Information concerning the Company and the road, and pamphlets containing map and full details of the enterprise, can be obtained of the undersigned or any of the Company's advertised agents. W. B. DRY GOODS—The demand generally has been very moderate, as a rule, and the market has been devoid of animation. Domestic Cottons and Woolens have been held with confidence, influenced to some extent by the buoyancy in values of the raw materials. Foreign goods have shown considerable irregularity in price, with some depression in the less desirable lines of stock, the offerings of which have been rather more urgent, partly to close out remainders. The week's imports of foreign Dry Goods have been to the specie value of $2,121,610; amount marketed, $1,987,750, including $1,583,682 of direct entries, and $404,068 of earlier importation, withdrawn from bonded warehouse.

FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western Flour has been quiet since our last, owing partly to the limited offerings of desirable lots, and the generally firm views of holders, which circumstances have been against free movements. Sales have been reported since our last of 11,750 bbls., all told, including inferior to very choice Superfine State and Western at $5 40@$6; inferior to very good Extra State at $6 10@$6 45; very good to fancy, $6 50@$7; poor to good shipping Extra Western, $6 05@$6 45; poor to very good shipping brands round-hoop Extra Ohio, $6 15@$6 50, ₱ bbl. We quote:

| Extra Western, trade and family brands | 6 50@ 8 75 |
| Extra St. Louis, ordinary to fancy | 6 60@10 50 |

Southern Flour has been more active at previous prices; sales have been reported since our last of 3,350 bbls., at $5 85@$6 90 for poor to good, and $6 90@$10 25 for good to choice extra, ₱ bbl. Included in the sales were 2,500 bbls. for Baltimore delivery. Rye Flour has been in fair demand from $4 20@$6 15 for very inferior to choice, ₱ bbl.; sales, 325 bbls. Corn-meal continues in fair demand since our last, at $3 45@$3 85 for White and Yellow Western, $3 65@$3 85 for Jersey, and $4 20 for Brandywine, ₱ bbl.; sales, 400 bbls. We quote:

| | |
|---|---|
| Southern Flour, poor to good Extra | $5 70@$6 85 |
| Southern Flour, good to choice Extra | 6 85@10 25 |
| Rye Flour, inferior to very choice | 4 20@ 6 15 |
| Corn-meal, poor to choice | 3 25@ 4 25 |
| Corn-meal, puncheon | 20 00@20 50 |

FRUIT—The market has been quiet for all kinds of foreign, on the basis of previous quotations.

GRAIN—The Wheat market has been decidedly more active, opening heavily at 1c.@2c. ₱ bushel off yesterday's prices, influenced by the less favorable reports from Liverpool and the liberal arrivals, but closing buoyantly at an advance of about 2c. ₱ bushel on the lowest figures of the day, on a livelier export call, stimulated, in part, by the inadequate supply of merchantable lots of Corn, which compelled shippers to purchase Wheat quite freely, to provide for maturing freight engagements. The business was mainly in new Spring Wheat, within a range of from $1 46 for inferior to $1 47 for fair ordinary, $1 48 for good, and $1 49 for prime No. 2 Chicago and Milwaukee, afloat, the latter called No. 1. Red and Amber Western (Winter) Wheat has been offered sparingly, and has been quoted firm, but has been quiet. White Wheat has been slow of sale, within our former range. The general market closed steady on the basis of $1 48½@$1 49 for good to prime new No. 2 Chicago Spring, afloat, ₱ bushel. Sales have been reported since our last of 197,000 bushels in store, afloat and to arrive, including White Western at $1 63@$1 75; Red and Amber Western at $1 62@$1 68, chiefly Amber at $1 65@$1 67; No. 1 Spring at (nominally) $1 50@$1 51, afloat; No. 2 do. $1 46@$1 50, afloat, closing at $1 48½@$1 49 for good to prime Chicago samples; Old and Mixed Spring (nominally) at $1 30@$1 45; White Genesee, $1 70@$1 90; Red and Amber State, $1 60@$1 68, ₱ bushel. Corn has been unusually active, and the better grades of both Canal and Rail have been quoted firmer, on a very moderate offering; while warm and damp lots have been in quite liberal supply, and heavy and irregular in price. The greater portion of the day's receipt of Corn was in poor condition. Sales have been reported since our last of 240,000 bushels at 65c.@74c. for very inferior to choice New Mixed Western, chiefly at about 72c.@74c. for good to choice dry samples, afloat; 67c.@71c. for heated, damp and steamer grades; 74½c.@76c. for very high mixed and Yellow Jersey; 88c. for Yellow Southern; 71c.@76c. for White Western, ₱ bushel. Rye continues in light demand at $1 05@$1 07½ for New Western, and $1 17@$1 18 for New State, ₱ bushel: sales, 2,400 bushels. Barley has not varied. Barley-malt continues in very moderate demand at from 95c.@$1 30 for inferior to very choice Canada; $1 35@$1 40 for fancy City. Oats have been in quite moderate demand at rather easier prices, with a fair offering noted. Sales have been reported since our last of 51,000 bushels, part to arrive, at 65c.@70c., as the extremes, for inferior to very choice new Mixed and White Western, Pennsylvania, Jersey and Ohio, chiefly on the basis of 65c.@66c. for Mixed Western, in store; 67c. for do., afloat; 67½c.@69c. for State; 68c.@70c. for White Ohio, from track, store and delivered, ₱ bushel. The export clearances since our last have been 1,500 bbls. Flour, 85,942 bushels Wheat, and 39,346 bushels Corn, for Liverpool; 22,230 bushels Wheat for Cork and orders; 18,074 bushels Wheat for Antwerp, and 17,401 bushels Corn for Bremen.

French, Ithica; Wm. Haskins, R. Dievendorf, Emma Traver, S. M. Allen, Oswego; W. M. Norton, Rome; W. W. Weston, Pratt's Landing; Yacht, Port Snyder; Geo. W. Chapman, Lottridge, Lyon's Falls.

Wheat—Cascade, Jas. L. Bennett, A. B. Wilgus, Geo. A. Bennett, A. O. Camoreaux, Ezra Downer, Aldee, Frank & Chet, J. A. Scoville, B. B. Burt, Dean Richmond, O. H. Gordon, Geo. W. Warner, Nelson S. Markle, Lady Washington, D. Woods, Anna R. Van Buren, W. C. Rogers, Hiram D. Fox, R. G. Graham, T. F. Perry, E. L. Anthony, Buffalo; C. J. Simmons, Port Snyder.

Oil—Chas. Craig, Ezra M. Hill, J. Allison, Buffalo.

Corn—W. A. Marshall, J. H. Palmer, William B. Hoyt, A. F. Briggs, W. B. Couch, Ida Sawyer, J. G. Merriman, Mary E. Coyille, John E. Deans, S. D. Streeter, Jas. M. Streeter, Buffalo; W. H. Houghton, Pierre L. Pierce, Oswego.

Coal—Fair Oaks, J. & E., No. 60, Geneva; H. M. Kinnie, Henry Youngs, F. Gerlauch, Seneca Lake; J. Murry, Tonawanda.

W. Logs—A. H. Hunter, Buffalo.

Oats—W. S. Hatch, Penn Yan.

HAY—Bale Hay has been in limited request at $1 for shipping, and $1 10@$1 35 for local use, ₱ 100 ℔s. Straw continues in request at from 80c.@$1 30 for the range of qualities, short and long, ₱ 100 ℔s.

HEMP—The market has been steady, but quiet, for most kinds. Jute Butts have been exceptionally active. Sales have been reported of 400 bales Manila, to arrive, at 11⅛c., gold; 670 bales Jute Butts, at 4⅛c., currency, sixty days' credit; 500 bags do., to arrive, same rate; 100 bales, on the spot, at 4⅛c.; and at Boston, 900 bales do., part to arrive, at 4c., currency, ₱ ℔.

HIDES—Have been steady, but rather dull; 1,064 Entre Rios were sold at 24¼c., gold, ₱ ℔.

HOPS—Have been quiet at previous prices, at from 6c.@12c. for the range of grades of the crop of 1870, and 2c.@4c. for older growth, ₱ ℔. Receipts, 12 bales; exports, 650 bales, including 500 bales for Liverpool, and 150 bales for Bremen. Mr. EMMET WELLS notices the week's business thus: A steady demand has prevailed for the better grades of New-York State and California, while all descriptions of inferior qualities have been unsalable. Good yearlings are in request, but are held at prices above the views of buyers. Accounts from the growing districts of this State are somewhat conflicting, though it is conceded that in most of the important districts the vine is quite backward and uneven. Receipts of the week, 712 bales; receipts, corresponding week last season, 10 bales; total receipts of the season, 53,205 bales; total receipts, corresponding season last year, 98,255 bales; exports of the week, 388 bales; total exports of the season, 9,543 bales; total exports same time last year, 55,885 bales. Our London correspondent favors us with the following under date of May 13: "The extreme indisposition to sell, which characterized our last week's market, has been strengthened by the bad appearance of the vine, which makes hardly any progress, being hindered by cold nights and severely attacked by flea; and all classes of Hops show, in consequence, a slight improvement in value. The demand for 1868 English still continues good, and this description has advanced from 3s. to 4s. ₱ cwt. Foreign markets are reported firm."

LEATHER—Sole has been in pretty fair demand, including: Hemlock, Buenos Ayres, Heavy, 28c.@29c.; Hemlock, Buenos Ayres, Middle, 28c.@29c.; Hemlock, Buenos Ayres, Light, 25½@27c.; Hemlock, California, Heavy, 26½c.@27½c.; Hemlock, California, Middle, 27c.@27½c.; Hemlock, California, Light, 25c.; Hemlock, Orinoco, &c., Heavy, 25½c.@27c.; Hemlock, Orinoco, &c., Middle, 26c.@27½c.; Hemlock, Orinoco, &c., Light, 24c.@25c.; Hemlock, Good Damaged, all kinds and weights, 22c.@25c.; Hemlock, Poor Damaged, all kinds and weights, 17c.@20c.; Hemlock, Rough, 29c.@32c.; Union Cropped, Heavy, 33c.@38c.; Union Cropped, Middle, 34c.@38c.; Union Cropped, Light, 33c.@37c.; Union Bellies, 18c.@20c.; Oak Rough, all weights, 32c.@37c.; Oak Rough, Southern, all weights, 27c.@30c., ₱ ℔.

METALS—The demand has been rather slow for most kinds of stock since our last. Ingot Copper has been in light request on the basis of 21½c. ₱ ℔. Sales, 140,000 ℔s. Iron has been without change of moment as to price, but has not been remarkably active. Holders of Pig have shown rather more confidence, and the offerings have been less urgent. Sales have been reported since our last of 250 tons Gartsherrie Pig, on private terms; $34 being the quotation from yard: 100 tons Wrought Scrap, and 200 tons old Rails, on private terms, and 150 packs Russian Sheet at 11¼c., gold, ₱ ℔. Lead, Spelter and Zinc have been inactive at essentially unaltered figures. Tin has been quoted steady, but has been lightly dealt in; sales, 200 boxes 10x14 Coke Plates, at $7 75, and 100 boxes Charcoal Terne, at $8, gold, ₱ box.

MOLASSES—A moderate inquiry has been noted for desirable lots of foreign at essentially unaltered prices. New-Orleans has been quiet. Sales have been reported of 242 hhds. and 48 tcs. Cienfuegos at 44½c.; 114 hhds. St. Croix (from second hands) at 54c.; 50 bbls. do., auction, at 57c.@58½c.; 153 bbls. New-Orleans, part at auction, at 58c.@65c. ₱ gallon. We quote: Porto Rico at from 38c.@60c. for new; Cuba, 20c.@28c. for old, and 23c.@45c. for new; English Islands, 25c.@43c., and New-Orleans, 40c.@70c., ₱ gallon.

NAVAL STORES—Resin has been slow of sale, though available on the basis of $2 60 for Strained, ₱ 280 ℔s.; sales, 300 bbls. Extra Pale at $6@$6 75; receipts, 1,341 bbls.; exports, 889 bbls. Tar and Crude Turpentine remain as last noticed. Spirits Turpentine has been quoted steadier for prompt and forward delivery, on a fair demand; sales have been reported of 325 bbls., in lots, at 52½c.@53c. for merchantable, and 52c.@52½c. from dock, with 50½c. bid for next week's delivery; receipts, 43 bbls. We quote: Spirits Turpentine, 52½c.@53½c. ₱ gallon; Crude nominal; Resin, $2 55@$7 50 ₱ 280 ℔s., the latter for extra choice White; Tar, $2 45@$2 75; Pitch, $2 75 ₱ bbl.

OILS—The general market has been quiet, but prices have been without material variation in the leading instances; sales have been reported of 800 bbls. Crude Whale at New-London, 380 bbls. Humpback and 100 bbls. Northern do. at New-Bedford, on private terms.

PETROLEUM—Under some increase of offerings, partly on speculative account and for early delivery, prices have been quoted weaker, on a comparatively moderate call. Crude, in bulk, has been quiet on the basis of 15c. for prompt delivery, as the current quotation. Shipping Crude has been inactive at 19c.@19½c. here and 18¾c.@19c. at Philadelphia. The receipts there were 320 bbls. today, and 6,578 bbls. for the week. There has been less activity noted in Crude in bulk at the Creek, on the reduced basis of $4 87½@$5 for Lower, and $4 75@$4 85 for Upper Road deliveries, various options. Refined has been quite unsettled, and quoted lower, on a free offering, largely on speculative account, without leading to extensive transactions. The export demand was moderate. Sales have been reported here since our last of 12,750 bbls. Standard White, May delivery, at 25c.@25⅛c.; 4,000 bbls. do., first ten days of June, at 25⅛c. ₱ gallon. And at Philadelphia, 3,500 bbls. Standard White, for May delivery, at 25⅛c., closing with sellers at this price, and 25⅛c. bid; also for last half of June, 25¼c. bid, and 25⅜c.@25c. asked. The receipts at Philadelphia were 4,430 bbls. today, and 23,284 bbls. for the week. The export clearances have been unimportant. Refined Oil, in cases, has been in less demand at from 29c.@30c. ₱ gallon. Naphtha has been slow of sale at 9c., in shipping order, ₱ gallon.

PROVISIONS—Pork has been depressed and lower, on a moderate jobbing inquiry. Sales have been reported of 620 bbls., in lots, at $15 50@$16 for New Western Mess; $15 50@$15 75 for City do.; $13@$13 75 for New Prime to Extra Prime, and $14@$14 50, chiefly at $14 25, for Prime Mess, ₱ bbl. For forward delivery there has been a more active demand noted for New Western, on the reduced basis of $15 50@$15 62, seller June, and $15 70@$15 75, seller July; sales, 3,250 bbls. Dressed Hogs continue in limited request at from 6¼c.@7¼c. ₱ ℔. Cut-meats rule very dull at 10c.@13¼c. for Hams; 6¼c.@7c. for Shoulders, ₱ ℔.; sales equal to 120 pks. Bacon has been in some demand at 8¼c.@8½c. for Long Clear, 9c.@9¼c. for Short Clear, 8¾c. for Short Rib, 8c. for Cumberland; sales, 300 pks. Lard has been offered more freely, and has been quoted a shade easier in price, with a fair demand noted at the modified figures, partly for export. Sales have been reported since our last of 975 tcs. and bbls., for prompt delivery, at 9¾c.@11⅛c. for No. 1 to choice Steam and Kettle-rendered, chiefly at 10⅞c. for new prime Western Steam, and 9¾c. for City. For forward delivery sales have been made of 2,000 tcs. Western Steam, including seller July, at 11⅛c., seller July and August, at 11¼c., and seller August at 11⅜c. ₱ ℔. Beef continues in demand at former rates; sales have been reported of 150 bbls., in lots, at $10@$15 for Plain Mess; $15@$18 for Extra, ₱ bbl. Tierce Beef has been neglected and nominal at from $22 50@$27 50 for Prime Mess, and $27@$30 for India Mess, ₱ tierce. Beef Hams have been very quiet at from $25@$28 ₱ bbl. New Crop Butter continues inactive and quoted heavy, including New Crop State, fair to prime, 22c.@30c., and very inferior to fair, 10c.@23c., and New Crop Western, fair to prime, at 18c.@22c., and inferior to fair at 10c.@18c. Old Crop Butter at from 10c.@15c., ₱ ℔. The day's receipts were 3,198 pks. Cheese continues quite dull at from 11c.@15c. for fair to fancy Factory; 10c.@13c. for fair to extra State Farm Dairy; 8c.@12c. for Western. The day's receipts have been 2,927 boxes.

WHISKY—Has been in very limited demand and weak in price, with sales reported of 90 bbls. at 93c.@93½c. for iron-bound pks., ₱ gallon; receipts, 383 bbls.

FREIGHTS—The market has been less active in all lines, with some irregularity in rates, quotations for Grain by sail to Liverpool showing a slight decline. The offerings of room, however, have not been extensive, and ship-owners generally have been quite confident in their views. The chartering business has been comparatively quiet, shippers having been reluctant to pay asking rates with freedom, and only a moderate trade was completed, mostly for Petroleum, but in part for Grain and general cargo. For Liverpool there were taken 165 bales Cotton in lots, by steam, at ¼d. ₱ ℔.; 7,800 bushels Grain, by do. at 9d.; 15,500 bushels Wheat, in bags, by sail, at 7½d.; 23,000 bushels Wheat, in bulk, by do., at 7¼d. ₱ bushel; 200 boxes Bacon, by steam, at 30s.; 1,000 boxes Cheese, by do., at 40s. ₱ ton; also, a ship of 1,644 tons register, placed on the berth, for general cargo. For Penarth Roads and orders, a British bark, of 357 tons register with about 2,600 quarters Grain at 5s. 9d., or if to a direct port, 3d. ₱ quarter less, showing a slight reduction. For Cronstadt, a Swedish bark, of 667 tons register, with about 4,500 bbls. Petroleum, at 4s. 6d. ₱ bbl. For a Baltic port, a Danish brig, of 250 tons register, with about 1,750 bbls. Petroleum, at 5s. 3d. ₱ bbl. For Marseilles, a French brig, of 232 tons register, with a full cargo of Provisions, Tallow, &c., on private terms. For Cadiz, an American bark, of 568 tons register, with Staves, on private terms. For Trieste, an American bark, of 513 tons register, with equal to about 3,500 bbls. Petroleum, on private terms. For Biddeford, a British bark, of 519 tons register, with Timber, from Darien, Ga., at 34s.

NEW-YORK CATTLE MARKET.

NEW-YORK, Friday, May 26, 1871.

Trade in live stock was very small and slow on this forenoon, owing in a great measure to the fact that it was a Jewish festival. Scarce any Hebrews were at the markets. The horned Cattle on sale were a fair lot of Steers; prices from 12c.@13½c. ₱ ℔.; weights from 6¾ cwt.@7 cwt., on 56 ℔s.@58 ℔s. to the cwt. net. Sheep were choice in quality; prices from 5c.@6¼c. ₱ ℔. Lambs were poor in quality and sold from 8c.@12c. ₱ ℔. Hogs are steady at 5¾c. ₱ ℔., live weight. ## NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

A Versailles dispatch of Thursday says no quarter is given by the victors, and even sympathizers with the insurgents are shot at once. The same dispatch says Communists, disguised as firemen, under pretense of extinguishing the flames, poured pails of petroleum on the burning buildings. The following public buildings have been destroyed: The Palace of the Tuileries, the Ministry of Finance, the Prefecture of Police, the Court of Accounts, the Palace of the Legion of Honor, the Barracks on the Quay d'Orsay, the Hotel de Ville, and the Mont de Piete. The following have been saved: The Ministries of Marine, Interior, Foreign Affairs, and Agriculture; the Pantheon, the Ecole Militaire, the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, the Bank of France, the Credit Foncier, and the churches generally. The collections in the Louvre have all been saved except the library, in which a great many valuable books were destroyed. The National Library and the grand livres are safe. Marshal MCMAHON has sent to the insurgents a last summons to surrender, in which he says that all who may be hereafter captured with arms in their hands will be shot. The insurgents still hold Bercy, the Place de la Bastille, Menilmontant, Charoune and Belleville. They have evacuated and blown up Fort d'Ivry. A battle was in progress near Pantin, yesterday, with a prospect of surrounding the Communists.... The British Ministry were sustained by 16 majority on a division, yesterday, on the Army bill in the House of Commons.

GENERAL.

A wealthy Englishman, brother of the American Consul at Maracaibo, has been arrested there, placed in irons and threatened with execution, a proceeding which the American and British Consuls regarded as unwarranted by any act of the prisoner. They have both been refused an interview with the captive.

The municipal elections in Virginia, on Thursday, show that neither party polled its full strength. The lines were drawn strictly on party grounds.

The miners of the Pittston and Elmira Company and the Butler Coal Company have resolved to resume work at the rates paid by the Pennsylvania Company. The only idle shaft in the Pittston region is that of ALVA TOMPKINS, and that will probably be in operation on Monday.

The Methodist (Non-Episcopal) Conference in session at Pittsburg, Penn., yesterday, by a decided vote, refused to authorize the ordination of females for the ministry. They also decided to remove the Book Concern from Springfield, Ohio, to Pittsburg, in September.

JEFFERSON DAVIS was serenaded at Augusta, Ga., on Wednesday, and made a speech advising the Southern people to wait with patience "until a returning sense of justice achieved the rights of every freeman."

The United States Senate yesterday, before going into Executive Session, spent some time in discussing the resolution for the discharge of the refractory witnesses, WHITE and RAMSDELL at the close of the session, but did not reach a vote on the question.

The Presbyterian Assembly, at Chicago, yesterday adopted the recommendations of the Committee on Measures. The report on Foreign Missions was read, and showed that during the last year $330,550 39 were collected, and $373,801 16 expended.

At the Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, at Washington, yesterday, several resolutions were adopted, one of which authorizes the appointment of delegates to the World's Convention, to be held in London next Fall. Means of raising money and other general matters were discussed.

Fraudulent Legislation.

We presume there is little danger, after the revelations that have been made during the last few weeks, that Gov. HOFFMAN will put his signature to the bill which purports to have passed the late Legislature amending the Code of Procedure; though why he should hesitate any longer to let the public know what he intends to do, it is difficult to imagine. Now that the Legislature has adjourned, and the bill cannot be vetoed in the usual way, it is not legally incumbent upon the Governor to give the public any reasons for his not signing it; and it is probably asking too much that he should volunteer those reasons, when the best and most conclusive of them all would be that the leading provisions of the bill never passed the Legislature at all, but were fraudulently smuggled into it by leading members of his own party. But the Governor would not be without precedent, in his own previous action, if he were to state frankly to the public what he thinks of this bill, and the reasons why he cannot sign it. He has done so on several occasions before, with bills that he signed and those which he refused to sign after the adjournment; and on one occasion he gave as a reason for not signing a bill, (chartering the "Metropolitan Railroad Company," passed in 1869,) that there were irregularities attending its passage through the Legislature amounting to a suspicion of fraud.

It is certainly competent for the Governor, and would be in the line of his legitimate duty, to inquire into the circumstances attending the passage of this bill amending the Code, and, by examining witnesses, or otherwise, to satisfy himself whether fraud was committed and, if so, who committed it. There is not much likelihood, however, for the reason above intimated, that Gov. HOFFMAN will adopt such a course, and therefore we recommend that the matter be taken in hand by the Bar Association of this City, and that it be probed to the bottom. Let every member of the Conference Committee appointed on the bill be examined as to what the bill did or did not contain when it passed out of their hands; let the Clerks of the two Houses be examined as to what sections were read, or left unread, by them on its final passage; let the bill be traced, after its passage, to the engrossing-room, and let it be found out what changes were made in it there, or on its way there. In a word, let the guilty party or parties who fraudulently inserted the outrageous provisions of the bill be ferreted out, if possible, and, if there is any way of punishing them, let them be punished to the full extent of the law. The honor of the legal profession, no less than the public safety, demands that this infamous fraud should be thoroughly exposed and its perpetrators brought to an account; and the Bar Association is the most competent and proper body to do it.

The business of fraudulent legislation at Albany has gone quite far enough, and it is time it was stopped. As long as the Tammany "Ring" confined themselves to legislation designed to enhance their power, or fill their private pockets, people outside of the City cared very little whether the acts were legal or fraudulent, knowing that they were bound to rule and rob the City in any event; but, in attempting to smuggle this Code Amendment bill into the Statute Book, they have struck a blow at the rights and liberties of the people of the whole State. Emboldened by their success in manufacturing spurious laws for the Metropolis, they now seek to extend the system to the rural districts. The editor of the Ithica Journal, Hon. JOHN H. SELKREG, one of the oldest, ablest, and purest members of the Assembly, calls attention in the last number of his paper to another fraud committed by the Democrats in the last Legislature, in order to enable them to get exclusive control of the funds appropriated for the construction of the new State Reformatory at Elmira. Mr. SELKREG, who was a member of the Committee of Ways and Means, says that an appropriation of two hundred thousand dollars was inserted in the Supply bill for the Reformatory, accompanied by a provision authorizing the Governor to appoint two Republican Commissioners to act in conjunction with the five Democrats previously appointed, to superintend the construction of the building. With this provision, the appropriation was concurred in by the Conference Committee, and in that shape passed both Houses; but when the Supply bill reached the Governor, it was found that the clause authorizing the appointment of the two Republican Commissioners had been stricken out. Mr. SELKREG says:

> "We speak emphatically and what we know, when we say that the bill has been altered since it passed the Assembly, and, as the same copy was read in the Senate, it is clear it passed both Houses. We know still further from a personal examination of the bill after its concurrence by both Houses that the section was then in, but it is not in it now."

In the face of such examples of fraudulent legislation as the above, and the vastly more important one of the Code Amendments, it may seem trivial to refer to lesser swindles; but it is a well-known fact that the Supply bill of the last Legislature was literally crammed with illegal and fraudulent appropriations from the State Treasury. A host of personal favorites of TWEED, and friends of the "Ring," were put in the Supply bill under fictitious names as door-keepers, assistant door-keepers, messengers, engrossing clerks; and even pages drew from $400 to $600 each out of the State Treasury though they had never rendered any service whatever in such capacities, and some of them were not in Albany a week during the Winter. One case, which we have from the best authority, is worthy of mention. A gentleman nearly seventy years of age, arrived in Albany the day after the adjournment, and was so entirely unacquainted with the city that he had to inquire the way to the Capitol. He succeeded, at length, in finding the building, and, on emerging therefrom, some half an hour after, he walked triumphantly over to the Controller's office and drew $500 from the State Treasury on a certificate, duly certified, that he had served as assistant door-keeper to the Assembly during the session.

Prince Bismarck's Task.

There are few statesmen who know themselves and their time sufficiently well to retire from the political stage at the proper moment. But the great Brandenburgher, whose life's task has been the unity of Germany, is no ordinary man. Prince BISMARCK can estimate better than any man living the strength of the disturbing forces which will shortly be released in German politics. The Empire is one and indivisible, beyond all danger of dissolution, but particularism is not dead for all that, neither is aggressive liberalism, nor unsatisfied democracy. The war closes one great epoch of German history, with which the name of the statesman of Schoenhausen is indissolubly associated. With the creation of the Parliament of the German Confederation opens another, in which the united kingdoms, duchies, and free towns of the Empire will reach, through the struggle of popular debate and party hostility, the unity of purpose and sentiment with which constitutional forms have already endowed them. The force of will and tenacity of purpose which fit Prince BISMARCK for political leader in a period of great national crisis, are adverse to his continuous influence with a representative Assembly. PALMERSTON, the statesman of tact, expediency and laissez-faire, is the exact antithesis of BISMARCK, the embodiment of strong impulse and pronounced individuality. Already the German Chancellor has perceived the signs of the rising insubordination which, before the war of 1866, arrayed against him the entire Liberal opposition of the Prussian Reichstag. His bill for the incorporation of Elsass and Lothringen with the German Empire was amended by the Commission to which it was referred. On Thursday, the majority of the German Parliament showed some signs of accepting these amendments. Thereupon arose the Chancellor, and, in his outspoken, abrupt way, declared that the task to which his political existence had been devoted was nearly accomplished; his health was bad, and he had begun to long for his farm and his hunting; German arms had recovered the long lost provinces, and German statesmanship had contrived the means of their reincorporation; the representatives of the people must either accept his bill in its entirety, or accept the certainty of his resignation. Before a threat like this, the deputies yielded, and the bill was recommitted for restoration to its original shape.

It is of the most vital importance to Germany that the newly-acquired country between the Vosges and the Rhine should not become an Ireland or a Venetia. The question of successfully incorporating the restored provinces bristles, as Prince BISMARCK himself acknowledged, with difficulties. The way in which they were regained has been abnormal, so is the personality of the power which recovered them. "A confederation consisting of Sovereign Princes and free cities has made a conquest which it is obliged to retain for purposes of self-defense. The various States are therefore in common possession of the ceded districts." Six months ago, when the German demand for Alsace and Lorraine was first unmistakably declared, the question of their disposal was foreseen and discussed. The professor of history at Heidelberg published a treatise in which the provisions of Prince BISMARCK's bill were pretty clearly foreshadowed. This authority declares that neither Bavaria, Baden, nor the grand duchy of Hesse could possibly assimilate the population of Elsass and Lothringen, and that they were equally destitute of the political strength necessary to keep them in subjection. "The Prussian Eagle alone is able to keep his grip of what he has once pounced upon. In any weaker grasp, the border country would be but a temporary possession." Looked at as a question of internal safety, the Professor says, "Prussian territory must be wrapped like a protecting mantle round all our threatened boundaries from Wesel past Metz and Saar-louis, down to Strasbourg and Belfort. Prussia may not always be led by strong men. She certainly will not be led always by men of genius. The time may come when Prussian particularism, which is out of heart at present, may again say to itself, 'Is the shirt not nearer the skin than the coat? Is it absolutely necessary that North-Germany should always defend South-Germany?' It is in that view that we wish to bind Prussia to us by the only bond which is always sure in politics, the bond of its own vital interests."

The Prussian leaders have undertaken the task of making peaceful German citizens out of the turbulent and priest-ridden people of Upper Elsass, and they are resolved to stand no dictation in the matter, be it from Southern particularist or Northern liberal. It is probable that Germany will yet applaud their firmness, but it is clear, none the less, that the epoch of "blood and iron" is all but over, and that the dictation which has had its due season in the deliberative Assembly as in the field, must give place to the free play of debate, and the growing sovereignty of the popular will. Notwithstanding his antecedents, Prince BISMARCK is not the man to resist such forces, but he is equally not the man to direct them.

The Last Snake Story.

Why creatures of the serpent tribe should be so often selected as subjects of wondrous tales is not quite clear. Perhaps the prejudice that is as old as Eden inspires the choice; and no doubt the swift, elusive movement of the snake, together with the general disposition of mankind when he moves to get out of his way, promotes the mystery and exaggeration that are prone to attend him. At all events stories of these reptiles are usually of grander proportions than others of the zoölogical character, and the interior of New-York State, somewhat abashed, we may suppose, by the humiliation of the "Cardiff Giant," is just now solacing itself with a "Baldwinsville Snake." This monster has been seen, according to the Syracuse and other papers, at different times for several years past. He has commonly, however, exhibited a delicate reserve. In other words, he has been so seldom seen that his existence has been surrounded by that fine mythical element so agreeable to lovers of the marvelous, and so baffling to students of natural history. Of late he has grown less shy. A dozen trustworthy men, writes a correspondent of the Syracuse Journal, are ready to testify to having seen the creature. It is impossible, urges this gentleman, to sneer the snake out of existence, or even to drive him into obscurity. One witness who "interviewed" him within a few days gives a graphic and minute account of his person and manners. The observer was sitting on a log, on the west bank of a large mill-pond in Baldwinsville, at about 6 o'clock in the evening. This mill-pond is much affected by the snake, being accessible, it would appear, from adjacent running waters. Our witness was resting himself after the toils of the day, and with a mind free from all thoughts save of repose and peace, when suddenly he had the following "experience":

The waters of the pond first began to boil and bubble in a most inexplicable manner, as if a vast fire had been lighted below. There was little time for doubt as to the cause of the disturbance, for the next minute a grim, dark head appeared on the surface of the water, and moved swiftly toward the shore. Reaching a bank at a distance of twenty-five feet from its amazed observer, the snake worked himself out upon the land. He seemed about to push for the interior—possibly with intent to carry off a bullock or some other trifle for his daily meal—when a dog came along, barking loudly, in pursuit of a squirrel. The noise seemed to disturb the snake, who thereupon retreated again into the pond. Now, the individual who saw the monster had ample time carefully to inspect him, and as regards his size and appearance his report is explicit and positive. He asserts that the snake cannot be less than twenty feet long. This estimate is partly founded on the distance from the water of objects reached by the reptile when he emerged. In bulk he is compared to a "good-sized telegraph-pole," and in color he is "black, or nearly so, except along the under side, which is of a purplish tinge." Others confirm the extraordinary statement, even to minute details, so that it seems likely, if optical delusion has any share in the matter, that several persons must have been deceived at various times in the same way. The man who sends this information clenches it at the close by the satisfactory announcement that arrangements have been made with the owner of the serpent's haunt to put the matter to immediate test. After ample preparation, the pond is to be drained, when it is hoped its snaky occupant may be captured alive, and the reports concerning him thus be subjected to corroboration or refutal.

It is not surprising to hear that the agents of certain adventurous showmen are already on the spot, and that high figures are named for "an interest" in the snake should he be taken. The local journals say that the pond, which is about a mile south of Baldwinsville, is daily visited by crowds, and that the distances on the ground, whereby the informant named above calculated the length of the formidable reptile, have been measured by more than five hundred people. This, it must be confessed, is less conclusive than if they had seen the snake himself, but that delight, we are assured, is in store not only for them, but for all of us. We trust there will be no mistake about making prisoner of the monster alive. Should he be accidentally shot, or otherwise brought to grief, so that he must be introduced to the public in a lifeless condition, it will not be easy, we fancy, to persuade them that he was ever in any other. What with petrified giants and stuffed mermaids, provided with ingenious skill for balking investigation, the common stock of credulity is less abundant than of yore, and will need to be drawn on with tenderness and caution. Let the "Baldwinsville Snake" have his full share of attention and popularity, by all means; but let those who are interested, for their own sakes, as well as his, take all possible care that he lives to appreciate it.

Order in the South.

When a Democratic journal is about to show what a monstrous act of tyranny the Kuklux bill is, it usually begins by assuring us that the South is really more tranquil and orderly than any other section of the country. To be sure, appearances are a little against this agreeable theory, and malevolent Republicans and evil-disposed negroes have a vexatious way of getting themselves shot and beaten every now and then, which is a trifle embarrassing. But when we learn that they do this out of pure malignity, in order to blast the character of Southern society, and bring upon it the minions of a military despotism, our doubts are relieved. If negro preachers will bellow, and Republicans will hold offices which rightfully belong to their Democratic neighbors, of course they must expect to be shot, or whipped to death. And the high-toned and chivalric gentlemen who do the shooting and whipping ought not to be blamed for what is at best a sad necessity forced on them by the designing persons aforesaid.

Accepting this view of the situation, and conceding that those midnight diversions of the Kuklux, which seem to our prejudiced eyes wanton and cowardly murders, are in reality only Republican devices to bring odium on a magnanimous people, it is, perhaps, true that there is no more crime and bloodshed on the average in the South than in the North. But when we come to examine the character of the criminal classes in the two sections, we find a very remarkable and ominous difference. With us there are people who murder, and people who are murdered, and they constitute in the main two distinct portions of the population. Besides, except in certain places like New-York, where Democratic rule has fostered a certain tropical liberality of sentiment in such matters, promiscuous homicide is here regarded with disfavor. Punishment, too, is for the most part to all alike. The learned philologist is hung as speedily as the ignorant tramp. Of course in the North, too, there are family feuds which sometimes lead to murder. Only last Wednesday, from such a cause, Mr. WILLIAM L. PARMLEE, President of the First National Bank of Yongerstown, in Ohio, came to be shot and wounded by Mr. JAMES R. TYNE, his wife's cousin. But to show how differently we are impressed as regards the social condition of the two sections, we shall expect to hear that Mr. TYNE has been, at least, arrested. But when a bank President in the South is even killed by his wife's cousin, we only expect to hear that the latter is in turn assassinated by some kinsman of his victim. And so the dead-roll grows.

Not long ago, for example, two young gentlemen of Mississippi, whose plantations adjoined, having differed about some trifling matter of boundary, conceived that the proper way to settle the difficulty was by resort to the pistol. So they adopted the ingenious expedient of advancing upon one another from a distance of forty paces, firing shot-guns à discretion as they came. Naturally, when they got near enough, it became difficult to miss, and one of the young gentlemen ceased to have any further use for either shot-guns or plantations. Now, two Northern youths would probably have hired a surveyor, or peaceably gone to law—in the long run, perhaps, the wiser course.

This story, which we find in the New-Iberia Banner, of Louisiana, is not less characteristic in what it tells than significant in the manner of its telling. Two other young gentlemen of that place, named DROSIN MIGUEZ and THEOGENE VIATOR, have the misfortune to be cousins. That mutual injury was too bitter to be tamely borne, and each seems to have made the other responsible for an indignity which after all seems to have been rather the fault of nature and their ancestors. Considering the tempers of the two young gentlemen, they seem to be justified in resenting a relationship which can be only less ignominious to Mr. MIGUEZ than to Mr. VIATOR. Since the cradle, almost, their animosity has revealed itself in reciprocal violence, and about a year ago they were bound over in the sum of two hundred dollars each to keep the peace for twelve months. With a discretion which does honor to their business habits, they endured the outrage of cousinship quietly during the prescribed term. On the 15th of May the year of inaction expired, and thereupon one of these nice young gentlemen sent to the other a request to meet him at an hour and place specified, armed with double-barreled shot-gun and revolver. The trysting was faithfully kept, and from a distance of forty yards they emptied their weapons. "The young man who was invited to the feast of blood," says the Banner, with much naïveté, "took the precaution to bring an extra repeater, which gave him a very decided advantage over his opponent." Their marksmanship, however, was unworthy of their ferocity, for after fourteen shots had been fired by one and eight by the other, they were forced to resort to the butt-ends of their pistols to inflict the only painful wounds given or received on either side. These unhappily were not fatal, and the Banner "regrets to learn that it is the general opinion of those best acquainted with the parties, that this will not be the end of the affair."

With pastimes like this in vogue, with almost nightly raids of Kuklux marauders in almost every State, with men and women here and there shot down in broad daylight, and above all with a public sentiment singularly callous to the sinfulness of bloodshed, is it not hard to believe that the South is altogether so tranquil and orderly as Democratic optimists would have us believe? And would it not be well for Southern men, who have at heart the welfare of their people and of the whole country, to consider if no means can be found to create a more wholesome feeling on so important a matter?

An Insurance Convention.

We are not surprised to find that at last an effort is being made to harmonize and reduce to some sensible system the disjointed scheme of State insurance supervision. As now undertaken, this important business is in the most absurd confusion. Every State has a different code of Insurance laws; their execution is in the hands of all sorts of officials, from Superintendents and Commissioners down to clerks in Auditors' offices, and between all these a sad mess is made of the matter. The two foremost States in systematic supervision, New-York and Massachusetts, whose lead all the others follow in a zigzag course, cannot agree upon a basis of valuations of life policies, nor upon a uniform style of company statements; and in many other respects these pioneers and models set examples of discordance which their followers throughout the country appear to be only too glad to emulate.

No two States in the Union, so far as we are aware, require from the companies the same form of financial statement. The only wonder is that the officials of the companies can keep their temper while compelled to reiterate, in all sorts of forms, answers to the one hundred or one hundred and fifty questions, which are put to them by thirty-six State officials, in as many different forms of blanks. That there is not the least necessity for all this confusion only aggravates the persons who suffer from its existence.

Then, again, the several States differ widely in their treatment of companies from other States doing business within their borders. While, in some, the business of insurance is as free as air to all who choose to enter upon it and can pass an examination, in others there are deposit requirements, taxes, license laws and local impositions, which unite to form a burden almost intolerable, and in any event most galling to the companies from other States. These are the more oppressive from the fact that several of the States most extortionate in such exactions are among the least profitable insurance fields, and are really dependent upon foreign insurance capital for the indemnity they need. What, let us ask, is there to hinder uniformity in this matter of insurance taxation, which is now such a nuisance and injustice, committed at the expense of the interest whose progress and prosperity is the foundation of mercantile credit, and the spur of all local improvement? With the view of bringing all these State officials face to face, for an interchange of opinions and the development of some plan of united action, the Superintendent of the New-York Insurance Department called a convention, and it is now being held in this City. We have no doubt that its deliberations will be attended with many practical advantages.

MINOR TOPICS.

The Communists are still at bay in the north-east section of Paris, lying between the Boulevard de Pantin and the Boulevard de Montreuil, and including the heights of Chaumont, the suburb of Belleville, and the Cemetery of Père la Chaise. Bercy, in the south-east angle of the enceinte, is also held by them. From the northern positions, shells filled with petroleum are still sent on their mission of wanton destruction, and the centre of the city remains the scene of irrepressible conflagrations. The captured leaders are being granted a very short shrift, the foreigners being dispatched with the greatest promptitude. MCMAHON seems determined to push severity still further, for he has declared that all who now refuse to obey his summons to lay down their arms will be incontinently shot. When the horrors of these latter days of Parisian revolt come to be fully known, we shall have pictures that may fitly vie with the record of the days of terror of the first revolution.

Opposition to papal infallibility in Catholic and Ultramontane Bavaria stings the Court of Rome to the quick. The Pope is said to have lost his temper the other day with the Bavarian Ambassador, in consequence of the refusal of King LOUIS to recognize the full force of the major excommunication directed against Dr. DOELLINGER. To make matters worse, the popular feeling in favor of the Munich theologian appears to be steadily increasing. The signatories of the first address to the Bavarian Government on behalf of Dr. DOELLINGER were duly excommunicated by the Pope, but in spite of this thousands of laymen as well as individual clergymen, have followed suit. The dogma was proclaimed a few weeks ago at the Bavarian town of Bayreuth, as was also the excommunications of the Munich Professor and his adherents. On the following day an address approving of the position taken up by Dr. DOELLINGER, issued from the same town, accompanied by numerous signatures. At this rate a papal Bull will shortly be held in great derision by a considerable section of the Catholic countrymen of LUTHER.

The Louisville Daily Ledger (Democratic) admits that the "new departure" of the Democrats is practically an unconditional surrender to the Republicans. It says, "the New-York TIMES understands and correctly states what the acceptance of VALLANDIGHAM's platform leads to. The Democratic Party have continually been receding before Radical aggression, and if they are to go on further, yielding all the distinctive features of the party, there will be no necessity of retaining its organization. If holding the offices and sharing the public plunder is the only principle involved in the politics of to-day, there is no necessity of keeping up two political organizations." The Southern journals generally seem to be disgusted with Northern Democrats on account of their "tame policy." This is only another proof of what we have repeatedly stated—that the Democrats will not be able to construct a programme in 1872 equally satisfactory to North and South, and as they cannot win without securing both sections, they had better make up their minds to fail from the start.

Who will be the next Governor of New-Hampshire is still involved in considerable doubt. The Legislature meets on the 7th day of June; the Senate is a tie, owing to there being no election in one district, and Mr. THRASHER, who was elected from the Twentieth District, having died since his election, both parties claim a majority in the House. It is undoubtedly a fact that a clear majority of the members of the House owe their election to Republican votes, and may consider themselves bound to act in accordance with the wishes of those who elected them. Another question which complicates the matter is, whether it is necessary for the Senate to organize before meeting the Assembly in joint convention for the purpose of electing a Governor. If it is decided that it is necessary, the election may be deferred for some time. As the Senate is equally divided politically, an organization cannot be effected without a compromise. The Republicans claim that, according to the Constitution, the two vacancies in the Senate should be filled by Republicans. This would give the party a majority of one. The Democrats are, by various quibbles, trying to escape the constitutional provision. This course has developed a feeling which may perhaps render a compromise impossible. The struggle will doubtless be a protracted one, and the question of who will be Governor will not be decided for some time.

The Message of Gov. PALMER, of Illinois, contains a suggestion with regard to official fees which is worthy of attention in other States. The system of compensating public officers by fees is capable of great abuse. Judges are paid fixed salaries; why should not Sheriffs and clerks be similarly remunerated? It is a well-established fact that frequently a fee of ten times the legal amount is exacted. Gov. PALMER proposes to abolish all official fees, substituting fixed salaries, and in order that these salaries shall not be a tax on the whole people, a system of stamps resembling that of the internal revenue is suggested. By this means, a fund would be created from which all salaries could be paid, and the costs of legal proceedings made less burdensome. Judges of the Supreme Court are local officers, their duties being confined to a district, but their salaries are paid from a common fund. All other officers could be paid in the same way. The fees of the Sheriff of the County of New-York are enormous, enriching the fortunate holder of the office in a single term. This office would be well paid with a salary of $10,000, and the people relieved of a great burden.

Well-Known Personages to Sail for Europe.

On Saturday, June 3, the steam-ship Italy, Capt. GROGAN, of the National line, will leave this port for Liverpool, having on board Judge DOWLING, HARRY PALMER, LYDIA THOMPSON, Mr. HENDERSON, Miss LECLERCQ and about twenty other actors and actresses. Among the passengers will be a blood-relative of an Imperial family of Europe, beside others of note in literary, legal and professional circles.

One or two steam-boats will accompany the Italy to Sandy Hook provided with bands of music. Dodworth's Band will be stationed on the steamer's dock for two hours before the time of sailing. On the same day forty-eight Knights Templar from Pennsylvania will embark on a tug and proceed down the Bay to take passage on the steamer Oceanic, for Liverpool. There will be a lively time on the docks of these steamers during the day, and also on the Bay.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

JULLIEN CONCERTS.

The promised Jullien concerts at the Terrace Park Garden were commenced last evening, under most auspicious circumstances. The weather was favorable, the audience large, the music good. Reasonable expectations could not, therefore, have been disappointed. The name of the projector of these entertainments—praeclarum et venerabile nomen—may, it is true, have raised hopes of the enkindling of a furor fit to parallel that awakened in earlier years by the present M. JULLIEN's father. That yesterday's performances, while affording ample satisfaction, did not work up the hearers quite to the old pitch of excitement, is not, however, cause for wonderment. Precise and finished orchestral recitals have in late years become more and more frequent, and the steady exposition each season of the most elaborate compositions has lessened to a great extent the influence of purely "taking" productions. With these facts in view, we think we compliment M. JULLIEN warmly when we declare him a musician of refinement and culture, whose command of his forces, already apparent, will be still increased by that acquaintance with their resources—and with the local also, in which they are deployed—which time only can give him. His first night's programme was cleverly composed, and was interpreted with an even correctness to which no exception would be taken. It included MOZART's symphony of "Jupiter," STRAUSS' "Morgenblaetter" waltz, the overture to "Tannhaeuser," JULLIEN's "Grand Military Fantasia," the scherzo from BEETHOVEN's Eighth Symphony and the "Coronation March" from "Il Profeto." It also embraced vocal solos by Miss MINNIE KUHN, Mr. ARTHUR MATTHISON and Signor FILIPPI, and two instrumental contributions for soloists, by M. CASTEGNIER, the oboist whose easily-appreciable talent we called immediate attention to a fortnight ago, and by Mr. HARVEY, a capital performer on the trombone. We have indicated above the general impression of the whole concert as one of fair and equal depth. The effect of the "Grand Military Fantasia," with its happy combinations of sounds from visible and invisible executants, and its less prominent but very felicitous bits of writing standing out from the mass of conventionalities, was especially inspiriting. The original conductor of the affair, as well as its organizer, was, of course, M. LOUIS GEORGE JULLIEN. He was supplied with as efficient aid as could be desired by Herr ADOLPH NEUENDORFF.

BROOKLYN CHORAL UNION.

The two performances by the Brooklyn Choral Union at the Skating Rink, in that city on Thursday, drew together large audiences, especially in the evening, when the spacious building was crowded to its utmost capacity. Miss KELLOGG, of course received, as she is always sure to receive in Brooklyn, a cordial welcome on both occasions, and her execution of her portions of the programmes was loudly applauded, and in every case a repetition was successfully demanded. The other solo singers acquitted themselves in an acceptable manner, and the same remark applies justly to the violin performance of JOSEFINA FILOMENA. The Jersey City Harmonic Society, Mr. W. F. SHERWIN, conductor, added not a little to the pleasure of the occasion. Of course the Anvil Chorus, with its superabundance of noise, was the most popular feature of the affair. Mr. GILMORE was cheered loudly on his appearance, and his company of red-shirted, black-trowsered blacksmiths excited much enthusiasm as they marched in to the tap of the drum. The chorus, with its artillery and anvil accompaniment, delighted the audience, who loudly insisted upon an encore, regardless of those little eccentricities in the execution which might irritate sensitive and cultivated ears. The overture, "Choral Festival," composed by Mr. HARVEY B. DODWORTH, and dedicated by him to the Society, was excellently well rendered under his leadership at the opening of the evening performance. In a pecuniary sense the concerts were probably quite successful, although the expenses were necessarily large.

OBITUARY.

Gen. Louis Burger.

Gen. LOUIS BURGER died on Thursday afternoon, suddenly, at his residence, No. 163 Pineapple-street, Brooklyn, of disease of the heart, with which he has been afflicted for nearly a year, and which appears to be a hereditary affliction in his family. Gen. BURGER visited Florida last Winter in hopes of finding relief, as his complaint was then considered to be an affection of the lungs, the truth not being known until a few months since. His death was very sudden, and occurred while he was engaged in a conversation with Gen. T. S. DAKIN.

Gen. BURGER was born in 1823, in Kaiserslautern, in the Palatinate, and came to New-York in 1847, where he established himself as an architect. In 1854 he organized the engineer corps of the Fifth Regiment National Guard, and was elected Captain. In 1859 he was promoted to the Majority of the regiment, and in 1861 elected Lieutenant-Colonel. He commanded the Fifth Regiment in that year during the first three months' campaign. In September of the same year he received his commission as Colonel of the regiment. In 1863 he again marched to the field with his regiment when the invasion of Pennsylvania was threatened. In December, 1865, Col. BURGER was elected Brigadier-General, to command the Second Brigade of the New-York State National Guards. Gen. BURGER was the builder of numerous large factories and buildings, and he was President of the Liederkranz Society for two terms. He leaves a wife and several children in comfortable circumstances. The funeral arrangements are, of course, not yet decided upon, but the entire Second Brigade will probably be ordered out to escort the remains of their chief to the grave.

Threatened Disruption of the American and Foreign Christian Union.

At the regular meeting of the American and Foreign Christian Union, held on Thursday a week ago, WM. A. BOOTH was chosen President at the annual election of officers. He, however, declined to serve for another year, as a difference of opinion was developed which was likely to interfere with the welfare of the Board, and to conflicts in which he would rather not take part. Then, too, Dr. BUTLER, who had faithfully served as Secretary for several years, was superseded by Rev. Mr. CRITTENDEN. These differences have been growing for a year or two back, and may be said to have originated with a few persons not altogether pleased with their status in the Board. Now there are two parties, the Presbyterians and Congregationalists on the one side; the Methodists and Dutch Reformed on the other. The former met last Tuesday, (since Mr. BOOTH's resignation,) and during their deliberations resolved to notify Dr. CRITTENDEN that they would not support him, and would recommend a dissolution of the Board. There was a meeting of the Board on Thursday, at which a committee was appointed to arrange for its dissolution. Now, therefore, each denomination will assume charge of the support of its own missionaries in foreign fields.

Fifteenth Assembly District Republican Association.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Fifteenth Assembly District Republican Association was held, last evening, at No. 246 West Thirty-third-street, Mr. HENRY D. LAPAUGH presiding. Major N. M. GAYLORD and Dr. ALEXANDER WILDER made stirring addresses, endorsing Gen. GRANT, favoring reorganization in the Republican Party, and denouncing the Tammany Republicans.

Dr. WILLIAM J. STEWART proposed the following resolution, which was unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, That we rejoice in the ratification by the United States Senate of the Treaty of Washington, and that we regard this treaty as one of the most important achievements of the Administration, and for which President GRANT is entitled to the highest reward and gratitude of the nation.

After some remarks by other members the Association adjourned

WASHINGTON.

Mr. Carpenter Makes a Humorous Speech—The Treaty En Route for England—Testimony in the Investigation—The Next Presidential Candidate—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Mr. CARPENTER made a speech today on the subject of the investigation which set the galleries roaring with laughter, and set up some of those who have been malignantly assailing himself and Mr. CONKLING in a conspicuously absurd position, and some of those who have been assailing not him, but the investigation, had to laugh at the ridiculous figures they themselves were made to cut. The result of the somewhat bad-tempered talk of yesterday, in which, however, a good deal of truth came out, has been to convince almost everybody here who has heretofore thought otherwise, that these two Senators have done no more than many others who share with them the responsibility in shaping the course of the investigation. Mr. CONKLING'S reply to the statement of Mr. WILSON yesterday is spoken of today as one of the finest impromptu efforts ever heard in the Senate Chamber, and Mr. CARPENTER'S speech today, in a different vein, was, perhaps, equally effective. The effect on those persons who propose to send these two Senators into obscurity was certainly not cheerful.

THE TREATY.

The Treaty of Washington was sent from here to New-York today, and will go from there by the Inman line to-morrow, for the purpose of exchange of ratifications. Minister SCHENCK will receive it three or four days after his arrival in England, and the exchange of ratifications will be completed in three or four weeks. An explanation of the process of exchanging ratifications may be interesting, as it seems to be little understood. Two copies of the treaty were signed by the Commissioners, one of which was sent at once to London, and one placed before the Senate by the President. The Senate, having consented to the treaty, the President and Secretary of State attach their signatures to the copy, and when Minister SCHENCK receives it he will exchange this copy, having the signature of the President, for the other copy, which will be signed by the Queen. When the exchanged copy has been received it will be promulgated by the President in a proclamation, and its provisions will then be fully in force.

THE INVESTIGATION.

The evidence thus far taken in the investigation went to the public printer today. An examination of it shows that the Committee has made greater progress toward unraveling the mystery of the publication of the treaty than was supposed. The testimony of Dr. TAFT, the Senate Postmaster, indicates that while he was before the Committee he must have suffered intense agony lest he should say something which he did not mean to. If the whole transaction is ever known, the complete evidence will be spicy reading. As the appearance now is, the evidence warrants the belief that the publication was made through the Senate, and seems to furnish a reason for the zeal by some most earnest at first in the investigation to break it down before it proceeds further.

GENERAL GRANT'S RENOMINATION.

Gen. FARNSWORTH denies the statement recently widely circulated, that he had traveled much in the West lately, and found the feeling among Republicans against the renomination of President GRANT.

THE MEXICAN CLAIMS.

The Senate has before it a treaty with Mexico extending one year the Mexican Claims Commission. There has been a difference of opinion among Senators about action at this session, some preferring to wait till December, as the Commission does not expire till January. But, on the other hand, it is desirable for the Commissioners to know soon whether they will have another year or not, in order to arrange the work before them. Accordingly, it is understood that the question was before the Executive Session this afternoon. It was supposed that no objection existed to the treaty, but three or four hours were spent in secret session. It is whispered, however, and in a kind of mysterious manner, that a subject of still greater importance, of which nobody outside the Senate has any intimation, was under consideration.

CONDITION OF THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

The anxiety of those who see the Vice-President from day to day, seems to increase, rather than diminish. He sat up a short time today to have his bed arranged, but improvement is scarcely perceptible. He is unable to move, except slightly, without assistance, and it will probably be a long time, even if no change for the worse takes place, before he can be moved from his room in the Capitol.

THE SESSION OF THE SENATE.

The Senate had only a few more than a quorum present today, and there is some doubt to-night whether there will be a quorum present in the city to-morrow. In that event no business can be done except to adjourn from day to day till Senators enough to make up the quorum can be brought back. Final adjournment can not be effected by a less number than a quorum. It is now likely that a quorum will be present, and that the refractory witnesses will be turned over to the Courts according to law. They can only escape a month at least in the common jail by the refusal of the jury, in spite of law and evidence that is absolute, to bring in a verdict of guilty of refusing to testify.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

SECRETARY BELKNAP AS A LITERARY ORATOR.

Secretary BELKNAP will deliver an address before the Alumni of Princeton College at their next anniversary celebration.

FEEDING THE INDIANS.

It is understood that a member of the Board of Indian Peace Commissioners will be sent to feed the starving Apaches in Arizona, as soon as they can be brought in upon a reservation.

THE BOWEN BIGAMY CASE.

In the Criminal Court, today, the case of Ex-Representative BOWEN, of South Carolina, charged with bigamy, was called up, but, in consequence of the absence of one of the counsel and the illness of another, the case was postponed till Tuesday next.

AFFAIRS IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Gov. SCOTT, of South Carolina, who arrived here yesterday, had a long interview with President GRANT this morning in which he said there was no necessity for putting the State under martial law, and that there was a good state of feeling among the better classes of citizens to put down Kuklux organizations. The Governor left for New-York to-night on business connected with South Carolina.

TREASURY MATTERS.

The Treasury balances today are as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Currency | $4,794,000 |
| Coin | 93,642,000 |
| Coin certificates | 17,803,000 |

The subscription to the new loan today was $100,000.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

Extra Session.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Friday, May 26.

Mr. HOWE, from the Committee on Printing, offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing that Committee to inquire into the cost of a pneumatic tube between the Capitol and the Public Printing-office for the transmission of packages, and also as to a telegraph line, to report at the next session.

THE REFRACTORY REPORTERS.

The Chair stated the unfinished business to be the resolution of Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, to discharge Messrs. WHITE and RAMSDELL immediately on the adjournment of the present session, with the pending amendment of Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky.

Mr. CARPENTER, of Wisconsin, said he had nothing to do with starting the investigation, and denied the often-repeated newspaper statement that he had been made the cat's-paw of Mr. CONKLING. He had received anonymous letters, threatening that the entire machinery of the American Press would be directed against him personally, if he should proceed with the investigation. He, too, had incurred such displeasure for moving a resolution to commit the witnesses. He had never seen any other course taken in cases where witnesses refused to answer. As to the correspondents being in prison, they were furnished with two of the best rooms in the Capitol, where they fared sumptuously. Instead of this, they should have been committed to jail, as any Justice of the Peace would have committed them, for the witnesses were undoubtedly in contempt. If this had been the case the Senate would have had the required answers before now. He believed now, as he had expressed heretofore, that the treaty was not made public through the State Department, the Public Printer or the Commissioners, but that it was made public through the Senate by some gross negligence or carelessness. He commented severely on the correspondents of the New-York Tribune, and, among other things, said that a malicious libel was perpetrated on him in a recent communication purporting to give an account of the examination of Mr. TINKER, which account Mr. TINKER had in a note to him denounced as untrue. He also spoke of the morality of the Press, and wanted to know if the correspondents of Newspaper-row would sanction what the Tribune correspondents had done, and at the close of their custody give them a complimentary dinner. The New-York Tribune was an alias for HORACE GREELEY, who had befriended him by acts of kindness; but HORACE GREELEY is in Texas delivering agricultural addresses, and has left the Tribune in the control of a fop and pretender—WHITELAW REID. Mr. CARPENTER continued at some length in opposition to the pending resolution to discharge the Tribune correspondents at the end of this session.

Mr. FENTON, of New-York, sent up a paper, which, by request, he caused to have read, signed by Messrs. HINTON, BOYNTON, SHAW and KNOWLTON, newspaper correspondents, saying that Mr. TINKER made the statements published in the New-York Tribune dispatch, but the said statements were not as bitter toward the Committee as those Mr. TINKER made in their presence.

After further debate by Senators THURMAN, of Ohio, and DAVIS, of Kentucky, the latter withdrew his amendment, which was to the effect that the discharge of the witnesses should not effect legal proceedings instituted under the act of January, 1857.

Mr. NYE, of Nevada, renewed it, and in the course of his remarks said that, if in the examination of Kuklux outrages, a witness had refused to testify, instead of being furnished with comfortable quarters in the Capitol, he would have been sent to that most loathsome place, called the jail, until he answered questions propounded to him. Correspondents of the Tribune are in contempt, and are amenable to the law of the land. Before proceeding further, Mr. HARLAN moved that the Senate go into Executive Session, which was agreed to—yeas 25, nays 18.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

It is understood the subject discussed by the Senate in Executive Session, today, was in some way connected with the Treaty of Washington, but the precise form of the proposition was not ascertained. It is certain, however, that it elicited a long and earnest debate, which had not terminated at the time of adjournment. The Senate have ratified the additional treaty between the United States and Great Britain, defining more clearly some of the provisions of the Naturalization Treaty.

The Senate adjourned at 6 P. M.

THE MURDERER'S DOOM.

Execution of Charles Eacker at Fonda, N. Y.—Circumstances of His Crime—His Behavior in Prison—Scenes and Incidents at the Gallows—A Horrible Spectacle.

From Our Special Correspondent.

FONDA, Montgomery County, N. Y., Friday, May 26, 1871.

CHARLES EACKER, the murderer of THOS. E. BURDICK, was executed at this place today. The crime was committed on the 5th of July, 1870, and caused an intense excitement. BURDICK was a man of high standing in the community, and EACKER had cherished a terrible enmity against him for many years. In fact, a feud had existed between the families for nearly half a century, growing out of a sentence against the father of EACKER by the father of BURDICK, while acting as a Judge. On the day of the murder, a celebration of the anniversary of the National Independence had taken place in St. Johnville, on which occasion BURDICK and EACKER were both present. At a ball in the evening, while the former stood at the bar, asking for a glass of water, EACKER entered and deliberately shot him. The murderer was at once arrested. The village was intensely excited, and it was with difficulty that the people were prevented from lynching him. EACKER'S trial commenced April 3, at this place. He was sentenced on the 6th. The evidence was very clear, six persons having witnessed the deed. While the jury were out deliberating, EACKER made a desperate attempt at suicide. A subsequent attempt was made with opium, smuggled to him in some unknown manner. He became torpid, and the jail physician with great difficulty resuscitated him. After that time he was carefully watched.

During his imprisonment he manifested the utmost indifference, alleging that he had rather die than be imprisoned for life, and would as leave be hung as not. He smoked to excess and ate heartily. He has remained obdurate during all the faithful ministrations of the Prison Chaplain, Rev. WASHINGTON FROTHINGHAM, until yesterday, when he became readily affected by the appeals of the Chaplain.

At an early hour the roads leading to the village were crowded with long lines of carriages, bringing thousands of people from all parts of the country. Company A, Eighty-third Regiment, S. N. G., under command of Capt. JOHN WARNER, arrived from Amsterdam on an early train, and surrounded the place of execution. A large force of special Deputy Sheriffs were also placed on guard. About half an acre of the lawn outside the jail had been inclosed with a strong stockade of planks fifteen feet in height. Near the centre the gallows was placed. It was newly-built of heavy timber uprights, cross-beams and braces, and painted a hideous black.

At 9 o'clock Mrs. EACKER and her two children—a lad of twelve, and a miss of eleven—entered the condemned cell, where the farewell scene was most affecting. Many of his friends then came and bade him adieu, but he scarcely paused from smoking his pipe to notice them. The scenes in the principal avenues of the village adjacent to the jail beggar all description. From five to ten thousand were crowded in the avenues surrounding the Court-house square. An enterprising and unscrupulous couple had erected a stand in the public highway against the stockade and charged $2 each for seats. As soon as this was discovered by Deputy SAMMONS, he made a sortie and dispersed the occupants. The military then took and held possession of it. All the neighboring roofs were black with accumulated humanity. One of these being in a dilapidated state, suddenly gave way, and precipitated a huge mass of flesh and broadcloth to the earth. Roars and shouts of laughter greeted this ridiculous catastrophe, which, happily, was unattended with any serious results. A chimney also gave way, and landed a cluster of humans into a pile of soot and brick-dust. A number of roughs climbed up the stockade like cats, and were dispersed by pailsful of water skillfully scattered. The hotels were overwhelmed, and their entire supply of everything, except liquors, gave out in the afternoon. Women and children were promiscuously scattered among the crowd, and in some cases were squeezed and pushed severly. The military force was inadequate for the occasion, as was shown after the execution, when the mob attacked and broke down portions of the stockade.

At 12¾ P. M. the religious services held by Rev. Messrs. FROTHINGHAM and STARK, alone with the condemned and his watchers, were concluded, and he was led out of his cell into the broad corridor. The procession was then marched to the scene of the execution. EACKER was placed in a chair directly under the gallows. There was not the slightest trace of nervousness or trepidation in his manner, but a ghastly pallor spread over his countenance as he gazed about. The Sheriff in a loud clear voice read the death-warrant, and then asked EACKER if he had anything to say. He replied: "I suppose the law must take its course; I am willing; but I am innocent."

Deputies CROUX, LAMMONS and RHEU were about to place the black cap on his face, after the noose had been adjusted, when he said, "Don't put that on me; let my spirit go up like a butterfly looking upward." But he made no resistance, and clasped his hands in the right position to be strapped. The execution was not concealed from public view. Deputy RHEU drew a sharp jackknife from his pocket and laid the blade against the weight rope in full view of the assembly. At a given signal from the Sheriff, he drew the blade across the rope. The weight descended with a dull "thud," and EACKER'S body was sprung to a height of six feet and dangled in the air. Three awful convulsions of the figure and twitchings of the clutched hands followed, and the stark stiff body hung suspended between heaven and earth.

"TOM BURDICK is avenged!" exclaimed a dear friend of the murdered man. Ten minutes passed. The pulse beat. Fourteen minutes—and the death of EACKER was pronounced by the medical attendants. Twenty minutes afterward the corpse was lowered in a casket. The features were not distorted, but were those of a stubborn, weary nature at rest. District-Attorney BAKER made an appeal in behalf of the murderer's destitute widow and orphans, which was liberally responded to. The motley crowd then dispersed with noisy demonstrations.

The third and last match between the Olympic and Boston Clubs takes place today, on the Union Grounds, Brooklyn; but owing to the unwise policy the two nines have adopted of charging half a dollar admission, it is not expected that the attendance will be large. GEORGE WRIGHT will not play, nor will ALLISON or SWEAZY.

Other Games.

The contest between the Resolute and Eckford Clubs at Elizabeth, on Wednesday, resulted in the defeat of the Resolutes by a score of 26 to 8.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 26.—A game at base-ball between the Forest City Club, of Cleveland, and the Kekiongas, of Fort Wayne, resulted in favor of the latter by a score of 16 to 7.

Accidental Shooting.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. JAMES B. THURSTON, of No. 445 East Eleventh-street, a clerk in the Seventh Ward National Bank, entered the pawn-shop of JOSEPH B. LEWIS, No. 88 Bleecker-street, to purchase a revolver. JOHN MILLER, a boy thirteen years of age employed in the shop as clerk, waited upon Mr. THURSTON, and produced several pistols of different patterns for his examination, and was showing the customer one of these of the kind known as the National revolver, when the weapon was accidentally discharged, the ball entering the left side of THURSTON, and causing a serious but not dangerous wound. Officer EDWARD DARK, detailed at the Grand Central Hotel, happening to pass, rushed in, and arresting MILLER, hurried him off to Police Head-quarters, where he was locked up. DARK also took the wounded man to the Grand Central Hotel, where he did not belong, but he was assigned a room. Coroners KEENAN and YOUNG being notified hurried to the scene, only to find no occasion for their official action except to discharge MILLER from custody.

New-York Capital at the South.

From the New-York Tribune, May 26.

Among the new enterprises undertaken at the South by Northern capitalists is the railway line from Mobile, through New-Orleans, to Houston, Texas, a distance of 475 miles, under the name of the New-Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad. The company having the work in hand comprises such prominent business men and bankers as Hon. E. D. Morgan, Hon. John A. Griswold, Hon. Oakes Ames, Messrs. Morton, Bliss & Co., J. & W. Seligman & Co., L. von Hoffman & Co., James H. Barker, Harrison Durkee, James A. Raynor, William S. Williams, and others. These gentlemen have already built, with their own funds, nearly two-thirds of the entire line, having paid in and expended upon the work nearly $10,000,000 before asking the public to buy a bond or a share of stock. Such a large expenditure of their own means without dependence upon the sale of bonds is rare among companies who undertake the construction of our railroad routes. The Mobile Division of the road constitutes the only rail connection between the two leading commercial cities of the Gulf, and the line from New-Orleans westward will give the only railroad communication between that city and the great State of Texas, with all its enormous productions of grain, cotton, cane and cattle. The value of this part of the line can be easily understood to be very great. Having proved their own faith in the ultimate success of the enterprise by the large expenditure noted, the Company have now issued eight per cent. forty-five-year bonds upon the Louisiana Division, which are the first securities of any kind which they have put upon the market. The Louisiana Division, from New-Orleans to the Sabine River, is 226 miles long. The First Mortgage Bonds are to the amount of $12,500 per mile, and Second Mortgage Bonds to an equal amount are guaranteed, principal and interest, by the State of Louisiana. The capital already invested gives a strong financial basis to the loan.

To the Public.

STUYVESANT SAFE DEPOSIT COMPANY,
CORNER SEVENTH-STREET AND THIRD-AVENUE,
OPPOSITE COOPER INSTITUTE,
NEW-YORK, May 27, 1871.

We respectfully submit that the keeping of valuables in private residences and other irresponsible places, has become, from the frequent robberies of such places, dangerous and impracticable. For this reason it has become necessary to make the safe-keeping of bonds, silver-plate, jewels and other valuables a separate and distinct incorporated business—with secure vaults, and officers, and watchmen—whose sole business it is to provide means of baffling the burglar. The burglar has hitherto been successful, because he made burglary a science, while other men were too busy about their own affairs to make a science of safe-keeping; and is it not true that men always succeed better in what they are busy and earnest about?

This want of a place of real safety, becoming more and more felt in the community, led to the establishment of safe deposit companies. Should not every citizen, therefore, visit these institutions and become familiar with their modes of transacting business, whether he desires to make use of them or not?

While there are few, if any, places in the world more impervious to the burglar and dangerous for him to attack than the vaults of Safe Deposit Companies, a thousand insecure places exist which he does attack, and where the burglar's skill constantly brings him a rich harvest. For instance: Old-fashioned bank-vaults built twenty years ago, with locks as antiquated as the vaults themselves, bankers' and brokers' offices, unwatched during the night, jewelry establishments and stores filled with costly goods, watched, perhaps, by one man alone, who may be away or asleep just at the wrong moment, and residences containing private safes. These last are tempting baits to a skillful burglar. Citizens ought to know by this time that safes in private residences are nothing more than loadstones to attract burglars. It should not be forgotten that a wealthy citizen of this City, only last Summer, was awakened at midnight by desperate burglars engaged in breaking open his private safe, and he lost his life, it is thought, by trying to defend his safe. The lesson here taught is that valuables should never be kept in private residences at any time, but least of all during the Summer months when the burglars are all at work.

We invite all careful persons before leaving the City for the Summer to visit the vaults of the Stuyvesant Safe Deposit Company, at the corner of Seventh-street and Third-avenue, opposite Cooper Institute, and satisfy themselves of the truthfulness of our statements.

Respectfully,
EBENEZER BEADLESTON, President.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

SUNDAY EDITION.

Our SUNDAY EDITION of the 28th inst. will present various features of special interest.

A highly-suggestive and striking description of SCENES IN THE INTERIOR OF JAPAN will be given, from the pen of a special correspondent. Historical and religious movements but little known to civilization will be adverted to, and the undeveloped resources of our neighbor across the Pacific will be pointed out.

The practice of hoarding so extensively carried on in Europe and the East will receive racy illustration in a little sketch entitled UNPRODUCTIVE WEALTH.

The SPIRIT OF THE RELIGIOUS PRESS will form a prominent feature of this edition, and will contain much matter for reflection and much valuable information.

In the department of CURRENT LITERATURE will be found the usual good story, and carefully-selected array of extracts from the newest books and magazines.

NOTES AND COMMENTS will be distinguished by their accustomed variety.

The weekly summary of DOMESTIC INTELLIGENCE will be unusually ample and interesting.

MILITARY GOSSIP will present the customary variety of facts calculated to interest the members of our various National Guard regiments.

Various other specially-prepared sketches will be forthcoming, to enhance the interest and value of our Sunday edition.

The LATEST INTELLIGENCE received by mail and telegraph, from all parts of the world, up to the hour of going to press, will be found in this edition. Correspondence from the great news centres of the Union and of Europe will also be provided. The local reports are invariably of equal fullness and accuracy, and no feature is wanting to perfect the title of this edition to be considered a complete family newspaper of the highest class.

From the very large and exceptionably valuable nature of the circulation of our Sunday Edition, advertisers would find it of advantage to make liberal use of the facilities it affords for reaching the very best classes in this and neighboring cities. The public approval has been extensively indorsed by the opinion of many influential newspapers. From the latter may be quoted the verdict of the Boston Transcript, an authority of unquestioned respectability: "The Sunday edition of the New-York Daily TIMES is one of the best newspapers in the country."

To insure proper classification, advertisers are requested to send in their notices not later than 9 o'clock on Saturday evening.

MISCELLANEOUS.

YOU HAVEN'T TRIED THEM.

Victim of debility, who is responsible for your feebleness? Not yourself, you will say, for you've done all you could to cure it. That's a mistake on your part.

You haven't tried Hostetter's Bitters.

Gloomy dyspeptic, with an uneasy stomach and a world-weary face, of course you don't think yourself responsible for your own torments. But you are. It is easy to see from your condition that you haven't tried Hostetter's Bitters.

Bilious sufferer, it is not your fault, you think, that your symptoms grow worse day by day. Blue pill doesn't do you any good. Very likely, but you can be brought round for all that.

Why haven't you tried Hostetter's Bitters?

Friend, on whom fever and ague alternately blows hot and cold, and whose brain seems to be bursting with the effects of some powerful drug, do you assume the responsibility? O, no! You've taken piles of quinine, and all the regulation medicines. What could you do more? One thing more—the very thing that would have exempted you from all the pains that now rack you.

You have never tried Hostetter's Bitters.

Nervous invalid, what have you to say? You plead that you have taken all the nervines of the pharmacopœia. If they have done you no good, it is not your fault. You are not responsible. Wrong, all wrong. You have, in reality, nobody to blame but yourself.

Why haven't you tried Hostetter's Bitters?

For all the above-named complaints the Bitters are absolute specifics.

I.

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE'S WORKS.
Illustrated Library Edition.

Vol. I. THE MARBLE FAUN; OR, THE ROMANCE OF MONTE BENI. 1 vol., 12mo, 571 pages, with Illustrations. Handsomely stamped. $2.

This is the initial volume of a new Library Edition of Hawthorne's Works, uniform in size and general style with the Illustrated Library Editions of DICKENS and the WAVERLEY NOVELS, which have been received with so marked popular favor. The edition will contain about ten volumes, and it is believed will meet the demand for a compact, handsome and comparatively inexpensive edition of Hawthorne. "The Marble Faun" is not only one of his greatest works, but is generally conceded to be one of the masterpieces of modern fiction. The distinguished critic, Mr. E. P. Whipple, reviewing this romance, says: "If Hawthorne had written nothing else, it would entitle him to rank among the great masters of English composition. * * * It is written in the sweetest, simplest and clearest English that ever has been made the vehicle of equal depth, variety and subtlety of thought and emotion."

INA.

By KATHERINE VALERIO. 1 vol., 8vo. Paper, 75 cents. Cloth, $1 25.

This is a novel of Italy, and is a striking delineation of Italian Social life. It is a story of true love, whose course does not run smooth; of rascality, mingled with patriotism; of masked balls, and the fascinating concomitants of life in a gay Italian City. It is so interesting a story, and so charmingly told, that it is sure of great popularity with novel-readers.

PUBLISHED THIS DAY,
A NEW BOOK
BY MARION HARLAND.

COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD.

A MANUAL OF PRACTICAL HOUSEWIFERY.

By MARION HARLAND,
Author of "Alone," "Hidden Path," "Nemesis," &c.
1 vol., 12mo, cloth. Price $1 75.

The great popularity achieved by Marion Harland as a writer of fiction will insure a most cordial reception for this volume. It is a summary of many years' practical experience in her own home, and her "fellow housekeepers, North, East, South and West," will everywhere welcome it as a hand-book of domestic economy, and a guide to proper management of their own homes. It is written with that ease only acquired by long practice as a writer, and the work throughout is inspired by that purpose which has been the uniform aim and the secret of the success of all of Marion Harland's writings—to show the dignity of needful labor, and the beauty, grace and sacredness of what is called "common life," as it is developed in our American homes.

HISTORICAL NOVELS
By ERCKMANN-CHATRIAN.
THE BLOCKADE.

An Episode of the Fall of the First French Empire.
From the French of MM. ERCKMANN-CHATRIAN.

With Four Illustrations, including Portraits of the authors. In stiff paper covers, 50 cents; in cloth, 90 cents.

The scene of this novel, one of the most powerful ever written by these joint authors, is laid in Phalsburg, one of the French strongholds, which recent momentous events have again made prominent. Like all the other stories of the series, this is life-like, spirited and graphic in its description, thrilling in incident, and perfectly pure in tone.

CRITICISM OF THE LONDON PRESS.

"This is another of the wonderful photographic pictures of war which have made MM. Erckmann-Chatrian so famous. These writers have a singular skill in lighting on those details which bring a thing closer home to one than pages of powerful writing."—London Spectator.

By the same Authors, uniform with the above in style and price.

MADAME THERESE; or, the Volunteers of '92. With five full-page Illustrations.

TWO IMPORTANT NEW BOOKS:

PAPERS FOR HOME READING.
By Rev. JOHN HALL, D. D.
Of Fifth-avenue Presbyterian Church, New-York.

One elegant vol. 12mo, with portrait engraved by Ritchie, $1 75.

Its contents, which are of a highly popular and at the same time practical nature, are characterized by the terse and pointed style, directness of purpose, keen insight and ready humor which are peculiar to the writer.

The publishers take pleasure in presenting the excellent portrait of the author, which they believe will be regarded as a particularly faithful likeness.

THE AMERICAN CARDINAL:
A Novel.
One vol. 12mo, scarlet cloth, $1 50.

A story of intense interest and dramatic power. The plot turns on a well-authenticated incident in the life of a proselyte to the Roman Catholic Church, who obtained a Papal dispensation separating him from his wife, that he might enter the priesthood. It is written by an eminent Evangelical Episcopalian, who will remain anonymous. It deals with the Catholic question from a new stand-point, and cannot fail to attract much attention and lead to much discussion.

"He has produced a thoroughly entertaining book. He has contrived to bring out a narrative often as detailed as Pepys, as versatile and life-like as Boswell, and as full of recent personal interest as Crabb Robinson, with much higher execution and general tone. Its merits are much too varied and subtle to be conveyed in a summary. It is not a barren record of facts, but a vivid and kindly chronicle of life and manners, and men and minds, running over the last half century. It is the talk, and gossip, and anecdote, grave and gay, of a man who came to his maturity before we were all living intellectually too fast. To name the dramatis personæ who flit, as it were, across the stage, or linger on it would be to draw up a list of most of the famous people since George III.'s reign, and it is hard to say what subjects do not get touched upon sooner or later. Ghost stories, remarks on wages, knotty discussions on Wellington tactics, with rare anecdotes about the duke, are all made up with the raciest portraits of odd people, and records of odd events."—Saturday Review.

CULTIVATE THE OBSERVING POWERS OF CHILDREN.
By ELIZA A. YOUMANS.
With 300 Engravings. Price reduced to $1.

Miss Youmans' book is the best for beginners in this study in several important respects. It lays the foundation of the science in the only way it can be properly done, by providing for the direct and constant study of plants themselves. This is secured by the schedule-method of Prof. Henslow, which is here first simplified and carried out for the use of beginners. In this way object-teaching is reduced to a system, and the powers of observation, comparison, and judgment are regularly and methodically cultivated. Miss Youmans claims that botany may be made to do for the observing faculties what mathematics does for the reasoning faculty, and in preparing a book by which this work may be commenced, she has met the profoundest need of popular education.

TAXATION.

Address by Hon. H. C. Van Vorst Before the West-Side Association—Errors in the System of Assessment in This State.

At the sixth public meeting of the West-side Association, at the Apollo Rooms, last evening, Judge H. C. VAN VORST made an able address in regard to taxation and the principles of its assessment, especially pointing out the defects of the system that prevails in this State.

There is no subject, he said, to the consideration of which the West-side Association can more properly direct its attention than that of taxation and the principles of its assessment. In a free country, where, in theory, the people themselves create the burdens which become the subjects of taxation, and also determine the manner of its assessment, there should of necessity be less complaint in regard either to the amount of the taxes or the character and description of the property on which they should rest. It is otherwise in a despotic Government where there is no representation; where the subjects have no voice in legislation, and are obliged, willingly or unwillingly, to apply their property to discharge impositions laid upon them by the will of a despotic Prince. Proper and legitimate taxation should be and is cheerfully borne by the people of this State, because it is the exponent of their civilization and affords the means of protecting rights of property, character and liberty. This country can be engaged in no expensive war, nor can large and unnecessary expenditures which increase the burdens of taxation be incurred without the concurrence of the representatives of the people. Taxation in New-York has grown from $20,500,000, in 1861, to over $50,300,000 in 1870, a most extraordinary increase within such a space of time, and to which the increased assessed valuation of property in the State bears no reasonable relation. In New-York we have no poll-tax, and all assessments for the maintenance of the State, as well Municipal as County Government, is made upon property. And this is as it should be; for property should pay all Government expenses incident to its protection, as well as for the conservation of the life, liberty and other rights of the owner. Inequality in taxation is a ground of complaint as just as that of excessive burdens, although perhaps, not to the same degree. There is no room for doubt that the system of assessment of taxes in the State of New-York is very imperfect, and justly obnoxious to criticism and complaint. A careful examination of this subject will show that the great burden of taxation in the State of New-York falls upon the real estate, while personal property comparatively escapes. It is submitted that a system of laws, or their administration which leads to such results is unjust and needs reformation. Personal property needs as much protection under the Government as land, and receives such protection, and should bear an equal share of the expenses of maintaining the Government which guards it. This inequality, in a great degree, results from the fact that a large portion of personal property is invisible, consisting of bonds, stocks and choses in action, which can be readily concealed from observation, while fixed property is open to examination to be reached by the assessors. And besides, while a citizen may deduct from his personal estate, in determining the amount thereof liable to taxation, the amount of all charges against him therefor, and also his general indebtedness for all causes, no such deduction can be made for any lien or charge on his real estate. The holder of real estate is assessed with its whole value, notwithstanding it may be charged with the lien of judgments, mortgages or assessments for its improvement. In addition, a very considerable amount of personal property escapes taxation by the creation of fictitious debts by the holders and owners of the same, created for the express purpose of reducing the amount of property liable to taxation. There is much positive fraud and concealment practiced to exonerate it from its fair proportion of Governmental burden. It is surprising to see how many persons, who were supposed to be in the most easy circumstances, although not in the ownership of any real estate, are suddenly found to be almost propertyless, or greatly in debt, about the time the assessments are annually made. Surely no valid reason can be assigned why more effective measures should not be taken to reach and subject to taxation the vast amount of personal estate owned by the people of New-York, and situated within its limits, which in the aggregate is fully equal in value to all the real property within the bounds of the State. The principle should be settled and clearly understood, that all personal estate situated in New-York, not exempted by Federal laws from taxation, nor specially excepted by our own statutes at present, should be assessed and taxed, and all needed legislation to this end should be claimed, and the laws so made should be honestly administered to reach this just conclusion. All property abiding here for use or trade, and enjoying the protection of our laws, should bear its fair share of the burden of taxation. And from this enumeration of personal property liable to taxation, I would also except, as a matter of direct justice and propriety, mortgages on real estate, with the bonds accompanying the same. To exhibit how little of the burden of taxation falls upon the personal estate, we need only consider that the whole amount of property returned for taxation in the State of New-York for the years 1869–1870 was $1,860,120,770, of which $434,270,278, or less than one quarter, was returned as personal estate. A member of the Constitutional Convention, from the City of New-York, stated in the debate on the subject of the assessment of taxes, that he could name thirty-five gentlemen in the State whose aggregate wealth exceeded $450,000,000, or some $15,000,000 in excess of the entire assessed value of all personal estate in New-York. There is little room for doubt that instead of $1,800,000,000, being the value of the entire property, real and personal, of the State of New-York, it is fully equal to $6,000,000,000. And if all this property was fairly reached and subjected to taxation, with the exceptions above alluded to, the evils and consequent burdens of excessive and unequal taxation would disappear, and even with an expenditure of $60,000,000 per annum, the rate of taxation would fall to one per cent. and under. And if the laws, even as they now exist, were faithfully administered, the rate of taxation would scarcely exceed that amount. Another evil incident to our present system of assessment proceeds from the want of truthfulness, or uniformity even, in our erroneous system of the valuation of real estate for the purposes of taxation. The law upon this subject is very explicit, in fact so much so that he who runs may read.

> "All land within this State, whether owned by individuals or corporations, shall be liable to taxation. All real estate liable to taxation shall be estimated and assessed by the assessors at its true and full value, as they would appraise the same in payment of a just debt from a solvent debtor."

The law then prescribes that the Assessors, after the completion of their assessment-roll, shall make and subscribe an oath to the effect that they have set down all the real estate subject to their jurisdiction, and have estimated the same at the sums which a majority of the Assessors have decided to be the full and true value thereof, and at which they would appraise the same in payment of a just debt from a solvent debtor, and "every Assessor who shall willfully swear false in taking and subscribing said oath shall be deemed guilty of and liable to the penalties of willful and corrupt perjury." It would be difficult to find a law where the duty of the officers to administer it is more clearly defined. Yet we all know that the law is so treated as to have become substantially a dead letter. Now, under this law, what assessment-roll which has been made out in this State, in any part of it, for the past ten years, is true? While in its defective administration much perjury has been committed, great injustice and inequality have also arisen. In the erroneous system of valuation adopted instead of that pointed out by the statute, no uniform or just method has been instituted in its stead. It is entirely arbitrary and different in the various districts of the State, according to the option of the assessor. While the personal estate in New-York is not assessed to one-fifth of its value, the real estate is not assessed at one-half. In the administration of their office in the various parts of the State, there seems to be a struggle between Assessors as to which can attain to the lowest valuation, in order that the people of their respective districts may pay the lowest rate of taxation, and ministerial officers are commended to the suffrage of their constituents for infidelity rather than fidelity in office. Mr. VAN VORST quoted largely from the report of the Commissioners, of which Hon. DAVID A. WELLS is Chairman, made to the Legislature of the State at its last session. It is a matter of the first concern to us in New-York, and to the members of this Association, that this whole subject be placed on such a basis of valuation, whatever it may be, the full actual value or fifty per cent. thereof, as will secure certainty, uniformity and honesty in the administration of the law. The whole system as at present administered, is demoralizing in the extreme. The subject calls for legislative action, and this Association could perform no higher service to the public than through its action to have this matter placed on some uniform basis. In the States of New-Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania, mortgages on real property are exempted from taxation over a very considerable portion of their respective territories. The result has proved beneficial to the States in question, and greatly to the advantage of the districts in which the exemption prevails. The rate of interest allowed by law with us is fixed at seven per centum per annum. Taxation on mortgages, and on the income derived therefrom, both Federal and State, has the effect to reduce the rate of interest to the holder to less than five per centum per annum. The consequence follows that few persons care to loan money on such security. The proper method of relief is to entirely exempt mortgages on real estate from taxation. The members of this Association should bear in mind that each one has a duty to perform in respect to the subject discussed here to-night. Each one has an influence to be rightly and efficiently exercised toward obtaining the required legislative action in the premises.

Hon. FERNANDO WOOD also made an address during the evening on "Municipal Government and Public Improvements," with especial reference and application to the west side.

Both addresses were well received.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The sales at the Exchange, yesterday, (May 26,) were of minor importance, and all of a legal character. They were as follows:

JAMES M. MILLER, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of JAMES MAURICE, Esq., referee, disposed of four lots on the south-east corner of Tenth-avenue and Ninety-first-street, all purchased by Mr. THOMAS MORRILL. The corner lot, in size 25.8 by 100, brought $6,225, and the other three, adjoining, 25 by 100, each, respectively, $4,975, $4,575 and $4,125.

JAMES A. FLEURY also, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of HARVEY SHELDON, Esq., referee, sold a three-story brown-stone-front house and lot on the south side of One Hundred and Twenty-seventh-street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, lot 18.9x99.11, for $13,800; purchaser, A. B. CHASE. The mortgage foreclosed amounted, with interest and costs, to about $7,300, and the property sold for $6,500 over and above this sum. Mr. CHASE was the defendant in the foreclosure suit, having sold the mortgage and guaranteed its payment.

ROBERTS & MCGUIRE, by order of M. T. BRENNAN, Sheriff, disposed of the right, title and interest of CATHERINE HOLDEN, in and to two houses and lots on the north-west corner of First-avenue and Seventy-fifth-street; lots together, 42 by 70; interest said to amount to about $700; sold for $1,600, to HENRY NEIDIG. No further business was transacted except an adjournment, by MULLER, WILKINS & Co., until June 2, of a legal sale of property on Cannon-street, near Rivington.

The suburban auctions held on Thursday, resulted as follows: At Mamaroneck, Westchester County, S. DINGEE & Co. offered for sale 592 acres of land, together with a number of country residences, embracing the property known as the Central Subdivision of the Grand Park Enterprise. The day was a pleasant one, and the attendance on the ground large, numbering some 400 persons, but for some unaccountable reason bidding was inactive, and but comparatively a small portion of the property—about seventy acres—was sold. The details, with names of purchasers, are given below. The total receipts of the sale reached $63,604 60, but in this sum are included the prices received for three of the most desirable lots embraced in the scheme, namely, the Hawley mansion, with some ten acres of land, sold for $22,000; the Clapp house, with twelve acres, sold for $13,000, and the McIntyre homestead, with nearly six acres, sold for $5,350. Owing to the poor success achieved, the sale was adjourned at 4 o'clock, when it was announced that the remainder of the property would be offered at public auction within the next two weeks, at the New-York Real Estate Exchange, No. 111 Broadway.

The sale of lots at Edgewater, Staten Island, conducted by JOHNSON & MILLER, from the report below published it will be seen was attended with better success than the Westchester auction, all the lots offered—140 in number—being disposed of. The prices of the lots sold—in size each 25 by 100—ranged from $100 to $295 per lot, according to location or fancy, while the average price per lot is about $140. The total of the sale is something over $20,000, a satisfactory result, although falling a little below the figure anticipated by the projectors of the auction. As to the character of the transaction, we are assured by the auctioneers that all the sales were bona fide. The attendance at the auction was very large.

At Flushing, Long Island, on Thursday, EDWARD A. LAWRENCE offered for sale 153 acres of land, embraced in the Bowne estate, but with not very satisfactory results. The land was offered in thirty-six village plots, of which three were sold, viz.: plot No. 12, five acres, with mansion house thereon, sold for $13,250, and two plots adjoining, containing together about five acres, sold at the rate of $1,225 per acre. The name of the purchaser given in was DUGAN, but it was rumored that Mr. OLIVER CHARLICK bought the property. All the rest of the estate offered was bought in by interested parties, the bids made being below the estimated value. This value was $80,000 for the entire farm, or $500 per acre. Another attempt to sell the estate will be made June 29, to which date the sale of Thursday was adjourned. In reference to the sale of the Stedwell residence at Flushing, yesterday, proposed by Mr. LAWRENCE, no report has been received.

For today, at the Exchange, no sales are announced; and in country real estate the only auction to take place is one at Flushing, Long Island, again conducted by E. A. LAWRENCE, at which the property known as the Higgins Nurseries, embracing 1,000 building lots, will be offered. For next week, quite a number of sales are projected, full details in reference to which will be given on Monday. Among the most important of the auctions proposed is that to be held on Thursday, under the direction of A. J. BLEECKER, SON & Co., at Whitestone, Long Island, at which 550 building lots will be sold, together with fifteen newly-finished cottage houses. The enterprise is one of special interest, as a large amount of money has been expended in the improvement of the property, in order to fit it for the purpose designed—a desirable locality for suburban residences.

At private sale, R. C. FERGUSON, No. 111 Broadway, reports having recently disposed of the following property: Thirty-two lots on the north side of Sixty-ninth-street, forming one-half of the block between Eighth and Ninth avenues, sold for $300,000; four lots on the south-west corner of Eighth-avenue and Eighty-second-street sold for $70,000; and five lots on the north side of One Hundred and Sixteenth-street, 140 feet west of Fifth-avenue, sold for $3,500 each. The same broker also reports the sale of ten lots on the north-east corner of Sixty-fourth-street and Madison-avenue for $155,000; same property sold a few months since for $102,500.

D. M. SEAMAN, No. 14 Pine-street, reports having effected the sale of the premises known as Nos. 266 and 267 West-street, for $100,000; property embraces a two-story brick foundry building with two lots together, 44 by 83, also water rights in front.

550 SPLENDID BUILDING LOTS
AND
FIFTEEN NEWLY-FINISHED HOUSES
AT
WHITESTONE, L. I.,

TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION, ON THE PREMISES,

THURSDAY, JUNE 1, BY A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO.

Beautifully situated on high ground, commanding magnificent views of the East River and Long Island Sound.

Also, fifteen new cottages withing five minutes' walk of the depot, on finished avenues, which are already sewered, curbed, guttered, and macadamized and paid for. Thirty trains daily on the best equipped and managed railroad in the country. Two steam-boats land daily at Whitestone. The houses were built by Elmendorf and Scofield in the best style, and contain furnace, range, hot and cold water, gas-pipes, stationary tubs, bath-room, and water-closets. Each house has ten rooms, marble mantels, grates, and registers. The taxes are limited by charter one-half of one per cent. This is the first opportunity afforded where such extensive improvements have been made and paid for. The great accessibility of this property to our City, the salubrity and great beauty of the country, and the vast improvements now being made by the proprietors of this tract offer inducements for suburban residences never before presented to our citizens. Terms most favorable. Maps and particulars at No. 77 Cedar-st.

A special train will leave Hunter's Point at 11½ o'clock on the day of sale.

SHERIFF'S SALE,

BY ORDER OF THE SUPREME COURT, UNDER FORECLOSURE OF MORTGAGES.

The Sheriff of Westchester County, by virtue of a decree of the Supreme Court, will positively sell at public auction, without reserve.

On SATURDAY, June 3, at 1 o'clock, on the premises,

400 CHOICE LOTS,

Situated at the depot at

MAMARONECK.

The Mamaroneck and White Plains Boulevard, 100 feet wide, runs through the property. The lots on Winfield-av., the main thoroughfare of Mamaroneck, are all desirable for business purposes.

Mamaroneck, one of the principal stations on the New-York and New-Haven Railroad, is only twenty miles from New-York City. The property lies in full view of the depot. The streets are opened, and the lots are ready for improvement.

For the accommodation of all classes of buyers, the property will be sold in

SINGLE LOTS AND SMALL PARCELS.
THE SALE WILL BE ABSOLUTE IN EVERY RESPECT.

Particular attention is called to the fact that NO LIMIT CAN BE PLACED ON THE PROPERTY, AS IT MUST BE SOLD TO SATISFY MORTGAGES, under the decree of the Court. Purchasers may therefore bid with the utmost confidence, as every lot will be sold to the highest bidder, without reservation or restriction.

TO MEN OF MODERATE MEANS, CLERKS, MECHANICS and others, or to capitalists seeking investments, this sale offers rare inducements, as from its location on the main highways, in such close proximity to the depot, it must surely and rapidly rise in value.

Remember, this is the only property near the depot suitable for business purposes.

Take trains at New-York and New-Haven Railroad Depot at 9 or 11¼ A. M. on the day of sale.

TERMS—TEN PER CENT. AND THE AUCTIONEER'S FEE ON DAY OF SALE, AND THE BALANCE IN THIRTY DAYS.

Maps may be obtained of ROBERT H. BRUNDAGE, Esq., Sheriff, at White Plains; at Summer's Hotel, opposite the depot; or at the office of JOHNSON & MILLER, No. 25 Nassau-st., New-York.

FOSTER SENTENCED.

His Execution to Take Place on the Fourteenth of July.

HOW HE RECEIVED HIS DOOM.

Address of Judge Cardozo to the Prisoner.

The Motion for a Stay of Proceedings Deferred.

Further Particulars Concerning the Finding of the Jury.

Yesterday morning WILLIAM FOSTER, convicted of the murder of Mr. AVERY D. PUTNAM in the first degree, was formally sentenced. The public interest in the case did not appear to have in the least diminished, and the culminating scene in the drama created even a greater amount of attention than any of its previous phases. Long ere the hour for the opening of the Court the entire building was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the thousands who sought admission, and even the streets outside the Court, from which a view of FOSTER could be obtained on his entrance in custody of the Police, were filled with an anxious and expectant multitude. The general arrangements to avoid over-crowding, which had been observed since the commencement of the trial, were rigidly carried out, and the Court-room was only moderately filled by a respectable and intelligent audience. Shortly after 10 o'clock Judge CARDOZO, pale and haggard-looking, and evidently aware of the responsibility of his position, entered the Court, Judge GARVIN, Judge STUART and the other counsel engaged in the case making their appearance almost simultaneously. The prisoner's wife arrived early, and about 10½ FOSTER was brought in in the custody of the Deputy Sheriffs. He looked paler and more care-worn than on the previous day, and did not attempt to hide the anxiety which overpowered him. When asked in the usual manner what he had to say why sentence of death should not be pronounced against him, he burst into tears, and with a spasmodic effort denied having any intention to murder Mr. PUTNAM, alleging that drunkenness was the cause of the crime. Sentence was then pronounced as given below. FOSTER was immediately afterward handed into the custody of the Sheriff and remanded again to the Tombs, where he will remain until the 14th of July next when he will be executed.

THE SENTENCE.

Judge GARVIN said: If the Court please, I move now that, in accordance with the verdict rendered by the jury, of guilty of murder in the first degree, the Court now proceed to pronounce the sentence of the law upon WILLIAM FOSTER for the murder of AVERY D. PUTNAM.

Judge STUART—My learned associate and myself had purposed to move in arrest of judgment before your Honor, but in consulting the case of the People vs. Appel, with which you are familiar, we are satisfied this Court has not the power to afford any relief to this unfortunate man under the present circumstances of the case and in his present condition, and the motion if favorably entertained and indeed granted, would only work some little delay, bringing no benefit to the prisoner and perhaps no justice to the people. We therefore have concluded not to submit that motion to your Honor this morning, but to rely upon our writ of error, and as we know, and your Honor knows, we can take no action in that direction until after judgment is pronounced. For these reasons we are compelled to forego the course I have suggested, and now readily and willingly, and with great humility, await the judgment of the Court.

The prisoner was then asked what he had to say why sentence of death should not be pronounced against him.

FOSTER, (in violent grief)—I had been drinking a great deal that day and night. I had no intention of killing Mr. PUTNAM; I did not know at the time what I was doing.

Judge CARDOZO then proceeded to pass sentence. He said:

"I have no wish by any words of mine to increase the anguish of your present situation. Yours was a frightful crime, and you are to expiate it, so far as this world is concerned, by a fearful doom, not only in vindication of our outraged laws, but as a terrible warning to the reckless, which it will be well for them to heed, to desist from deeds of violence and blood. The public excitement which your crime evoked has been shut out from the temple of justice, and you have had a calm, patient trial, in which every point of any doubt has been ruled in your favor. Counsel most learned and faithful have urged every thing which ability and zeal could suggest on your behalf. A most intelligent and impartial jury, substantially of your own selection, have been your triers. But the case was too forlorn for human effort, almost even for hope. Influenced, doubtless, only by that tenderness which right-minded men generally feel in respect to life, the jury have recommended you to mercy. That belongs only to the Executive, but let me caution you against a too fondly-indulged hope that your life may be spared. Rather let me admonish you to prepare through the instrumentality of the religious faith in which you were educated to meet the dread change that awaits you. It is not likely that human mercy will be accorded to you. Appeal speedily to Him who is all-merciful. The solemn duty only remains for me to declare the sentence which the law prescribes. It is that you, WILLIAM FOSTER, be taken hence to jail, and there on the 14th day of July next be hanged by the neck until you are dead. May God have mercy upon your soul."

The prisoner was then removed.

HOW THE VERDICT WAS REACHED.

It has been ascertained, beyond the fact that the Jury in the Foster case stood ten for murder in the first degree when they went into their room on Wednesday, that the entire twelve were unanimous in the opinion that FOSTER killed PUTNAM with a premeditated design to take life. They arrived at this conclusion by a simple course of reasoning. They considered that the weapon used was of a deadly character; that FOSTER formed the design when he asked the driver if he had a hook; that he seized it when Mr. PUTNAM was leaving the car, and went around the vehicle, instead of directly toward his victim, and struck the blow from behind, doing the deed with deliberation and, in the estimation of the jury, with pure malice. These facts being shown to their satisfaction, there was but one other question to consider, and that was how to apply the law. Those sections of the statutes relating to the two grades of the offense—murder in the first and second degrees—which had been given them in the charge of the Court, they well and distinctly remembered, and having found that malice and premeditation existed, they could not do otherwise than find a verdict of murder in the first degree. The two jurymen who partially dissented did so purely from motives of humanity. They dreaded to be the instruments of sending FOSTER to a felon's grave, and sought to find some way of escape. But it was impossible. The law prescribed the penalty for the crime which, in their estimation, was clearly proven. They all united in a recommendation to mercy, willing to give FOSTER one last chance for his life by an appeal to the Executive. The verdict, as it stands recorded, was agreed upon by the jury at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning. They waited until 10 o'clock, in the expectation that the Court would send for them. Then one of their number suggested that the Court did not sit until 10½ o'clock, and half an hour more was spent in silence. At last they sent to the Judge, asking if he would send for them. He replied, not until they had agreed upon them. He replied, not until they had agreed upon a verdict. They sent a message that they had agreed, when the Judge requested them to wait until the prisoner should be sent for, so that it was about 11 o'clock before the verdict was delivered. The defense, in the estimation of the jury, was nothing. The prosecution proved all the facts which the defendant's counsel virtually admitted, all that had been shown on the part of the people. The only point the defense sought to make was that the deceased had not been properly treated, and that he might have recovered, but those "twelve silent witnesses"—the fragments of Mr. PUTNAM's skull—banished all theories on this point. The fact that FOSTER was drunk was only incidentally brought out, and no attempt was made on the part of the defense to show the grade of intoxication at the time the blows were struck. The summing up of the case on the part of defendant's counsel was wearying to the jury, but they were compelled to suffer the infliction of a two-hours' speech from the associate counsel after Judge STUART had said all that seemed to be necessary, and had concluded by begging for a verdict of murder in the second degree as the highest crime of which the prisoner was guilty.

It is now probable that Judge STUART will draw up as strong an appeal as possible for presentation to the Governor, and that he will seek to procure the signatures of the jury to it. They have already recommended FOSTER to mercy, and cannot well decline to sign the appeal; but it may not have the desired effect. The Governor is known to be inflexible in such matters, as was shown in the case of REAL, where great provocation is alleged to have existed for the commission of the crime; and it is not believed that, considering the state of public sentiment in this case of FOSTER, he will interpose the Executive clemency.

It is said that the argument on the bill of exceptions which Judge STUART is preparing cannot by any possibility be heard at the General Term of the Supreme Court, which sits in June, and that therefore the case will have to go over until the Fall—if a stay of proceedings be granted. It was the prevailing impression while Judge STUART was engaged in selecting a jury, that delays were interposed for the purpose of putting the case over beyond the June General Term of the Court. In the event of the stay of proceedings being granted, the argument will be heard on the bill of exceptions before the General Term in November, and thence an appeal will be taken—if a decision adverse to the prisoner is made—to the Court of last resort; so that final judgment may not be had before December or January. But Judge CARDOZO may refuse to grant a stay of proceedings, as it is a matter of discretion in the Oyer and Terminer, and if the stay should also be refused by the other Judges of the district, and by the June General Term, the condemned would be executed, even while his case was practically pending in the upper Courts.

THE CAPTURED ROUGHS.

Edwards and Collins at Police Head-quarters and the Tombs—They Are Committed for Trial at the Special Sessions This Morning.

The fraternity of roughs has rarely been in a more disturbed condition than it was on the reception of the news that the noted bruisers BILLY EDWARDS and TIM COLLINS had been captured by the Police immediately upon their return to the City from the prize-fight on Long Island, and were locked up at Police Head-quarters. As it was understood that they would be taken before Justice DOWLING at an early hour, hundreds of the short-haired and bullet-headed gathered at the Tombs Police Court to learn the fate of their idols. Justice DOWLING was greatly annoyed by the crowds filling his Court, and when presently a noted criminal lawyer made inquiries as to what disposition had been made of the prize-fighters, the Magistrate said that they had not been brought before him, and he supposed that they had been sent before Justice MCQUADE. This announcement had the desired effect of clearing the room of the roughs, who rushed away, and by all sorts of conveyances, but principally by street-cars, sought the quiet suburban Court at Harlem, only to find that nothing was known there of the subjects of their search.

Meantime the bruisers had remained in their cells at Police Head-quarters, the lions of the hour. Hundreds of persons sought interviews with them, and the development of a morbid curiosity to see two illiterate youths whose sole merit was proficiency in the art of pummeling, was something marvelous. EDWARDS and COLLINS occupied adjoining rooms, and received all comers with the dignity becoming their temporary importance. Both were battered, bruised, disfigured, repulsive in appearance, and could not be mistaken for other than the brutes they are. At noon they were removed from their cells and in charge of Capt. IRVING, Detectives DUNN, KELSO and FINNE, were taken before Justice DOWLING, at the Tombs. Being recognized, hundreds of urchins and loafers gathered about them, and Capt. IRVING could only escape the multitude eager to gaze upon the disfigured roughs by taking refuge in a Bleecker-street car. They were thus got into the examination-room attached to the Tombs Police Court without being followed by a crowd of admirers. On the contrary no one was present but the Magistrate, Superintendent KELSO, the prisoners, the witnesses against them, the officers, and the reporters. The proceedings were brief and informal. An affidavit was made by EDWARD DELOGUE, of No. 157 Chrystie-street, JOHN MADDEN, No. 136 East Twenty-eighth-street, and JAMES MCKENNA, No. 126 West Twenty-fourth-street, that EDWARDS and COLLINS had been engaged as principals in a prize-fight within the jurisdiction of the State of New-York, and that they had secretly left the City of New-York for the purpose of engaging therein. The prisoners were then committed to the Tombs in default of $5,000 bail each, for their appearance for trial in the Court of Special Sessions, this morning. The witnesses were immediately served with subpœnas, and were also required to give bonds in $1,000 each for their attendance, to testify in the case.

THOMAS MCALPINE, one of the umpires of the recent prize-fight, was arrested, late last night, and locked up at Police Head-quarters.

THE INSURANCE CONVENTION.

Third Day's Proceedings—Important Paper from the Chamber of Commerce.

The third day's session of the Insurance Convention was held yesterday at the office of the New-York Board of Fire Underwriters.

Mr. A. A. LOW, Chairman of a committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, read a communication from that Committee. The Committee expressed their appreciation of the importance of the objects of the Convention, and urged the enactment of such laws as would secure safety to the insured with the least inconvenience to the companies. The possibility of great conflagrations occurring in this and other large cities was alluded to, and the necessity of having fire insurance companies rest upon a firm basis, was dwelt upon. Fire companies were liable to be broken up by the disasters of a single day, while life companies were not subject to such calamities. For this reason the Committee confined their attention to the subject of insurance against fire. It was urged that the public safety required that companies should not transact business in a State, when their funds were locked up in other States, and various other suggestions were offered for the consideration of the Convention. The report was signed by A. A. Low, Jonathan Sturges, S. B. Chittenden, M. K. Jesup and John Taylor Johnston.

Resolutions were read from the National Board of Underwriters to the effect that the interests of the public required clear and concise reports of the condition of all fire insurance companies and an uniformity of forms and reports.

A report was read from the Accidental Insurance Company, setting forth that the same uniformity of public supervision should be extended to those companies. They hoped that the day was not far distant when contracts of insurance will be regarded in the same light as all other classes of commercial contracts.

Mr. ELIZUR WRIGHT, of Massachusetts, read a paper on "The Test of Solvency in Life Insurance." In considering the solvency of a company, he said, the following points should be taken into account:

1. Its present assets. 2. The actual premiums receivable. 3. The rate of interest that may be expected. 4. The rate of mortality. 5. The range of the policies on the chance that the average claim will be more or less than the average policy. 6. The probable expenditure outside of policy claims. 7. The effect of forfeiture and surrender.

The Convention then adjourned until today.

The Radcliffe Diamond Case.

Yesterday, Commissioner OSBORNE instituted an investigation in reference to the claim put forward by F. C. ESMOND for the informer's moiety in the Radcliffe diamond smuggling case. ESMOND and JUSTICE were examined. They agreed in stating that the arrest was produced on the information of ESMOND, and that Col. WHITELY promised him not only immunity from punishment, but also recompense as a Government witness. On the occasion of their interview, they said, WHITELY stated he would realize $100,000 by the arrest. The case is still on.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

A writ of habeas corpus in the case of EDWIN H. CURTIS, an enlisted soldier of the United States Army, who claims to be a minor, was returnable before Judge MCCUNN, in the Special Term of the Superior Court, yesterday. The petitioner, with his squad, had left for the General Depot in Pennsylvania before the writ was served. The officer's return, that the petitioner was not in his custody, was therefore accepted as satisfactory and the writ discharged.

In the Marine Court, yesterday, the case of DORMAN vs. MITCHELL having been called, Mr. COUDERT, who appeared on one side, objected to GEORGE W. NILES, the attorney opposed, appearing, on the ground that twenty-five years ago he was convicted of a felony and disbarred. Mr. NILES produced a pardon from the Governor at the time of his liberation, and gave other explanations. The Judge adjourned the further hearing until next week.

A regular meeting of the members of the New-York Liberal Club was held last evening, at Plimpton Hall, corner of Ninth and Stuyvesant streets. Mr. WALTER C. LYMAN read an interesting paper entitled "A New System of Dramatic Expression," explanatory of the relation existing between the mind and the different organs of the body, and showing the effect which the action of the former produced in the formation and general appearance of the frame.

Coroner YOUNG was notified yesterday to hold an inquest on the remains of AUGUST FRANCHANT, a native of France, who resided at No. 113 West Nineteenth-street. Deceased, some time since, betrayed symptoms of insanity, and was taken to Bloomingdale Asylum, but after a time, being supposed to be restored, was discharged and taken to the house of a friend in Mount Vernon, Westchester County, where he committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor during one of the paroxysms of his malady.

The Metropolitan Gas Company insists upon the right to lay gas-pipe in Central Park, connecting the west side with the main in Fifth-avenue. The Park Commissioners deny it, and caused the arrest recently of the foreman and another man in charge of a gang of men who commenced laying pipe for the Gas Company in the Central Park. The case was before the Yorkville Police Court yesterday, and was adjourned for two weeks. It is a test case.

Old umbrella vendors are regarded as capital judges of barometrical changes. They can tell with almost as much accuracy as an astronomer when a heavy rain-storm is expected, and they take advantage of their knowledge to do a profitable business. When a severe shower visits the City they appear in the streets with magical celerity, carrying bundles of second-hand umbrellas ready for use.

The closing lecture of the course, on the "History and Æsthetics of Architecture," was delivered last evening by P. B. WIGHT, Esq. The history of architecture was illustrated by illuminated photographs of the best specimens of the various schools of architecture, beginning with the Egyptian.

BROOKLYN.

The body of an unknown man was picked up in the water off the Atlantic Dock, yesterday morning, by a boatman, who immediately informed the Coroner of the fact, and demanded $3, the usual legal fee for such service. The Coroner, however, refused to pay, whereupon the boatman promptly returned to the dock and set the body once more afloat. This difficulty arose from the fact that the Supervisor at Large refuses to make any allowance for the finding of bodies, and the Coroners refuse to pay it out of their own inquest fees.

Mr. PATRICK GILMORE, the well-known music director, was by order of Judge GILBERT, of the Supreme Court, arrested yesterday morning for a debt of $130, owed to another musician named CARL EISNER. The account had been standing since 1868. After a short hearing Mr. GILMORE, by the advice of his counsel, compromised the matter, and was then set at liberty.

Since the failure of the property-owners of Montague-street to obtain a permanent injunction restraining the city from collecting the assessments for the repavement of that thoroughfare, a general disposition has been shown by the owners of real estate to abandon the contest and pay their taxes.

LONG ISLAND.

JOHN SEAMAN was arraigned, last evening, before Justice HAMILTON, charged with deserting his wife, JULIA. Both JOHN and JULIA are of African descent, and the interest taken by the colored people of Flushing is immense. Complaint was also made against a colored lady styled HANNAH BLAIR, who, it is alleged, has threatened JULIA. When the so-called HANNAH BLAIR was put upon the stand, the Court, District-Attorney and audience were astonished to hear that her name was Mrs. HANNAH SEAMAN, and she was the wife of the prisoner. Two wives in Court were too much, and the case was adjourned for a further hearing.

Yesterday morning the harness-shop of EDWARD CORNELL, on Main-street, Flushing, was entered by burglars, and a large amount of valuable stock, including a number of whips, stolen. The burglars gained an entrance by means of the rear door, the key of which was turned by nippers. Blankets were found spread upon the floor, as if they intended to remove a large amount of loose material, partially-finished stock, &c. It is thought they were frightened before the work was completed.

On account of the difficulty in inducing any one to accept the office of Overseer of Highways for Hempstead, the Commissioners of Highways for that town have been compelled to suspend operations. The office, it is understood, has been offered to a dozen different persons, all of whom politely declined the honor.

A man named DONAHUE was last evening examined by Justice HAMILTON, of Flushing, charged by one Mrs. SMITH with an attempted outrage. The accused was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The Board of Assessors of Long Island City have organized by the election of EDWIN MILLS as President and JOHN QUINN Secretary.

NEW-JERSEY.

Col. DUDLEY S. GREGORY, Jr., and Messrs. THOMAS MURPHY and JOHN BRADLEY had a narrow escape from a terrible death, yesterday, while attending the testing of the fire-alarm telegraph in Jersey City. The party had arrived at No. 3 Engine-house, when, before the engineer finished his examination of the bell, the weights controlling it, weighing about 3,700 pounds, became detached and fell through the tower to the ground, almost grazing the persons of the gentlemen, who were so petrified with fear that they could not move for several minutes.

Two immigrant swindlers named GEORGE SEYMOUR and JAMES WILSON, were arrested at the Erie Railway depot yesterday, while attempting to work at their nefarious business. On their persons were found several "checks" for amounts varying from hundreds to thousands, also a supply of $20 gold pieces which they were very solicitous to exchange with the immigrants for their equivalent in greenbacks. The accused will have a hearing today.

The trial of DENIS MCGROTTY for the killing of ROBERT HARTMANN, at Lafayette, upward of a year since, was concluded yesterday, the jury rendering a verdict of acquittal. This is the second trial for MCGROTTY, the jury having disagreed on the previous one last Summer. Mr. LEON ABBOTT defended the prisoner. The latter was warmly greeted by his many friends on leaving the Court.

One of the night watchmen employed at the Central Railroad Depot, states that early yesterday morning he obtained a pretty distinct view of a river pirate rifling a box of goods on the pier. He drew his revolver and fired, but he reached his boat ahead of the watchman, in which were seven companions. He thinks he wounded the pirate, as he could hear him groan for a long distance.

A terrible blasting accident occurred on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, near Passaic, on Thursday. The blast failed to explode as expected, and the men approached to examine it, when it suddenly exploded, killing instantly one of the men, a Hollander, tearing his head from his body, and seriously injuring others of the party.

Early yesterday morning, a miserable-looking man named PETER MCINTOSH, entered the Third Police Precinct of Jersey City, and said he was Gen. GRANT on a mission, canvassing for re-election. On examining his person, a stab wound was discovered on the breast, which he said he inflicted while looking for an insect he swallowed.

Late on Thursday evening, a fisherman named IRA W. PIERSON, residing in the township of Whippany, near Morristown, was accidentally drowned in the Whippany River, by stepping into a deep hole of which he was unaware. It is supposed he also got entangled in the net which he was hauling.

Another destructive fire is reported in South Jersey. It commenced in Oyster Creek, below Tom's River, and swept northward for ten miles, burning a space of five miles in width. Seven thousand acres of wooded land were burned over, and no estimate can be made of the loss, which is exceedingly heavy.
